Will Rogers Remarks:

SANTA MONICA, Dec. 14. [To the Editor of The Times:] When somebody calls you "names," and there is no truth in it, and you know that everybody knows there is no truth in it, why you naturally don't pay any attention to it. You just laugh it off, but if what they call you is hitting at the truth and kinder getting you in your weak spot, why you start hollering and denouncing it at once. Well, last week Mr. Hoover said the boys in the Senate are playing politics at human expense. Did the boys laugh it off? Not quite, so figure out the answer yourself.

Yours,

WILL ROGERS.

Slaughter of Inhabitants by Communists Reported

Three Gun'boats Bearing Marines on Way to Aid Americans

HONGKONG, (China) Dec. 14. (AP)—A detachment of 160 Cantonese troops today was being rushed to Hainan Island, South China, to protect American and British missionaries who yesterday were reported in danger due to a Communist uprising.

A force of 600 troops already has arrived at Hoichow, Hainan Island, and it was hoped to suppress the uprising completely.

HANKOW, Dec. 14. (AP)—Capture of two Hunan Province cities with a general slaughter of the inhabitants was credited to Chinese Communists in reports received here tonight.

Foreign ships, plying the Yangtse River near Shansi, reported Lichow, one of the important cities of Hunan and Tsingshih had fallen into the hands of the Reds, who perpetrated a ruthless massarce of the population. Details were almost completely lacking. The reports said the Communists indicated they planned to push their operations north of the Yangtse River and attack the important river town of Shansi in Hupeh Province.

Tsingshih had been under fire for

GIRL KILLED BY AUTO AND BROTHER INJURED

LODI, Dec. 14. (AP)—Ruth Ulmer, 14 years of age, was killed, and her 16-year-old brother, Sam Ulmer, was probably fatally injured near here early today, when they were returning from a Lodi dance to their Oakland home. Their automobile failed to make a turn and went into the ditch.

FRAUD TRAIL FOLLOWED

Beesemyer Cash Clews Sought

Officials Hint at Theory of "Hush Money" Paid Out to Balk Revelation

Admitted Swindler Cannot Explain Where Some of Stolen Funds Went

Possibility that a portion of the sums taken through the admitted defalcations of Gilbert H. Beesemyer, secretary-manager of the Guaranty Building and Loan Association, may have been used by the confessed swindler as "hush money" to prevent his fund-juggling activities from becoming known was under investigation yesterday.

The inquiry swung into this channel due to the inability of Beesemyer to explain the withdrawal of large sums at regular periods, investigators said. Furthermore, officials of the District Attorney's office stated, a great amount of the money admittedly taken by Beesemyer cannot be traced into the purchase of property or other business channels.

Books seized by the authorities also disclosed during yesterday's examination that various persons had been paid large sums by Beesemyer out of proportion with the duties which they were performing. Many thousands of dollars, the books disclose, went to various persons who will be called upon today and tomorrow to explain why they got the money and what they did with it.

EXPLANATION SOUGHT

From Dist.-Atty. Fitts and Chief Deputy Stewart in active charge of the investigation, it was learned yesterday that one man, known as a close business associate of Beesemyer, will be called today to account for thousands of dollars which appear on some of the seized books as having been paid to him.

Other huge sums which show on Beesemyer's books as having been paid to the Elmer Oil Company, which was under the active management of Earl N. Moore, and owned by Beesemyer, now are being traced through the somewhat muddled accounts of the oil company which were seized by the authorities Saturday morning.

To what extent the oil company, its management and operation had contributed to Beesemyer's defalcations could not be learned yesterday, but Beesemyer in his confession to the grand jury has already admitted that more than $2,000,000 of the missing funds went into the oil company.

Eleven dry holes in the deep zone in Santa Fe Springs were drilled with the building and loan association's money, according to various officials investigating the books, and a number of other wells described as "wildcats," and which never produced any oil, also went down with money taken by Beesemyer from the deposits of the loan company and handed over to the oil concern.

In one wild splurge of drilling five wells were spudded in on a piece of property in Santa Fe Springs at one time and drilled into the deep zones only to prove worthless, according to the Elmer Oil Company records, and the drilling program outlined by Beesemyer for his oil company, experts say, was larger that many major oil companies' drilling schedules.

MORE SOUGHT

While the various sets of books already in the hands of the authorities yesterday continued to reveal amazing transactions mostly financed with money taken by Beesemyer, deputy sheriffs continued to search for Moore, who was in charge of the oil company's operations, to serve him with paper in attachment proceedings brought against the oil company.

Today Moore will also be asked to explain to investigators of the District Attorney the financial set-up of the Elmer Oil Company and just how the money poured into that company by Beesemyer was spent.

While the authorities continue their investigation Beesemyer himself will be taken into court today and arraigned. The arraignment has been set for 10 a.m. and probably will be before Superior Judge Wood.

TIME TO BE ASKED

Beesemyer will ask for additional time before entering a plea to the indictment charging ten counts of embezzlement when he appears for arraignment before Judge Woods this morning, according to announcement made by Clarence Beesemyer, his brother, last night.

"At present my brother intends to enter a plea of guilty to the

AID FOR DEPOSITORS URGED

Whitmore Will Ask Banks to Enable Patrons of Guaranty Building and Loan to Get Cash

An appeal to the Los Angeles Clearinghouse for immediate aid for holders of deposit certificates in the Guaranty Building and Loan Association of Hollywood will be made today by Charles A. Whitmore, State Building and Loan Commissioner.

In announcing the plan last night, which he termed a measure to relieve the distress that has suddenly come upon the thousands of patrons of the organization, Mr. Whitmore explained he will propose that member banks of the Clearinghouse underwrite the certificates of the loan association to the extent that twenty-five per cent of their face value may be turned into cash at once.

"I do not know whether such a plan will be feasible or not," Mr. Whitmore added, "but surely there is some way in which the banks of Los Angeles or the several building and loan companies can find a way to advance at least twenty-five per cent of the face value of these certificates.

"Such a plan will relieve in a great measure the terrible distress

WIDE AREA OF MIDWEST GETS SNOW

Parts of Colorado, Kansas and Oklahoma Put on Yuletide Cover of White

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 14. (AP)—Snow fell in parts of Oklahoma, Colorado and Kansas today, spreading a Christmas season atmosphere with a lavish hand.

Lowering temperatures, sleet and wind in some instances accompanied the snow, the first general precipitation since the premature winter storms of a month ago.

Snow fell heavily in Arkansas City, Kan., measuring four inches at nightfall. At Harper, Kan., a foot of snow covered the ground after a three-hour storm, and Wichita was blanketed with two inches of flakes at dusk.

Many northern and western cities of Oklahoma had sleet or snow, scaling down from two inches at Boise City, on the tip of the Oklahoma Panhandle. In the eastern and central sections the weather was unsettled and cold.

Snow fell in Denver, stopping shortly after noon. A flurry fell in Kansas City.

Aviatrix Safe in Plane Smash

JACKSONVILLE (Fla.) Dec. 14. (AP)—Mrs. J. M. Keith-Miller, Australian aviatrix, today cracked up her plane in attempting to take off from here for Washington. The plane was demolished, but Mrs. Keith-Miller was unhurt. She remained here to await instructions from her advisers who had taken off earlier in another plane. The accident was reported caused by failure of the motor shortly after the plane had left the ground.

Italian Flight Postponed by Raging Storms

ORBETELLO (Italy) Dec. 15. (Monday) (AP)—Gen. Italo Balbo's South American flight with a flotilla of twelve seaplanes, which was to have begun this morning, was postponed at midnight until tomorrow or Wednesday because of severe storms raging over the Mediterranean.

At the same time Gen. Balbo told the Associated Press the South American flight will be a test for a flight from Rome to New York next year, with the same planes and pilots participating.

In the meantime, fourteen planes tonight rode out the storm on Orbetello Lake. Only twelve will make the long trip, the other two to go as far as Bolama as repair or replacement units.

Trapped Hound Crawls Deeper From Rescuers

MT. PLEASANT (Iowa) Dec. 14. (AP)—Rescuers late tonight succeeded in blasting out a ten-foot rock that was the last impediment to the releasing of Bingo, the tiny fox hound confined in a subterranean prison near Oakland Mills since Wednesday, but the frightened dog raced back underground and failed to respond to the insistent pleas of his master, Lawrence Mills.

The hound chased a raccoon into the hillside hole Wednesday night. The hunters, spurred by the victory yelps of the dog, stampeded about the opening. The earth slipped. The opening filled up. The hound was trapped.

Britain Today Pays Uncle Sam $94,390,000

LONDON, Dec. 14. (AP)—The British government tomorrow will pay $94,390,000 to the United States Treasury.

Of this sum, says an official announcement, $28,000,000 is for repayment of principal of the British debt to the United States and the remainder is interest.

With this payment the total remittances from Great Britain to the United States since the funding of the British debt amount to $1,285,750,000, of which $202,000,000 is for repayment of principal. The amount outstanding now is reduced to $4,398,000,000.

BEND (Or.) Dec. 14. (AP) — Estel, 3 years of age, and Burneva, 1, boy and girl of Mr. and Mrs. Fred McDaniel, were burned to death here last night in a fire that destroyed the family home.

Mrs. McDaniel had put the children to bed and had gone to the home of her next-door neighbor. When she was about to leave she saw her home was in flames. Firemen fought their way into the blazing house but the children were dead when they reached them.

PARAMOUNT PLAYHOUSES SOLD TO FOX

Seven Theaters in Coast Cities Transferred to Rival, Says Manager

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 14. (AP)—A. M. Bowles, division manager of the Fox West Coast Theaters, announced today the completion of a $20,000,000 transaction in which seven Pacific Coast theaters were acquired by his organization from the Paramount-Publix Corporation.

The transaction involves three theaters in San Francisco, one under construction in Oakland, two in Portland, Or., and one in Seattle.

The transaction, Bowles said, was completed at a meeting last night in New York between Harley L. Clarke, president of Fox, Oscar Oldknow, vice-president, and Harry C. Arthur, eastern Fox executive, representing the Fox interests, with Adolph Zukor, Sidney R. Kent and Sam Katz, officials of the Paramount-Publix organizations.

Bowles said the deal also included arrangements for Fox West Coast to exhibit Paramount pictures in Pacific Coast theaters. Fox West Coast will take over the operation of the properties on January 1.

The theaters in San Francisco are the Paramount, California and St. Francis, in Portland the Paramount and the Rialto, and the Paramount in Seattle. The Oakland theater has not been named.

Einstein Hears Opera and Visits Caruso Statue

NEW YORK, Dec. 14. (AP)—Prof. Albert Einstein, whose theories on relativity have baffled the world, was the subject of numerous pulpit discussions today as the German scientist himself spent a comparatively quiet Sabbath. He, with his wife, sails tomorrow night on the liner Belgenland for California, his American goal.

During the morning he remained in his stateroom, but emerged to attend a concert of the Metropolitan Opera Company in the afternoon and made a short address before the new Historic Society at night. Between these two appearances he paid tribute at the statue of Caruso.

TEN LIVES BELIEVED TOLL AS EXPLOSION SINKS SHIP

Hundred and Twenty-five Persons Saved After Blast Wrecks Boat Near Miami Beach, Fla.

MIAMI BEACH (Fla.) Dec. 14. (AP)—Three persons drowned, and seven were believed to have perished tonight when the "see-bottom" excursion boat Eureka II burned and sank fifteen miles south of here.

One hundred and twenty-five persons of a holiday crowd of 135 that jammed the two decks of the vessel were picked up by other boats and brought here and to Miami after they had jumped into the sea to escape an explosion and fire.

Survivors told graphic tales of the disaster that ended the excursion into Florida's marine gardens.

Tiny fishing boats and yachts of winter residents here hurried to the assistance of shipwrecked passengers as they floundered about in the wreckage-filled waters.

Boat after boat was loaded to capacity with the survivors.

Men, women and children who a few minutes before had gazed at the submarine marvels of the marine gardens joined in a panic that swept the Eureka II from prow to stern as the fire was discovered.

The vessel was returning to Miami when an engineer discovered smoke pouring from the engine room. A moment later came a cry for fire extinguishers.

Before the startled passengers realized their plight flames licked rapidly into the paneling of the boat.

Then came an explosion.

Panic-stricken passengers rushed from one end of the craft to the other, crying futilely for lifeboats. Not one was on the boat, survivors said.

TWO DEAD IDENTIFIED

Life preservers were torn from their hangings, the survivors related here, and hastily donned as the flames gained headway.

The passengers jumped from the two decks of the Eureka II into ten feet of water. All were said to have worn preservers.

Bodies of two of the known three dead persons were identified.

One was identified by papers in his coat pocket, as H. C. Grimm, 60 years of age, of 524 Main street, McCook, Neb., a baggage master for the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad.

The second man was identified as Clarence Vine, 30, Haverhill, Mass., a deckhand on the Eureka II.

The third body was that of a woman. Undertakers said she was between 50 and 60 years of age, weighed about 175 pounds and wore a wedding ring with the initials "W. V. L."

Names of three missing persons were given to police tonight. They are Frank J. Keefe, Providence, R. I., and J. S. Haig, Pomona, Cal., and Mary Holler, Milwaukee, Wis.

Thirty passengers, picked up by the yacht Dorothea, were brought here. The others, men, women and children, were said by the Dorothea's crew to be swimming about in an attempt to save their lives in the early darkness as the Dorothea left to come here for assistance.

PICKET BOATS TO RESCUE

The three picket boats from the Fort Lauderdale Coast Guard base and numerous small vessels from here were rushed immediately to the scene of the explosion.

D. E. Barrett, owner of the yacht Dorothea, told of hearing the explosion and seeing the fire from a point where he was fishing ten miles away. He immediately ordered the boat put to the assistance of the Eureka II.

"As we approached in the coming darkness, we saw men, women and children floundering about in the water in frantic efforts to save themselves," he said.

"We took on every person the Dorothea could possibly carry without sinking, and went to Miami Beach," Barrett said.

Barrett's story revealed the pitiful attempts by the passengers of the exploded boat to get on the Dorothea.

"One man, holding a baby in his arms as he swam about, pulled himself to the side of the Dorothea and begged that the child be taken aboard," Barrett related.

"Don't save me, but save the baby," Barrett said the man pleaded.

Barrett thought 150 persons were in the water.

Arthur S. Deen, Reading, Pa., winter visitor here, was one of the passengers rescued by the Dorothea. He said he thought there were more than 100 passengers, all of whom were blown or jumped into the water.

"Smoke began coming from the engine-room as we sailed along," he said. "Then there was an explosion, followed immediately by two more. Flames began to leap out of the engine-room.

"The craft began to go to pieces, it looked like. It rocked and

SLOW TRADE RISE SEEN

Recovery Signs Due in Spring

Cleveland Financier Expects Cost of Living in 1931 to Be Lower Than in 1930

Three Reasons Assigned for International Depression, All Inter-related

CLEVELAND, Dec. 14. (AP)—Col. Leonard P. Ayres, vice-president of the Cleveland Trust Company, in an analysis of 1931 business projects, issued today, expresses the belief that next year will be a period of slow business recovery.

"It now seems likely," he said, "that business recovery will begin as a combination of many minor improvements, and that it will be accompanied by the developments that normally occur in such a period. These should include rising trends for short-term interest rates, bond prices and stock prices, and advances before the end of the year in wholesale prices and industrial employment.

"Some increases over 1930 seem probable in building construction, iron and steel output, and the production of automobiles. The average levels for industrial wages, the cost of living, and the cost of building will probably be lower for 1931 than for 1930.

"Increases are probable in our export and import trade, the net profits of railroads and utilities, and, unfortunately, in the total number of insolvencies."

WELL DEVELOPED CYCLE

The history of business cycles for a great many years, he said, has been an irregular progression through the phases of prosperity, decline, depression, recovery, and back to prosperity.

The country at present, he said, is well along in depression and he expressed the opinion that evidences of the beginning of recovery will be apparent in the spring.

He listed three reasons that have been advanced as causes of the international depression, and declared any one of the three would have been sufficient to bring the period of prosperity to an end.

"One," he said, "was the international race to increase production and capture markets. The second was the breaking down of price control schemes, which seriously contributed to the collapse of commodity values. The third was the period of acute credit stringency.

"All three of them were inter-related, and each one of them had effects of varying importance in different countries. Industry and agriculture depend upon trade, and the multiple currents of trade are inter-related and mutually dependent. They obey no central directing force, except the blind law of price, and this year the old relationships between the prices of raw materials, and finished products, and services, and credit, have been seriously disrupted and now new relationships are being slowly worked out.

"It is already clear we are not warranted in expecting a rapid recovery from this depression. During the closing months of last year and the early months of this one we went through most of the phases of a normal minor reaction, even including the early symptoms of recovery. Beginning with last summer we have been experiencing a major depression, and business has not yet developed trustworthy evidences of improvement. It seems probable that the duration of the depression will be extended to include what might be termed the normal span of a minor depression plus the normal span of a major one."

CHILD BUREAU FALLS SHORT

Miss Abbott Reports Failures Along With Gains in Asking for More Assistants

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14. (AP)—Summary of what her bureau "has not been able to do" was made along with the list of 1930 accomplishments in the annual report of Miss Grace Abbott, chief of the children's bureau.

"More than in any previous year," said Miss Abbott, "the bureau has been unable to comply with requests from public and private agencies for State-wide or local investigations, for consultation in the field, for summaries of material in the files of the bureau, and for other kinds of assistance."

She asked additions to the technical and clerical staffs.

Among the accomplishments of the bureau during the year Miss Abbott listed:

A maternal mortality study in fifteen States "whose findings will form a cross-section of causes of maternal deaths in the United States which at present ranks below eight other nations in this respect."

A child-labor tabulation showing a general increase in 1929.

A study of Juvenile Court statistics from ninety-six courts covering more than 46,000 delinquency cases.

Planning of group play programs for rural communities.

A study of rickets in New Haven, Ct., and a study of health of infants and preschool children in Porto Rico.

TRAIL OF FRAUD MONEY TRACED

Beesemyer Unable to Tell Where It All Went

Officials Hint at New Theory in Quest for Clews

charges against him," declared Mr. Beesemyer last night. "There has been no change in his plans as far as I know. However, we believe that the indictment should be studied before a plea is made, and it is possible that an attorney will be engaged later for him."

When the loan company manager was first arrested he announced that he did not wish an attorney and intended to enter a plea of guilt as soon as possible.

BEESEMYER NERVOUS

Despite reports to the contrary, Beesemyer denied yesterday that since his confession that he has "slept like a child," in his jail tank, relieved for the first time in five years of the secret of his embezzlements.

"I can't get it off my mind; I feel like a man who has worked a long time without any rest," he said.

Nervously, the broken financier described his feelings. Continually the thread of his conversation was broken as his eyes wandered off into space, as though he conjured up greater trouble ahead from some as yet unrevealed source.

"I wish this thing would die down," he said; "the notoriety is not going to help the situation any."

FULL BLAME TAKEN

"I know everybody thinks that I had an accomplice in this matter, but I didn't," he commented finally. "No one is to blame but me."

Repeatedly he made this assertion, a statement to which he has adhered with vigor since the moment of his confession and arrest.

"None of my employees knew what was actually going on," he continued. "They just did what I told them."

With equal heat he denied that Moore, his associate in the oil company, could have suspected that he was furnishing money stolen from the loan company.

"Have they located Moore yet?" he asked. "He is all right. We spent a lot of money in a drilling program, and some of the wells were dry, but now we have five producing in the Venice area, and they are going to make up for a lot of our losses. I signed these over to the Guaranty company and if they take their time these wells ought to prove fine assets."

He displayed considerable interest in reports that the directors of the Bank of Hollywood have formulated a plan of reorganization which the directors think would be acceptable to State Superintendent of Banks Wood.

"I hope the bank will get on its feet; it ought to," he commented.

MISTAKE CHARGED

Asked whether the Bank of Hollywood ever received the $238,343.65 which appeared credited to the institution under date of the 5th inst. in Beesemyer's "little black book" of the embezzled funds, he said that the bank had not received the money.

"It was never delivered and the sum was not taken from the assets of the loan company," he declared. "The entry should not have appeared in the book; it was a mistake."

It was made known yesterday that Richard Hyde, chief accountant of the Beverly Hills branch of the Guaranty Building and Loan Association, is a son-in-law of Charles A. Whitmore, State Building and Loan Commissioner.

Mr. Whitmore in stating that his son-in-law is chief accountant of the branch, bitterly assailed the publicity attendant on the disclosure that the home in which he resides is owned by the Guaranty concern.

"Yes," he said, "my son-in-law, Richard Hyde, is the chief accountant at the Beverly Hills branch; but what of it? If all of the employees of the Guaranty Building and Loan Association had done their work as faithfully and as cleanly as Dick, there never would have been this gigantic defalcation."

Despite Mr. Whitmore's statement in regard to his son-in-law's employment, the employment of any relative of the commissioner in the Beverly Hills branch of the Guaranty association was flatly denied by R. F. Dupuy, manager of the office.

"No," he said, "we are not employing any son, nor any relative of Mr. Whitmore. What business is it of the public anyway, who we employ?"

Mr. Whitmore declared that he is being made the political scapegoat of the incoming State administration.

"How many people," he asked, know that I took office a year ago, and that my first official act was to call for a financial statement from every building and loan association in the State?

CALL RELATED

"The fact is that every company in the State with the exception of the Guaranty Building and Loan Association filed this statement with the department. When the statement from the latter company was not received, I personally called upon Mr. Beesemyer for it and then sent our examiner, Mr. Shaw, into the company for an investigation. Everyone knows the result.

"I cannot understand all of this outcry against me. The defalcations have been going on for five years. I have been in office for only one and it was through the work that my examiners did that the thefts were discovered."

The "system" of State supervision, which he described as entirely inadequate to watch newly formed companies, was blamed by Mr. Whitmore for the delay in the discovery of the true condition in the Guaranty company.

United States District Judge Cosgrove will consider today a plea by creditors of the loan company to grant a petition of involuntary bankruptcy against the organization. Attorneys Lewinson and Granger, who filed the petition, asked that Building and Loan Commissioner Whitmore be removed from control of the loan company's assets, and a receiver be appointed in his place.

SKY MISSILES EXPLAINED

Plane Moulting Engine Parts Over Harlem Roofs Caused Accident, Aerial Police Find

NEW YORK, Dec. 14. (Exclusive)—The aviation unit of the New York police department searched out and explained completely today the mysterious aircraft accident which resulted in a crash of metal through a Harlem roof top and slight injuries to Adele Rismaid.

A patrolman-pilot who took off from the aerial police station at Glenn Curtiss airport took the license number of the plane, NC—526. Then he flew back to North Beach and looked up the number. He learned that the plane was registered in the name of Harry Gardner and that its home port was Flushing. The flying policemen again took the air and landed at the Flushing field, where he encountered Edward Reith, a transport pilot.

Reith said he had been flying the plane with Gardner and a friend as passengers. At 2000 feet over Harlem, Reith said, he lost a cylinder and piston as well as part of the cowling. With his crippled engine he sought the nearest emergency landing field and came down in one of the small cultivated patches on Ward's Island.

that has come with the closing of the Guaranty company and I have every hope that it will be worked out."

MORE TIME GIVEN BANK FOR REORGANIZATION

OAKLAND, Dec. 14. (AP)—Officers will have until the 22nd inst. to complete plans for reorganization of the Bank of Hollywood, which closed its doors last Monday. The extension was granted today by State Superintendent of Banks Wood on the request of bank officials.

The bank's assets are sufficient to return depositors almost if not all of their money, Wood said. But because liquidation would cause delay he is anxious to have the bank reorganized so there will be no delay in making funds available to depositors.

If a satisfactory reorganization plan is not worked out by the 22nd inst., the bank superintendent said, he will order liquidation of assets.

"The State Banking Department has completed its inventory of the assets of the Bank of Hollywood," he said. "The inventory checks with the Daily Statement of the bank under date of the 6th inst., the last day of operation. No assets listed in the Daily Statement are missing.

"Our estimate of the losses in the loans and in the bonds account of the bank is about $300,000. The losses in loans are due to the insolvency or inability of certain borrowers to pay their debts to the bank, while the losses of the bonds account are due to depreciation.

"In case of liquidation it is probable there will be little if any loss to depositors. However, liquidation would extend over several years with dividends paid from time to time as the bank's assets are disposed.

"I am anxious to avoid liquidation if possible so as to save depositors from delay in getting their money. The only way to avoid liquidation is to effect reorganization of the bank under a board of directors and management that will command community confidence. The bank must also have a large sum of money contributed by those who reorganize it.

"Some progress in the way of reorganization has been made and I have been asked by the officers of the bank to give further time for working out reorganization plans. I have extended the time until Monday, the 22nd inst., at which time I shall consider any plan proposed by the board of directors. If no satisfactory plan is presented or in prospect at that time I shall order the bank into liquidation."

DEXTER RESERVES PUBLIC STATEMENT

G. R. Dexter, president of the Bank of Hollywood, in discussing the reorganization plans for reopening the institution last night, said that he will make no statement concerning the matter until the arrival here today of State Superintendent of Banks Woods.

LEGION NOT ASKING CASH FOR BONUS

Lower Interest on Loans and Pay for Disabled Present Program

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14. (Exclusive)—The legislative committee of the American Legion in announcing the program it will sponsor in the present session of Congress today virtually eliminated from consideration proposals for immediate cash payment of adjusted service certificates.

Although a score of bills providing the certificates be cashed to aid in relieving the economic distress have been introduced, the Legion committee pointed out that the recent attack on the plan by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon makes it likely that such legislation "will have little chance of enactment at the present session."

The Legion, however, will put up a fight for reduction of the interest rate to 4 per cent on adjusted compensation loans and for full payments to permanently and totally disabled veterans and to dependents of deceased veterans, the committee announced.

Premier's Daughter Sends Radio Caution to Welfare Workers of America

NEW YORK, Dec. 14. (Exclusive) Criticism of social welfare work designed to alleviate only temporarily distress that hits members of a community was voiced today by Miss Ishbel MacDonald, daughter of the British Prime Minister, in a talk broadcast throughout the United States. Miss MacDonald spoke from England but her address was directed only to the American audience.

Miss MacDonald spoke of the Christmas party where the poor are entertained by the rich, and good cheer and happiness reigns for a few hours, but ends with the party.

"Some so-called social work is like that Christmas party," Miss MacDonald said. "It leads to nothing. A great deal of energy is put into it, a great deal of paid and voluntary labor, and the result is not worth the labor.

"This is not what I call social service."

Lingle was shot down in a pedestrian subway six months ago.

SPAIN'S CROWN SITS SECURELY

Conditions Misrepresented, Says John McGroarty

King Strong Man and Idol of Vast Majority

European War, However, Bound to Come Shortly

BY JOHN STEVEN McGROARTY

JOHN STEVEN McGROARTY

Current dispatches from Spain and other European countries published in American newspapers do not, in my judgment, portray conditions over there in a true light for the American mind to digest. And this is unfortunate because the whole civilized world is closely knit together in our day and generation in what might be well called an international community of interest. We have come upon a time in the history of civilization when the nations of the world find themselves actually forced into interdependence, and it is a situation that cannot be evaded.

TRUTH NECESSARY

So, if this be true, it is very necessary, obviously, that world conditions, whatever they may happen to be at any and all times, should be universally known toward the end that intelligent judgment may be rendered and effective action taken—if action be at all possible, which sometimes it is not.

Take Spain, for instance, from which country and other European countries I have just returned.

It seems to have been, and apparently still is, the favorite indoor sport of foreign newspaper correspondents to picture Spain as a country sitting on an ever-smoldering volcano ready to erupt at any moment. A tottering monarchy presided over by a weak and vacillating King. A government shivering in its boots at every howl of challenging revolutionists.

FALSE PICTURE

Nothing could be farther from the truth. The plain truth is that, with the possible exceptions of France and England among the world powers, no nation of Europe sits more serenely and secure than Spain. Its form of government is a constitutional monarchy, the next thing to a democracy, and, in very many respects, a far better form of government than a democracy. Spain is a free country and still a great country, inhabited by the most courteous and best mannered people in the world. And even now, in the face of world-wide economic depression, the wolf of want is not snarling at its door.

As to the King of Spain, I would say from a brief but close and intimate observance of him that he is an ideal ruler for his country, particularly now, with world conditions as they are. He is "every inch a king," born to the purple and an honor to the ancient splendor of the crown he wears.

AT CLOSE RANGE

It was my pleasant fortune to have been with Alfonso XIII for the better part of a whole day in his palace and at the University of Madrid. I had him at close range. And, during other days in Madrid, I had every opportunity in the world, as a newspaper observer, to become informed on true conditions in Spain.

King Alfonso is a strong man, with a proverbial sane mind in a strong body. He is fond of the out-of-doors, of healthy sport and athletics. He is a good polo player, a yachtsman, hunter and fisherman. Besides that, and doubtless of far greater importance, he has a mind of his own and a clear, far-seeing mind it is. He knows the science of statesmanship, a proof of which is that he kept his country out of grief and trouble when the rest of the world went rampant crazy. He is master in his own house. He is brave and fearless.

FEW BUT NOISY

It is true enough that Spain is afflicted, as all other European nations and America as well, are afflicted with Communists, revolutionists and anarchists. But, the difference is that these elements are less effective in Spain than in any other country. They are able to attract unwarranted importance, thanks to the weird imaginations of foreign newspaper correspondents.

There is always the man to be dealt with, and the Spanish radicals have Alfonso XIII to deal with. They do not look for him to lay down and abdicate as the King of Portugal did. They know his mettle and respect it with a very wholesome respect. In their hearts they admire him immensely. They say that the King is all right, himself, but, just the same, they really must have a republic. And that's the worst thing that could befall Spain, now, at any rate.

Alfonso is still young, in the very prime of life. He will not be 45 until next May. He is only arriving at the full strength of his physical and mental power. A revolution has him to reckon with. And, in my judgment, formed deliberately from a full survey of the field, it stands no chance so long as the King lives and remains anywhere near the man he is now. On top of which he is adored by 90 per cent of his people.

STATE OF EUROPE

The most amazing statement from a responsible source that came to my ears concerning the state of Europe while I was there was made by Mussolini in a speech delivered by him at a military review in Rome on October 28, last.

The occasion was in celebration of the eighth anniversary of the march on Rome by the Fascisti. The day was observed as a holiday throughout Italy.

The astounding statement in Signor Mussolini's speech was this: "By 1950 Europe will be wrinkled and decrepit. The only youthful country will be Italy. They will come from beyond the frontier to study this phenomenon of the springtime of a people. Our friendships and alliances, which today have an absolute value, will, therefore, be understood."

MUSSOLINI'S IDEA

So, if you care to take Signor Mussolini for it, you have the state of Europe plainly before you. All Europe, except Italy, will be "wrinkled and decrepit" twenty years from now. Only Italy will be young and strong. England, France, Germany and all the rest of them will be old, senile, on crutches, down and out and done for.

But Signor Mussolini must be taken with due allowance. He has done wonders so far, but there is a road still to travel. It does not appear that France and England, at least, have any idea whatever, of laying down to die, or even becoming "wrinkled and decrepit."

STILL THEY COME

As a matter of fact, the problem of Italy is almost the most serious problem of all. It already has a population of 41,000,000, which is far too great. It is no small struggle to make the "root" feed that many mouths. In order to do so "the territory must be utilized to the last clod of earth," as Mussolini stated in the speech referred to. And many more mouths are coming along to be fed. The Italians like big families, many children. And they keep having them, right along. The church favors big families, many children. And they are a delight to look upon, surely. Beautiful children and beautifully dressed, as I saw them.

But, what does Signor Mussolini propose to do about it? The answer is that he must have more room. And how is he to get more room?

He can get it only through war. He knows that. He says so with many a rattle of the saber. Witness this further excerpt from the speech of October 28:

WAR IN OFFING

"Preparations for material warfare are being speeded up on our frontiers." (Referring to France.) "Here is the list of batteries placed in position, forts constructed, arms predisposed and consigned. Can the alarm sounded to arouse the Italian people be long delayed?"

There it stands, only a little way in the offing—the next European war. It may be delayed a year, or maybe two. But, there it is. And it appears inevitable. It may break tomorrow.

Mussolini's hope is in an alliance with Germany and Russia. Opposed to that will be France and England. France is relentlessly determined to crush Germany, once and for all. Now is the time to strike, for Germany will never be more helpless than she is now.

FRANCE CAP-A-PIE

Russia is in a state of chaotic mobbery. France is in great shape for a fight. Plenty of money and a huge, trained army, fully equipped and ready for action at a moment's notice. England is not yet a wreck. She has her navy. Together, it would look as though they can make short work of the coming war.

All this is what the careful observer on the ground can scarcely fail to see. It would seem as though the League of Nations, the United States of Europe, the various societies for the coming of the millenium, and all well-wishers of humanity must wait a while longer for their dreams to come true.

OIL DRILL HITS FRIGID AIR

Compressed Gas Comes Out and Covers Derrick With Strange Frozen Moisture

SNYDER (Tex.) Dec. 14. (Exclusive)—One of the greatest mysteries in Texas to geologists, that of the source and cause of the frigid compressed air which comes from wells in the section around Snyder, has been heightened by the bringing in of another well of enormous compressed air flow in a new locality five miles from the other wells. The latest discovery was made in a test for oil that was being drilled by Seifert, Dibble & Blackburn. The air stratum was encountered at a depth of 1171 feet. The air rushed out of the hole with a tremendous roar and quickly covered the derrick with frozen moisture.

REPUBLICAN LEADERS ARRESTED IN MADRID

MADRID, Dec. 14. (AP)—Several of the most prominent figures in the Republican and extremist movements in Spain were arrested here tonight as a precautionary measure against a general strike or any other subversive movement following the execution of rebel leaders.

Those arrested include Alcal Zamora, a former Cabinet Minister; Eduardo Ordga y Gasset, a prominent Socialist, and Miguel Maura, former Congressman and son of the late Antonio Maura, one time Spanish Premier.

In Barcelona a number of leaders in the Catalan independent movement also were arrested. Reports from Valencia told of the arrests of several well-known Republicans.

The wife of Maj. Ramon Franco, noted Spanish flyer who escaped from a Madrid prison, was taken into custody yesterday when she voiced objections to the constant police surveillance of her home. After questioning at police headquarters, she was released and permitted to return home.

CIVILIAN INSURGENTS FLEEING TO FRANCE

PAU (France) Dec. 14. (AP)—Civilian insurgents have been trickling across the frontier from Jaca and Canfranc since yesterday but no uniformed soldiers have as yet been reported trying to enter France.

The civilians appeared quite hazy as to outcome of the revolt except they agreed Jaca no longer was a healthy place for them to remain.

The government is reported to have more than 20,000 troops within striking distance of Jaca. The general impression here is that the attempted revolt has been a complete failure.

REVOLT CALLED UPRISING OF REDS

[Copyright 1930 by the Press Publishing Co.]

MADRID, Dec. 14. (Exclusive)—The Red flag of Communism is flying in the Pyrenees where a few hundred artillerymen and infantrymen together with the workers of the region started a rebellion.

The outbreak of the rebellion in the garrison at Jaca appears to have been one of the spontaneous uprisings for liberty for which the mountain region is known. But actually it was a carefully prepared movement with its origin in Barcelona and having ramifications reaching as far as Moscow. It was not a mere republican move to get rid of King Alfonso and establish a republic. It was not a mere political revolt but a move in social revolution.

It was part of a movement which was organized in Barcelona through the anarcho-syndicalist labor movement and would pass rather as a Communist uprising, as the purposes of the Spanish anarcho-syndicalist movement are closely akin to those of the soviet.

The local revolutionary committee which the rebels set up in Jaca is about the same as what the Bolshevists set up in early efforts in Russia and the Spartikis, after the war, in the Ruhr and in other parts of Germany. They are frankly Red in their conception of republicanism as being sovietism.

The labor union federation in Madrid is pitted against anarcho-syndicalists in Barcelona and they might be considered the only two nationally organized bodies which have succeeded in surviving Primo De Rivera's years of dictatorship.

The old political parties are all broken down so there is no normal, or organized, political middle ground.

The rebels in the Pyrenees were convinced that all Spain was rising against the monarchy and the color-bearers of the revolt, three non-commissioned officers, rushed toward the oncoming Federal troops with cries of "Long live the republic."

Taken prisoners they said that the reports had come to them that the uprising was general.

Daughter Engaged to Son of Gen. Saltzman

Announcement Expected by Washington Society

Date of Wedding and Other Details Undecided

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—The Secretary of Commerce and Mrs. Lamont have announced the engagement of their daughter, Gertrude, to Charles Eskridge Saltzman, son of Gen. Charles McKinley Saltzman, U.S.A., and Mrs. Saltzman of this city. There is no date set for the wedding and no plans have been announced.

Society has been looking for this announcement for some time, as it has been a matter of rumor since last season. Miss Lamont came to Washington fresh from her graduation and became identified with the riding set, in which she is prominent. She is fond of athletics and of dogs, as well as horses. She has spent much time in New York with her sister, Mrs. Chauncey Belknap.

Young Mr. Saltzman was formerly a lieutenant in the Army and resigned to take up a business career. He is now connected with the telephone company.

The wedding is expected by their intimate friends to take place shortly, possibly before the first of the year.

PROHIBITION BOOKLET SUPPRESSION URGED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14 (AP)—Immediate suppression of the prohibition bureau's booklet, "The Value of Law Observance," was urged today by Representative La Guardia, Republican, New York, on the ground that it contains misrepresentations and misleading statements. The New Yorker made the request in a letter to Atty.-Gen. Mitchell. La Guardia said he was informed 50,000 copies had been printed at a cost $1800, and declared it to be a "waste of public funds."

Chamber Sees Calamity in Tariff Boosts

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 14. (Exclusive)—Warning that Mexico should remain within reason in raising her protective tariffs is contained in a letter from the Nuevo Leon Chamber of Commerce, Industry and Mining, to the Ministry of Finance here. The Nuevo Leon chamber contends that too high a tariff wall would lead to increased production costs, and that unless care is taken in regulating the tariff of each individual commodity, a depression might result.

The Nuevo Leon chamber has its seat in Monterrey, where most of Mexico's large industries are located.

TRADE SURVEY ENCOURAGING

Head of Hoover's Business Conference Reports

Industry Adapting Self to Conditions, Says Barnes

Increase in Fruit Shipments Cited as Hopeful

BY LAURENCE M. BENEDICT
"Times" Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14. (Exclusive)—Summarizing the business situation at the year's end, Julius H. Barnes, chairman of President Hoover's national business survey conference, said today that while the expectations held early in 1930 of greatly quickened trade have not wholly materialized there are many encouraging features.

"There is evidence," Mr. Barnes stated, "of many industries having adapted themselves to current conditions and having successfully balanced production and market consumption. Through many industries runs the evidence that management by various resourceful devices has maintained employment at a higher ratio than the statistical index of operations.

FRUIT SHIPPING GROWS

"Even during this recession, the aggregate volume of trade has manifestly been of large proportions and there are indications of individual industries successful beyond the average, either because of special conditions or because of management qualities, courage, initiative and enterprise which are typically American."

One of the hopeful signs seen by Mr. Barnes was an increase in fruit and vegetable shipments. His description of present conditions in various leading lines of business and industry is as follows:

The volume of short-term credit continues large. Rates charged customers at banks in important eastern centers averaged slightly more than 4 per cent, as against something more than 6 per cent in the corresponding part of 1929 and in southern and western centers around 5 per cent, against approximately 6 1-4 per cent.

Capital flotations excluding refunding issues, totaled $6,550,000,000 for the first eleven months of 1930, or about 31 per cent less than in the corresponding period of 1929. Bond issues exceeded those in the first eleven months of 1929 by 41 per cent, or more than $1,500,000,000 while stock issues of this year have been considerably less than last year, stock issues in the first eleven months of 1929 having been more than double the amount for such issues in the corresponding part of any earlier year.

SAVING DECREASE SMALLER

Saving deposits in banks reporting to the Savings Bank Association of the State of New York, decreased $4,300,000 in October, this decrease being seasonal and substantially less than in October for the last six years.

Reports from districts outside of New York indicate little net change in savings deposits during October, but some improvement when October, 1930, is compared with October, 1929. The only district for which November statistics are yet complete shows an increase over October, 1930, and November, 1929.

On the 1st inst., banks throughout the country had for distribution in excess of $600,000,000 in Christmas savings. It is estimated that approximately 38 per cent of these funds are used for Christmas spending, 30 per cent for permanent savings and the remainder for other commitments.

State building and loan associations in California, Illinois, Maine, New York and South Carolina have reported through their national association and show improvement in volume of savings, demand for loans and cash position.

Twenty other State associations show little change in November, with the volume of their business continuing somewhat below normal.

Collections have held up well, as a whole and conservative borrowing requirements are being met, according to the reports.

The most comprehensive information about credits and collections comes from a large number of local retail associations reporting through their national organization. The consensus of the reports is that collections are holding up well and are making a favorable showing in most lines.

CHINESE REDS RISE UP AGAIN

several days and at one time the Communists were reported to have burned part of the city and threatened death to the inhabitants for their resistance. Apparently the town's population which had manned the walls for days against the attack finally gave up and the Reds after pillaging moved on the near-by city of Lichow.

Meanwhile, Chinese press dispatches reported the Communists victorious against the government troops in a battle at Ningtu in Kiangsi Province. The report said the Reds had escaped into the mountains along the border of Kiangsi and Fukien provinces, taking 1000 Ningtu residents as captive hostages.

AMERICAN DESTROYER LEAVES FOR HOIHOW

CANTON, Dec. 14. (AP)—Authorities here said today recent disorders on the Island of Hainan were caused by the same groups of Communists who attempted to gain control of the government several months ago but were defeated by a force of Canton soldiers.

Reports received here before cable service between the island and Canton was severed, presumably by the Reds, said the important cities of Hoihow and Chiungshan were threatened and the Reds in control of several provinces. The naval headquarters here received cables from merchants and a magistrate in Hoihow asking additional troops be sent to cope with the menace.

Three gunboats bearing marines were en route to Hoihow and the Canton military headquarters also had dispatched troops. The American destroyer, Borie, left this morning for Hoihow to protect American nationals in that vicinity.

seemed as though it was sinking. Some of the passengers were blown into the water by the explosion, but when the boat started to sink the rest of us jumped in."

Deen said he had time to go below decks in the vessel between the time he first saw smoke and the time of the explosion.

"It undoubtedly was an explosion of gasoline for the engine," he said, "but aside from that I don't know what happened.

"All of a sudden there was a terrible wave of excitement as the explosion occurred. I don't know how far we were from shore, but it wasn't far."

Police said approximately a dozen fishing boats were dispatched from here immediately upon receipt of word from the Dorothea.

Three boats followed the Dorothea here or to Miami with survivors.

The stewardess of the yacht Josephine said she picked a small baby from the water.

The Eureka II was owned by Capt. Clarence Styles of Miami and was built on two pontoons with glass bottoms between the pontoons.

SUNDAY EXCURSIONISTS

The Eureka II had gone on its customary tour of near-by tropical waters with a Sunday boatload of excursionists. It was believed to be returning to Miami to disembark the passengers when the explosion occurred.

Fred G. Norman, New York City police sergeant, was a survivor with his wife and their 13-year-old son.

Norman said the boat was approximately two miles off Bug Light on the return trip to Miami.

"We had been headed back from the trip about twenty minutes. I looked at my watch when the first explosion occurred. It was 5:40 o'clock. My wife, son and I were on the upper deck when I saw some smoke pouring out of the engine-room," he said. "I rushed to the door, where I was met by a member of the crew. I told him, I think he was the engineer, to close the door.

CREW SEEMS "CRAZY"

"The whole crew seemed to be crazy.

"As I got to the door, flames began to lick up around the paneling.

"People began to rush madly toward the front and back of the boat, fore and aft, screaming, "Fire!"

"Panic reigned, no one gave orders or tried to organize the situation.

"Three men started pulling down life preservers and distributing them. "They were in the racks between decks. There were a piano player; a saxophone player, and a drummer, and they tried valiantly to save the situation."

"The orchestra was among the last to leave the boat," Norman asserted.

Norman's report of the abandoning of the vessel conflicted with earlier reports. He said everyone stayed on the boat until flames forced them to jump.

"CREW FIRST TO LEAVE"

"The crew was among the first to leave," Norman charged. "To the best of my knowledge, there were five members of the crew and the captain."

Norman asserted that at first calls of fire, several men grabbed available water and threw it into the engine room.

He said he believed they had been in the water about twenty minutes when a gasoline tank blew up.

"Some fifteen or twenty minutes later, the Dorothea arrived and picked us up. My family and I were the last to get on the boat."

"The Dorothea was the first to come to the rescue and two others appeared shortly afterward. Mr. Barrett, on the Dorothea, signalled several others on the way in to go to the scene."

Norman estimated there were twenty to twenty-five children aboard the boat.

a Gift of Princely Elegance

Giving is a state of mind. And in giving, a little of the best is to be preferred above a quantity of the mediocre. One of the princely gifts, to be offered in the same spirit as a necklace of emeralds or a bracelet of rubies, is a perfume of Guerlain. It has the perfection of a precious jewel. For Guerlain is the perfumer without equal, to whom perfuming is an art, not a commerce,—whose talent transcends price.

Assyrian Business Man of 1570 B.C. Checked Up

Clay Tablets Record Deals Much Like Today's

Farmer Had Troubles Then, as Mortgage Shows

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 14. (AP)—How the Mesopotamian business man of 3500 years ago kept his records is shown by a collection of antiquities to be placed on exhibition at the University of Pennsylvania Museum tomorrow.

The records are on clay cuneiform tablets, one of which indicates that agriculture had its troubles in ancient Mesopotamia. This tablet records that a farmer named Arilluduputi pledged his entire farm as security for the loan of three and one-half pounds of lead.

Another tablet lists in great detail all the houses, clothing, lead, copper and barley which changed hands when two brothers agreed legally to adopt a small boy.

A cylindrical hollow-clay receptable containing forty-nine pebbles and a long cuneiform inscription belonged to an illiterate shepherd named Zakaru. The inscription revealed the pebbles represented forty-nine sheep intrusted to his care. By preserving a proper balance between the number of pebbles and sheep the shepherd could easily render an accurate accounting of his flock at any time.

The records were found near Kirkuk, in Northern Mesopotamia, where an archeological expedition from the Harvard-Baghdad School and the University of Pennsylvania Museum spent three years excavating a deserted mound which once was the site of the city of Nuizi and the center of a community noted for its commerce and art.

Horace H. F. Jayne, director of the University of Pennsylvania Museum, reported the expedition uncovered private houses, a great palace and a temple, finding numerous objects which enabled the archeologists to picture the lives and customs of the people of Nuizi prior to its destruction shortly after 500 B.C. Some of these objects, including sculpture and pottery, are nearly 5500 years old.

The sorrel mare was transported from Hawaii when Gen. Barnhardt assumed command of the post last October. The general took the horse with him when he assumed command in Hawaii.

GEM FORTUNE TRAMPLED ON

Diamonds Worth $50,000 Kicked About in Street

Importer's Wife Loses Them Out of Package

Gems Being Moved From Vault to Office

NEW YORK, Dec. 14. (Exclusive) Diamonds said to be worth $50,000 were being trampled underfoot or kicked into the gutter by Christmas shoppers on Fifth avenue late yesterday, detectives said, after a diamond dealer's wife reported a peculiar accident.

The woman, believed to have dropped the diamonds carelessly while she carried them in a folded newspaper under her arm, is Mrs. Ethel Fisher, wife of A. Edward Fisher, New York diamond importer. Fisher is in Chicago.

Mrs. Fisher related that she received a telegram signed by her husband. The wire instructed her to go to the Chase National Bank, take certain diamonds from a safety deposit vault and deliver them to the Fisher offices for a "big deal."

Mrs. Fisher obeyed the wired instructions. She decided she needed some disguise for her treasure during the cross-town walk to her husband's offices.

So Mrs. Fisher bought a newspaper. She folded it in half, placed an envelope containing the diamonds inside the folds, and carried her pocketbook on top of the envelope.

After a block's walk she discovered the envelope was missing.

MEXICAN ARTS SHOWN IN EAST

New York Given Example of Latin Culture

Project Due to Initiative of ex-Envoy Morrow

Republic's Government Aids Museum Exhibit

NEW YORK, Dec. 14. (Exclusive) In the exhibition of Mexican arts, which has just concluded at the Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York, has been given a new conception of Latin culture, due to the initiative of former Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow. The exhibition drew large crowds throughout its stay here.

In carrying out this interesting and revealing project Mr. Morrow enlisted the artistic directorship of such men as Homer Saint-Gaudens and Count Rene d'Harnoncourt, who spent some time in Mexico making a survey of the field and mapping out the general plan of the display.

The Mexican government co-operated handsomely and lent valuable examples of the early art of the country from the National Museum in Mexico City and the State Museum in Guadalajara. The resulting gathering of objects, it is pointed out, was an exhibition of Mexican arts, not the arts in Mexico. The distinction is a necessary one, considering the long domination of the country by the Spanish after the conquest and European influences. For all that, a distinct Mexican art persisted and is now generally recognized.

TEXTILES AND POTTERIES

There seems no question, as this exhibition revealed, that it is in the applied arts that the Mexican is most fully realized—particularly in the textiles and potteries. From these fields the display had many examples of rare beauty and above all distinctly Mexican in design.

Nothing perhaps here shown was more beautiful than the mosaics in feather work. But in these the subject and design is purely European. The technique alone is native. The earliest shown was a piece depicting "Christ as Savior." The beauty of color in this has all the charms of rare tapestry while the skill with which the figure and intricate decorative details of the work are car-

NEW YORK, Dec. 14. (Exclusive) In the exhibition of Mexican arts, which has just concluded at the Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York, has been given a new conception of Latin culture, due to the initiative of former Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow. The exhibition drew large crowds throughout its stay here.

In carrying out this interesting and revealing project Mr. Morrow enlisted the artistic directorship of such men as Homer Saint-Gaudens and Count Rene d'Harnoncourt, who spent some time in Mexico making a survey of the field and mapping out the general plan of the display.

The Mexican government co-operated handsomely and lent valuable examples of the early art of the country from the National Museum in Mexico City and the State Museum in Guadalajara. The resulting gathering of objects, it is pointed out, was an exhibition of Mexican arts, not the arts in Mexico. The distinction is a necessary one considering the long domination of the country by the Spanish after the conquest and European influences. For all that, a distinct Mexican art persisted and is now generally recognized.

TEXTILES AND POTTERIES

There seems no question, as this exhibition revealed, that it is in the applied arts that the Mexican is most fully realized—particularly in the textiles and potteries. From these fields the display had many examples of rare beauty and above all distinctly Mexican in design.

Nothing perhaps here shown was more beautiful than the mosaics in feather work. But in these the subject and design is purely European. The technique alone is native. The earliest shown was a piece depicting "Christ as Savior." The beauty of color in this has all the charms of any tapestry while the skill with which the figure and intricate decorative details of the work are carried out in what must have been most recalcitrant material is little short of marvelous. The piece is interesting in another way as showing how the conqueror imposed his culture on the conquered.

The modern art of Mexico, however, dates definitely from 1910, when under the impulse of an awakened national consciousness the government gave its support to young artists who were striving for a purely Mexican expression.

RENAISSANCE BEGINS

They were commissioned to decorate the Ministry of Education and the National Preparatory School and the Mexican Renaissance began.

As the collection revealed, pottery is the outstanding feature of modern applied arts in Mexico. Furthermore the contemporary examples shown revealed so wide a range of techniques and traditions that they appear the products of different centuries. This, however, is explained from the fact that in Mexico there are many villages so isolated that the inhabitants live now as they did when the Spanish conquerors arrived. As a result of those conditions it is possible to find Indian pottery baked on the open fire as it was 500 years ago, so it is often difficult to tell modern pottery from that made in the seventeenth to nineteenth centuries.

As the catalogue of the exhibition pointed out, some of the eighteenth century boxes or chests, for example, are decidedly reminiscent of the painted chests made by the Pennsylvania Germans. On a background of blue, for instance, the craftsman painted flowering sprays, a simple method of design ornamentation. These old chests and other pieces were, of course, open to the influence of the French or Spanish.

CHAIRS SHOWN

Chairs in an original style, employing split wood and leather of a beautiful red-dish brown have been known to the smart shops for some time and the samples of this type of work were shown. In the vogue for antique glass, which has educated us to the beauty of the early pieces with their charm of subtle outline and the qualities of the material contemporary Mexican glassware adds another element. The naive method of ornamentation which is akin to the folk art of our early days as well as to that of the European countryside, may be observed in the Mexican embroidery and weaving. The oldest piece in the collection is a printed cotton that reproduces an Italian brocade pattern of the time of Louis XVI and dates from the latter part of the seventeenth century.

The paintings of the Mexican artists of today show the influence of modernist art of Europe yet continue somehow to retain a distinctive native flavor as witnessed in the canvases shown by Orosco, Rivera, Castellanos, Covarrubias, Pacheco and Abraham Angel. Other rare examples show the work of artists such as Horace Vernet, whose "Route De Jouy" in charming plum and amber hues pictures a spirited stag hunt. This unusual exhibition reveals care and appreciation of values. It was equipped eloquently to plead the cause of a better understanding between two peoples.

ROYAL PLUM PUDDING TO OFFER PROOF SOON

LONDON, Dec. 14. (AP)—If the housewife is busy in the kitchen at Christmas time, so is the King's chef.

There is, for example, the royal plum pudding to be made. It has been served at court on every Christmas Day since George I was King. This is the recipe:

Ingredients—One and one-half pounds of finely shredded suet, one pound of small raisins, one pound of Demerara sugar, one pound of French plums, stoned and cut in half; four ounces of citron, cut in thin slices; one teaspoonful of mixed spice, one-half of a teaspoonful of nutmeg, two teaspoonfuls of salt, one pound of stale, fine bread crumbs, one-half pound of sifted flour, one pound of eggs, weighed in their shells; one wine glassful of finest old brandy, one pint of new milk.

Whip the eggs to a light froth, and add the pint of new milk to them.

Add the rest of the ingredients by degrees, mixing them meanwhile very thoroughly, and allow the mixture to stand in a cool place for twelve hours to ripen. Pour into molds and boil for eight hours. Serve with sauce sublime.

The above quantities will make three ordinary size puddings.

GERMAN RIOTING FATAL FOR TWO

Bar Against Red Speeches Results in Killing

Policeman Slays Youth in Battle on Street

Fascists Break Up Revue and Put Girls to Flight

GLADBACH - RHEYET (Germany) Dec. 14. (AP)—Bedlam was loosed at a Fascist meeting last night when the chairman announced Communists would be excluded from "free debate," after a number of speeches had been made.

Chair legs and beer steins were hurled in the air, and one Fascist was seriously stabbed. In subsequent street fighting one man was shot and killed by Arnold Noehles, local Fascist leader, who was arrested. He told police he fired in self-defense. Three of Noehles's companions, including Konrad Goebbels, brother of Paul Goebbels, Hitler's lieutenant, also were arrested.

BERLIN, Dec. 14. (AP)—Fighting near the Berlin police headquarters at Alexander Platz last night resulted in a policeman's shooting a youth, who died after removal to a hospital.

The trouble arose as a hostile crowd severely manhandled the officer, who was alone. He said he fired in self-defense.

NUREMBURG (Germany) Dec. 14. (AP)—Belligerent spectators said to be Fascists or Fascist sympathizers, broke up a revue in the Apollo Cinderella among richly adorned damsels impersonating other nations.

The revue, entitled "Liebe Mich" (Love Me,) attempted to show the gala costumes of various nations and the managers said that to illustrate the Fatherland's financial plight they had dressed Gretchen in rags.

Infuriated by the allusion to Germany's poverty, about 400 persons in the audience started a general riot, bombarding the performers with stench bombs and rotten eggs and releasing white mice.

Police waded in with blackjacks and ejected the disturbers, but the performance had to be stopped. Rioting continued outside and many were arrested. The girls on the stage were frightened badly. One actress was taken to a hospital.

WOMAN SHIES AT BUFFALO COIN

"Ain't No Such Animal," Says Egg Dealer When Nickel Appears in Deal

YORK (S. C.) Dec. 14. (AP) John Wallace, who collects eggs from rural residents, is authority for the statement he has found a woman who never had seen a buffalo nickel and who refused to believe it is an authorized coin of the United States government.

Wallace said when he tendered a buffalo nickel in part payment for eggs, the woman insisted upon deducting two eggs from one dozen as a condition of acceptance of the coin.

VISITOR SLAYS JAIL OFFICER

Turnkey's Own Gun Used in Missouri Tragedy

Trusty and Another Targets, But Escape Unhurt

Killer, Unidentified, Flees With Girl Companion

CARTHAGE (Mo.) Dec. 14. (AP)—Othel E. Bray, 50 years of age, acting turnkey, was shot to death with his own revolver in the Jasper County Jail today by a visitor who, after shooting at two other persons, fled with a woman companion.

Bullets fired at a trusty and John Dyer, 17-year-old son of the regular jailer, George Dyer, went wild. No prisoners escaped.

The slayer and the girl, on entering the jail, asked permission to see Bill Daggett of Joplin, Mo., who, it developed, was released Friday.

Bray turned to the jail record book, young Dyer said. Then the visitors seized Bray's weapon from its holster and fired three shots into the body of the officer. Two bullets pierced his heart.

Young Dyer fled to the jail arsenal for a gun. A bullet struck the door as he slammed it. A trusty running to investigate the shooting also was a target, but escaped.

The slayer and the girl, both young, left at least two clews. He dropped his hat and a heal was torn from one of the woman's shoes.

Officers believe they had a motor car parked near by.

1930 IS REWARDING CAREFUL SAVERS

"Who to himself is Law, no Law doth need"

These nine words express the basic policy under which Pacific States Savings has operated for more than 41 years. For, rigid self-government, having for its purpose the safety of our savers' funds under all circumstances, has been a principle to which this institution has been pledged since the beginning.

Rigid self-government is demonstrated today by a total cash and bond reserve that is outstanding in our field; by the absence from our Statement of non-liquid items such as furniture and fixtures; by freedom from bank indebtedness; and, above all, by our low loan rate, which brings to us the choicest first lien collateral available to any institution in our field.

It is further demonstrated by the voluntary issuance of a Statement of Condition, not quarterly or semi-annually, but monthly, that those whose funds we safeguard may always know how their funds are being employed and conserved.

The justification for these cautious policies will be found in our flawless record of service to three generations of California savers.

We solicit your consideration of our 6% and 5¼% facilities for savings. Send for our Statement and study it as a preliminary to making your savings plans for 1931.

CLASSES GROW AT UNIVERSITIES

Attendance Shows Gain Over Former Years

California Leads All Rivals in Regular Attendance

Also in Co-eds and Liberal Arts Enrollment

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 14. (AP)—Attendance at American colleges and universities showed an upward trend this year.

The annual study of Raymond Walters, dean of Swarthmore College, published in the current issue of School and Society, shows the trend exceeded that of the last several years and approached the percentage increase of the post-war period.

Reports from 431 institutions of all types in every State in the Union show totals for November 1, last, of 578,671 full-time students, an increase of 3 1-2 per cent over the full-time totals on November 1, 1929. The grand total attendance, including part-time students and the summer session of 1930, is 871,184.

The analysis of Dean Walters shows that 60 per cent of these colleges and universities have more students than last year, with the size groups ranging from the small colleges of under 500, of which 50.5 per cent had increases, to the large institutions of 3000 and upward of which 71 per cent report increases.

LARGEST UNIVERSITIES

The study, in addition to recording the full-time and part-time attendance of 431 institutions listed by the American Council of Education, gives separately the twenty-five largest universities in the United States.

For full-time students the order as presented by Dean Walters is as follows:

WAR SECRETARY PERILED

Mechanic's Quick Thinking Saves Hurley When Flapping Plane Window Knocks Out Pilot

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14. (Exclusive)—The story of how the quick-thinking of a diminutive mechanic yesterday saved the life of Secretary of War Hurley when the pilot of the Cabinet member's speedy plane was temporarily knocked out by a flapping window was related at Bolling Field today.

The incident happened a few miles north of Edgewood arsenal, Md., about sixty miles north of Washington, while Mr. Hurley was on his way to New York to attend the Army-Navy football game.

Lieut. C. W. Cousland, Bolling Field pilot, regularly assigned to the task of flying the Secretary of War, took off from Washington in the Army Air Corps fleetster plane, one of the fastest military ships in the American Army. His passenger was Secretary of War Hurley. Riding with him was his mechanic, Corp. Douglas Collings.

About twenty minutes out from the capital one of the two sections of the cabin window became loose.

"Before I realized what had happened," Cousland told his brother pilots today, "the blamed thing was giving me a terrible beating. Then I lost consciousness. The last I remember was that the ship made a sharp dive just as the whole sky turned black. I might have been out cold a few seconds or several minutes. I don't know.

"When I came to, Collings was fighting the controls but keeping the ship level. I turned around and went back to Edgewood arsenal, where doctors put eight stitches in my head. Collings's quick thinking saved all of us."

Secretary Hurley accompanied Lieut. Cousland to the hospital and reluctantly consented to allow him to continue the flight when the pilot insisted his injuries were not dangerous.

Sacks of Dope Fished From Bay

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 14. (AP)—Customs inspectors today fished five sacks containing narcotics which they valued at $56,000 from San Francisco Bay. Inspectors said members of the crew of the steamship Asama Maru had dropped the narcotics into the bay after the steamer had docked.

Chang Yung, Chinese roomboy, and Wong Ching, second cook on the Japanese liner, were arrested.

FLAMES RAGE IN QUEBEC HOSPITAL

QUEBEC (Que.) Dec. 14. (AP)—Fire, which blazed furiously for three and a half hours last night, destroyed the top floor of a wing of the St. Michael of Archangel Hospital for the Insane at Beauport. The wing is used to house male patients, who were safely removed to another wing.

MURDER AND SUICIDE HALT MATRIMONY

Denver Mother Slays Own Daughter and Self as Girl Prepared to Become Bride

DENVER, Dec. 14. (AP)—Only a few hours before she was to have been married, Helen Hidinger, 21 years of age, was shot to death by her mother, Mrs. Eugenia Prowant, 48, who shortly afterward took her own life. The girl apparently had been shot as she slept. The bodies were found in a locked bedroom at the Prowant home after Mrs. Prowant's husband and the girl's stepfather, E. G. Prowant, was unable to rouse anyone in the room and called police.

Prowant told police the dead girl, Helen Hidinger, was to have been married today to Earl Penna. Originally, he said, Miss Hidinger and Penna had planned a double-wedding with his own daughter by another marriage, Christine, and Christine's fiance, Donald Frazier. Miss Hidinger and Penna, he related, decided not to wait for the double ceremony, which was set for Christmas Day, and had planned to be wed today at 2 o'clock.

He said his wife had been opposed to the marriage of her daughter and had been in ill health for several weeks. Prowant believes worry over her health and the thought of losing her only child through marriage caused his wife to take the life of the girl and then turn the gun on herself.

RUM KING KIDNAPED IN CHICAGO

Police Predict Gang Fight as Captors Make Demand for $50,000 Ransom

CHICAGO, Dec. 14. (AP) — James Ward, reputed "bootleg king" of suburban Chicago Heights, was kidnaped from the rear of his home last night, and unconfirmed reports of a $50,000 ransom demand trickled through to police today.

The reports came through underworld whispers, which also dropped the promise of retaliation from Ward's allies. Mrs. Ward declined to tell authorities if her husband's abductors had communicated with her.

Ward was seized by four men as he walked to the garage in back of his house. His wife heard him struggling with his assailants and ran to a window in time to see an automobile starting away. One of the men called to her: "You'll hear from us later."

Chief of Police Stafford of Chicago Heights said today that retaliation for Ward's abduction is certain, whether he is returned dead or alive.

BABY BANDIT QUEEN AND GANG JAILED

Girl 14 Years of Age and Five Boys Accused of Petty Robberies

OAKLAND, Dec. 14. (AP)—Six "baby bandits" led by a 14-year-old girl, were jailed here today. Besides the girl, whom police say admitted she was the leader, were five boys ranging in age from 11 to 15.

Their string of petty robberies were uncovered when the mother of one of the boys missed a pistol and box of candy. Suspecting one of the other youngsters, she notified police. Her son was among those arrested in the resulting investigation.

Officers said all confessed freely. The girl, they explained, urged them on and received the loot which she divided among them. All are school children and come from a respectable neighborhood. Police withheld their names.

SOB STORY ENDS BROKEN CAREER

Once Brilliant Editor Dies in Prison Death House

Charlie Chapin, Scion of Sage, Long Convict

Killed Beautiful Actress Wife as She Slept

OSSINING (N. Y.) Dec. 14. (Exclusive) — Charles E. Chapin's last story was a sob story picturing Charlie Chapin in the pathetic role of a dying murderer begging to be buried by the side of the wife he killed "because he loved her."

The famous city editor of the New York Evening World, who died at 72 years of age in Sing Sing last night retained his keen sense of news value to the end. His last story in the form of a will written a few weeks before he died and made public by Warden Lawes today, reveals that clearly. He died in a special cell in the death house he occupied at his own request—the first convict to die a natural death within its grim walls. Pneumonia following a year's suffering from a complication of diseases was the cause.

Chapin—hated Simon Legree of the city room to those who worked under him in his days of freedom and power; a gentle, beloved old man, working miracles in prison rose gardens and chirping birds, to the many he befriended during his imprisoned years in Sing Sing—seemed to visualize the headlines that would crown his last story when he wrote it.

LETTER TO WARDEN

Here it is:

"Dear Warden Lawes: Kindly substitute this for similar memoranda I left with you about nine years ago. As you know, I have been fighting death for nearly a year and now feel that I have about reached the limit of my resistance. I grow more feeble every day. I am convinced it will not be possible for me to carry on much longer.

"I desire to be buried by the side of my wife in our family plot in Glenwood Cemetery, Washington, D. C. My sister holds the deeds. Mr. William Halpin of your staff has kindly consented to accompany my body to Washington. If you will notify my sister, Marion A. Chapin of Washington, she will have the grave dug and arrange with an undertaker to take my body from the train to Glenwood Cemetery.

"I especially desire there be no service here or in Washington. I wish the casket to be the least expensive obtainable, inclosed in a box and sealed, the box never to be opened.

"I hope you will find sufficient funds to my credit here to cover the expenses. My funds can be added to my prison earnings for about eleven years. I thank you and the members of your fine family for much kindness and consideration during my long years in your charge.

"Sincerely,
[Signed]
"CHARLES CHAPIN,
"69690."

Chapin's life was a fascinating paradox.

RUSSELL SAGE'S NEPHEW

A nephew of Russell Sage, the multimillionaire, Chapin ran away from home at 15, peddled papers and slept in a print shop and then became a great editor. Ruthless and a slave driver of his men, Chapin was cordially hated by almost everyone who worked for him, but he was so astute and expert a city editor that his superiors valued him highly.

As a famous editor he gambled in the stock market, bought a yacht and lived at a rate of $500,000 a year at the Hotel Plaza. He explained this later by saying he had been taught from childhood to expect the inheritance of millions from his uncle Sage only to suffer disappointment.

Chapin's own story of how he murdered his wife, Nellie Biere Chapin, a former actress, does not stamp him as a figure of high courage. He killed his wife while she slumbered and then fled intending to kill himself. But he lost his nerve and finally gave himself up to police.

The only reason he ever gave for the killing was a highly sentimental one. He was in acute financial distress and near bankruptcy and could not endure the thought he said of his beloved wife being reduced to poverty.

Slayings Laid to Father and Son

WILLISTON (N. D.) Dec. 14. (AP) Warrants charging first-degree murder have been issued against Charles Bannon and his father, James F. Bannon, for the slaying of Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Haven and their four children on the Haven farm near Schafer last February.

Charles Bannon, in the McKenzie County Jail here, has confessed that he slew the Havens, officers assert. The elder Bannon was held for North Dakota authorities at Toledo, Or., where he was arrested Saturday.

NEW YORK, Dec. 14. (AP)—Daniel Frohman, veteran theatrical producer, underwent an emergency operation late today in the Park East Hospital. Following the operation, Dr. George Schwartz announced Mr. Frohman's condition was satisfactory and that he has excellent chance of complete recovery.

Mr. Frohman was stricken late in the afternoon. The nature of the operation was not made public.

TWO FLYERS LEAP

SEATTLE, Dec. 14. (AP)—Two naval reserve student flyers, H. W. Gall and L. J. Schreiber, escaped death in parachute leaps here today, when their plane plunged earthward from an elevation of 4500 feet after the elevators had been torn away by the strain of a sharp dive.

WAYS TO CHEAT BLUES OFFERED

Varied Radio Programs Will Dispense Cheer

KHJ's Monday Jamboree One of Gloom Chasers

Plays and Music Designed to Give Satisfaction

> The Times Forum, KHJ, at 1:30 p.m. Clint Bush and L. C. Fox, string instrumentalists. World-wide news at 12:30, 4:45 and 10 p.m.

BY JOHN S. DAGGETT

When you stumble out of bed this morning to wrestle with the blues, washing and a center rush through the Christmas shoppers—cheer up—radio tonight will soothe everything from bunions to frayed nerves.

You'll need all the smiles you can get about 8 o'clock tonight—so why not dial KHJ's Blue Monday Jamboree. If you've ever fed a telephone nickels in return for wrong numbers, wanted to murder a gas-meter reader for billing you for enough gas to choke a Zeppelin, or discovered you could only get an upper berth—here you are. This jamboree is dedicated to telephone companies, gas companies and choo-choo corporations. Put your slippers on and try to smile.

There are plenty of other highlights on your dial because—

They tell us that—

NBC sends KFI at 6:30 p.m.—James Melton, guest soloist, in the lyric "Flower Song" from "Carmen" as his first solo. Other compositions will include "Macushla," "Song of the Vagabonds"—Brigadiers Quartet.

KNX at 8 p.m. "Frankincense and Myrrh"—a Christmas playlet. It would be a crime to ruin a pleasing title with a poor play. Let's hope.

Amos 'n' Andy are going over the air to England shortly. These ebony aerial emigrants will wreck London with that Fresh Air Taxicab.

KFWB at 8 p.m. Here is a program dedicated to the moon. KFWB's Concert Orchestra, with Lewis Meehan, guest soloist, half an hour of moon-mad melodies, soft songs teeming with romance.

Columbia tells us it has just contracted Chaliapin, Marion Talley, Paul Robeson, Galli-Curci, Lawrence Tibbett, Jeritza—exclusively. That is good news.

KFI at 7 p.m. Rochester Civic Orchestra—prelude to Wagner's "The Meistersinger"—Works of Massenet, Goldmark and Saint-Saens. Massenet's "Crepuscule," (for flute, violin and 'cello)—Saint-Saens's "Algerian Suite."

Theft Suspect's Record Shows Prison Terms

TULARE, Dec. 14.—Local authorities have ascertained via the fingerprint method that Louis Sanchez, arrested here for asserted stealing from a man who had taken him in and fed him, has a sizeable criminal record.

Not to mention his being wanted for violation of parole from Massachusetts State penitentiary, where he was registered under the name of Milan Prudencio, Sanchez is an escaped convict from the Virginia prison, where a thirteen-year term still awaits him. There he went under the name of Ramon Navarro, local police declare.

FORGERY SUSPECT IS HELD TO ANSWER

LINDSAY, Dec. 14.—Arthur Nicols, who was arrested on November 24, last, on a charge of forgery, was bound over to the Superior Court by Justice E. B. Gould.

Peasants Fight Tax Collectors

BELGRADE (Jugo-Slavia) Dec. 14. (AP)—Dispatches from various parts of the country tell of sanguinary affrays between court bailiffs or tax collectors, and peasants.

One peasant was killed and two persons were injured as the result of such a clash. In the same village another peasant wounded a bailiff who was removing the horse from the stable and was himself wounded by a gendarme. As their defense the peasants point out the economic crisis is the cause of their poverty and they are unable to pay.

Peasants Fight Tax Collectors

BELGRADE (Jugo-Slavia) Dec. 14. (AP)—Dispatches from various parts of the country tell of sanguinary affrays between court bailiffs or tax collectors, and peasants.

One peasant was killed and ten persons were injured as the result of such a clash. In the same village another peasant wounded a bailiff who was removing the horses from the stable and was himself wounded by a gendarme. As their defense the peasants point out the economic crisis is the cause of their poverty and they are unable to pay.

SCHWARTZ BALL CARRYING ACE

Elmer Likely to Lead Way Against Alabama

Ranks as Best Fullback on Coast Roster

Ends Career at Rose Bowl New Year's Day

Leading the Washington State grid forces against the Alabama Crimson Tide in the New Year's Day classic in the Pasadena Rose Bowl will be Capt. Elmer Schwartz. Last year Schwartz earned the name of "Elmer the Great" through his sensational performances, both offensively and defensively. The name stuck with him this year as the Cougars blazed along a destructive path to the Pacific Coast championship and the right to represent the West in the Tournament of Roses traditional grid event.

Schwartz is given the credit of being the powerhouse of the Washington State backfield. It is his mighty line thrusts and his ball-like open field runs that have provided the victorious spark in the Cougars' great march. Although he neither kicks nor passes, "Elmer the Great," with 200 pounds of solid beef to use in case of argument, is a versatile ball carrier and a fine blocking back.

ELMER SCHWARTZ

As a sophomore Schwartz was placed in a guard position to fill a badly felt need. He did the job so well that at the end of the season he won wide recognition on all-Coast teams, placing next to that famous Stanford pair, Robesky and Post.

When Elmer was shifted to the backfield last year there were many who doubted his ability to do as well in the backfield as he had done in the line. But he surpassed the fondest hopes of his best friends by placing first among all Pacific Coast fullbacks in the all-star picks. He also won prime honors as the high individual scorer of the West last season.

ON THE COAST

This year Schwartz again has been conceded the all-Coast fullback berth without argument. He has also placed on most of the all-American choices ranging from first team to honorable mention. He has earned the praise of a host of critics and coaches. His scoring record is not as large as that of last year, but the difference is attributed to the greater versatility possessed by the Cougar backfield. Scoring honors have been fairly well distributed among the Washington State backs this season with the ends sharing as the result of the effective aerial barrages.

During the past season Schwartz has made a score of remarkable runs, but his best single sprint was a 65-yard touchdown gallop through a bewildered Gonzaga eleven. During the run he shook off five different tacklers, and dragged another across the goal line. He has raced for touchdowns 50 yards or more on several occasions and has made many other brilliant runs that did not terminate across the goal line.

In every game this year Schwartz has glowed when the traveling got tough. Against California and Southern California he gained many yards over the line, and occasionally scampered around the ends like a bantamweight. Against Washington and Oregon State he proved a deadly menace to opposing hopes. In the intersectional game with Villanova, Elmer slipped into high gear to astonish the eastern fans with his ground-gaining tactics.

A year ago Schwartz proved the Cougar hero in the uphill battle against Southern California. It was Schwartz who broke up Trojan plays, then turned around to lead the offensive battle. He was finally taken from the game virtually exhausted and received a splendid ovation from the crowd.

VARIED ATTACK

With Schwartz as the kingpin, the Washington State backfield has everything in the way of offensive variety. Speed, punch and deception are abundant. Ellingsen, Lainhart, Jones and Tonkin prove ca-

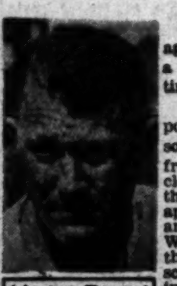
THE THIN LINE



MAJOR RALPH SASSE

WALLACE WADE

The Army-Navy battle showed again how thin the line is between a rose-colored season and one tinged with indigo.

The Army team was only one point away from an unbeaten season. The Navy had a stormy march from start to finish. Yet when the closing whistle blew on Saturday the two teams were just six points apart. And the Army had to scrap and hustle to the final play to win. When you consider the fact that this game was well beyond the scheduled season and past all original objectives, it was a contest full of credit for both sides—players and coaches.

Finishing only one point back of Notre Dame, Maj. Ralph Sasse can look back on a remarkable first year for any coach. All the more so in view of the fact that he gave the Army a new system of offense, which is no easy thing to do in one campaign.

And beating the Navy was no easy job on Saturday. The Army met an up and coming line-up, which played itself out against a bigger, better line—a line that is just about as good as any set of forwards 1930 football can show. Only one first down out of its total of three by rushing, on the Navy's part, with some high-class backs lugging the ball — Kirn, Gannon adn other shows just how good this Army line is. And when you have the stronger forward you have a jump on the enemy that can rarely be overcome.

The Navy did extremely well under the circumstances and only the agility and swiftness of Ray Stecker gave the Army its chance to cash in on a superior power shown by thirteen first downs against three.

Alabama Speaks

In spite of the remarkable showing made by Notre Dame, Alabama feels that its own fine record is being overshadowed just a little too much under the South Bend record.

Beating Vanderbilt, Tennessee and Kentucky on three successive Saturdays is a feat equal to beating Northwestern, Army and Southern California. I was one of the big jobs of the year. Vanderbilt was strong enough to beat Minnesota, 33 to 7, the week before Minnesota tied Stanford. Tennessee, headed by the brilliant Dodd, was one of the strong teams of the country—one of the strongest. If Wallace Wade's Crimson Tide overthrows Washington State, which it hasn't done yet, the Crimson Tide from Tuscaloosa can let its record tell the story without any further debate.

Back to the Heavyweights

In place of getting untangled, the heavyweight situation is now in a worse snarl than ever. Stribling's showing against Tuffy Griffiths, on top of his De Kuh affair, hasn't helped his claim or cause in any way. On the contrary, it has put him back. Sharkey hasn't advanced an inch since last summer and Schmeling still shows a record of four rounds through almost two years. What a chance there is for Max Baer or some other fighting prospect to jump into the middle of the picture and steal the show. And it won't take another Young Dempsey to do this.

The Unlocky Brand

Kid Chocolate should change his name to some other brand of candy. He might try young Bon-Bon or something like that.

In his last three big fights he has deserved no worse than a draw in two of them and has lost all three. He deserved no worse than a draw against Battalino and the majority of boxing writers I have talked to gave him the winning edge. But that doesn't alter the fact that he was again pushed over on the losing side.

Football Coaches

The student revolt in football hasn't gone a long way, but it has started. The time is passing in a hurry when any coach can get by who doesn't make his men like the game. They are not supposed to be out there to build coaching reputations and massive arenas. They are supposed to be playing some game they like to play for the exercise and the recreation, the mental and physical training.

Lehigh and Pennsylvania have made the smartest moves to date —Lehigh in announcing that hereafter her teams will only meet those of the group quality in entrance qualifications and scholastic standings—Pennsylvania in giving more authority to the captain, who is no longer a figurehead.

Pennsylvania was lucky to have a captain such as Riblett for this purpose. Riblett is not only a star football player, but a natural leader. There will be a much keener student interest when captain and coach can

PUPIL FACES TEACHER

Phelan Prepared to Send Team on Field That Will Beat Rockne's All-Stars at Coliseum

Jimmy Phelan's intimate knowledge of the Notre Dame system is expected to stand the West-South all-star team in good stead at the Coliseum one week from Saturday when this eleven opposes Knute Rockne's all-Irish contingent.

Phelan played quarterback for Rockne in 1917, which was the Sobbing Scandinavian's first year as head coach at the South Bend institution. Jimmy was rated one of the brainiest signal callers "Rock" ever had.

JIMMY PHELAN

Following his graduation Phelan went into the coaching racket, and after several years landed the post as head mentor at Purdue. His feat in capturing the Big Ten championship in 1929 is still a live topic where grid fans gather.

Phelan used the Notre Dame system at Purdue and naturally installed it at the University of Washington when he took over the reins there last spring.

Rockne's formations are in vogue in so many parts of the country that every man on the West-South team will go into the game experienced in combating the Notre Dame system. The added value of Phelan's experience should make the local team one of the most formidable ever sent against a Rockne-coached squad.

Contrary to previous reports, the West-South team will not start practice until one week from today. At that time the squad will assemble in the Coliseum and map out a campaign for use against the Irish. Experienced players such as Phelan has lined up need only a few days to get their plays clicking, as it is not necessary to spend any time on the fundamentals of the game.

Rockne and his athletes leave South Bend Friday night and will arrive here one week from today. The squad which played against the New York Giants in Gotham yesterday will be augmented by seven or eight stars from the Notre Dame team which defeated Southern California.

Ticket sales passed the $20,000 mark Saturday and with the departure of Rockne from his haunts this week it is expected that a terrific rush for pasteboards will result.

NORTH DAKOTA ARRIVES SOON

Midwestern Gridders Play Firemen Christmas Day

Thirty-three players representing North Dakota University are scheduled to arrive here one week from today for an intersectional football game on Christmas Day at the Coliseum. The game winds up the season for both teams. To date the firemen have won nine games and lost one. North Dakota has been beaten but once this year after playing a rather strenuous schedule which had them rambling from one end of the country to the other.

COACH BILL BLEWETT

Coach Jack West is bringing a classy football team here, according to the dope from North Dakota. He has a team that shapes up with some of the best in the Big Ten, the dispatches indicate.

On the team that will sport North Dakota's colors is one player who is very likely to steal a lot of thunder of the game. His name is Red Jerrett. This flashy halfback has scored against every eleven the Nodaks have played this season. He is claimed to be one of the finest open-field runners in the Midwest.

Coach West also has a fine passing attack which has netted the North Dakota team real results this season. Schave, Duchene and Knauf are bullet-like passers, the North Dakota advance states.

The North Dakota team will work out at the Coliseum before the game at least two or three times so as to get the feel of things here. They will come from a cold section of the country to the warmth and they want to get a little acclimated before they take on the Smoke-eaters. The North Dakota team will stop at the Alexandria Hotel. Fay Smalley, manager of that hostelry, is an old North Dakota resident and he is getting up a rooting section for the team.

Bill Blewett, coach of the firemen, has a crack backfield in Don Moses, Milt Nolan, Les Grimes and Boots Beyers. Moses, no doubt, will do a lot of the ball packing and line crashing for the flames.

There were thirteen starters, but seven fell in the sticky going.

HEAVY GRID SCHEDULE COMING UP NEXT WEEK FOR LOCAL ENTHUSIASTS

BY BRAVEN DYER

This week is the lull before the storm in local football circles. Nothing of importance is scheduled until Friday when both Alabama and Knute Rockne's all-stars start west for their engagements. But beginning next Monday the fireworks will begin to explode and from then until January 1 there will be enough excitement to satisfy the most rabid of fans.

"POP" WARNER

MEL HEIN

Here's the schedule for next week:

Monday, Rockne's gang arrives in the morning.

Tuesday, Alabama arrives after stopover at Grand Canyon.

Wednesday, Crimson Tide in first workout at Rose Bowl.

Thursday, Firemen play North Dakota at Coliseum.

Friday, Washington State arrives.

Saturday, Rockne All-Stars play West-South team.

If that isn't a week's work for us scribes then there's no water in milk bottles.

That 22-to-0 defeat of Rockne's Four Horsemen at the hands of the New York Giants, a pro team, should not hurt the local gate at all. As a matter of fact nearly everybody connected with football knows that a good pro team can lick a good amateur team any day in the week. And Rockne's bunch, which is not the same outfit that will show here, was plenty shy on practice and wind.

The team which comes here will be composed almost entirely of players from the 1929 and 1930 Notre Dame elevens, which makes for a far different performance than that put up in New York.

Alabama leaves Birmingham Friday night, arrives in Phoenix next Sunday, takes a side trip to the Grand Canyon and will reach Pasadena at 4:30 p.m. one week from tomorrow.

The Los Angeles Firemen, with Don Moses and Chang Artman in the line-up, are a bang-up football team and figure to put on an afternoon of high-class entertainment Christmas Day. North Dakota University has lost only one game this year, to the Army, and will bring a great star, Red Jarrett, backfield ace, to Los Angeles. He has scored in every game he ever played in, including the Army.

When Washington State arrives one week from Friday two players will be the cynosure of all eyes—namely Glenn Edwards and Mel Hein, stellar linemen of the man-eating Cougars.

That was a fine move Rockne-Warner-Jones made in putting Hein on their all-American, even though they placed him at tackle rather than center. After seeing Hein in action against the Trojans and talking to Babe Hollingbery about his worth there is no question in my mind but that Mel is the outstanding all-American lineman on the Pacific Coast. He is head and shoulders above Edwards, who is a fine tackle, yet Edwards made many all-American teams, whereas Hein landed on only one. Hein, of course, had more to buck in the way of Ben Ticknor than did Edwards, but Rockne-Warner-Jones did the right thing when they put Hein on their team anyway. It was a fine move by Warner, who undoubtedly was mainly responsible.

Those who are so quick to make Alabama the favorite over Washington State, and perhaps they are right, will do well to recall that the Cougars are a veteran team, composed of seniors who attained their two major objectives early in the season. After beating California and the Trojans on successive Saturdays Hollingbery's boys had passed the peak of their season. But now they have a new objective, Alabama, and you can rest assured that the Cougars, win, lose or draw, will uphold the honor of the West so capably that none will be ashamed of their showing. They're that kind of a team.

Friedman Leads Giant Team to Decisive Victory

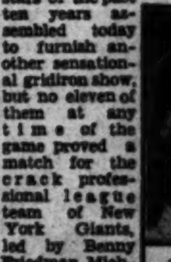
Fighting Irish Line Takes Thumping for Charity

Four Horsemen Go Nowhere Before 50,000 Fans

BY ALAN GOULD

Associated Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Dec. 14. (AP)—For the benefit of charity, the great and the ex-great of Notre Dame's brigade of football stars of the past ten years assembled today to furnish another sensational gridiron show, but no eleven of them at any time of the game proved a match for the crack professional league team of New York Giants, led by Benny Friedman, Michigan's former all-American quarterback.



ADAM WALSH

PROS CLICK

The red-helmeted, smooth-working Giants battered and passed their way to a decisive victory, 22 to 0, over the gallant, but somewhat disorganized array assembled especially for the occasion by the master of Notre Dame, Knute Rockne, and his corps of aides.

The game was for benefit of New York's unemployed, the second charity contest in as many days. Despite freezing weather, it attracted an enthusiastic crowd of 50,000 spectators to the Polo Grounds. Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith and Mayor James J. Walker were conspicuous in the gathering that contributed to gate receipts estimated at more than $150,000.

Rockne, bundled in blankets on the sidelines, pulled the strings for a collection of performers whose names have been written large in Notre Dame football history, but it took more than that to make any impression on the rugged, hard-bitten team of professionals.

The famous "four horsemen," Stuhldreher, Crowley, Miller and Layden, with five of the "seven mules" in the forward line, started the game. Later, Frank Carideo, this year's all-America quarter-back, and his running mate, Bucky O'Connor, hero of the victory over Southern California a week ago, entered the fray, along with Jack Elder and nearly a full array of the 1929 undefeated Notre Dame team.

It was a brilliant individual parade but the team work usually so conspicuous in any gridiron performance by a Notre Dame team was missing. Rockne tried at least three full combinations but none clicked or even threatened to cross the Giants' goal. The fleet Elder failed to get loose and his passes were battered down by a defense in which his old Army rival, Christian Keener (Red) Cagle, was prominent.

FRIEDMAN STARS

Cagle gave the big crowd a few thrills with several good punts, but Friedman's polished and effective performance was the outstanding individual feature. The ex-Wolverine ace, playing only in the first half, scored two of the three Giant touchdowns and added one extra point with his talented toe.

He twice crossed the Notre Dame goal line in the second period, once on a short buck across tackle and shortly afterward, on a twisting 15-yard dash through the whole all-star team. Both were the culmination of marches half the length of the field.

The third touchdown was tallied in the third period on a spectacular 30-yard forward pass, Mora to Campbell, who grabbed the ball in the end zone with Harry Stuhldreher on one side and Bucky O'Connor on the other. In the opening quarter, Stuhldreher was trapped behind his own goal line before he could get off a kick, and tackled by Bill Owen for a safety.

The professional line was entirely too much for the Notre Dame array, despite heroic individual wo

CANTLON CAPTURES RACE

Victor Sets New Track Record as Kenny Morgan of Long Beach is Killed in Ascot Event

Pushing his Miller Special at a spectacular pace throughout "Shorty" Cantlon set a new track record for the 100-lap race at the Legion Ascot Speedway yesterday in winning his second straight main event from a field of fourteen starters. Cantlon's record-breaking time was 49m. 31s., which is believed to be the first time a driver has been able to travel at the local oval less than fifty minutes. Francis Quinn finished second, with Ernie Triplett third, and Ralph De Palma fourth.

Kenny Morgan, youthful Long Beach driver in car No. 71, was killed when he ran into the fence during the ten-lap consolation race. Morgan was thrown out of his car onto the track when he ran into the guard rail on the south turn. His car turned over and burst into flames while the race was stopped and the ambulance rushed to him. He was unconscious when picked up and died on the way to the hospital. The race was started over and Phil Pardee brought his Western super special home in first place.

NAME PRICE TO CAPTAIN ARMY GRIDS

Giant Tackle is Chosen as Leader of 1931 Eleven at West Point Academy

WEST POINT (N. Y.) Dec. 14. (AP)—Meeting in the baggage car of their special train on the way from New York this morning the letter men of the Army football squad elected Jack Price of North Fort Dodge, Iowa, captain of the 1931 football team.

Price has been regular left tackle on the Army team for the past two seasons. He was 20 years old last month, weighs 220 pounds and is 6 feet 3½ inches tall. He played through the entire game yesterday in Army's triumph over the Navy.

BAER MAKES BOW FRIDAY NIGHT IN EASTERN RING

NEW YORK, Dec. 14. (AP)—Max Baer, latest heavyweight sensation from California, makes his New York debut in Madison Square Garden Friday night, meeting Ernie Schaaf, rugged Boston battler, in a ten-round fracas.

Baer has been hailed in the West as a "second Jack Dempsey." His record shows only one defeat in twenty-seven professional starts and twenty-four knockout victories. He hopes to stop Schaaf in four or five rounds, which is something the best of eastern heavyweights have failed to do.

There are few other bouts of general interest on the week's schedule. Con O'Kelly, Irish heavyweight, tackles Al Friedman of Boston, at Boston tomorrow night, and Jackie Fields, former welterweight champion, meets Bucky Lawless of Syracuse, N. Y., in a ten-rounder at Detroit Friday.

Other bouts on the national schedule include:

Monday — At New York, Lenox S.C.: George Hoffman, New York, vs. Raoul Rodriguez, Spain, heavyweights, six rounds.

Tuesday — At Fresno: Paulie Walker, New York, vs. Indian Jimmy Rivers, Los Angeles, welterweights, 10 rounds. At Indianapolis: Del Fontaine, Winnipeg, vs. Johnny Wagner, Fort Scott, Kan., middleweights, ten rounds, and Red Holloway, Indianapolis, vs. Frankie Hughes, Kenosha, Wis., junior welterweights, eight rounds. At New York, St. Nicholas Arena: Ted Sandwina, Sioux City, Iowa, vs. Stanley Poreda, Jersey City, heavyweights, ten rounds.

Wednesday—At Toledo, O.: Roger Bernard, Detroit, vs Jackie Cohen, Rochester, N. Y., featherweights, ten rounds.

Thursday—At Cincinnati: Billy Angelo, Leiperville, Pa., vs. Charley Cobb, San Diego, welterweights, eight rounds. At New York, Olympia A.C.: Jimmy Slavin, New York, vs. Miki Gelb, Hungary, featherweights, ten rounds.

Friday—At New York, Madison Square Garden: Joe Banovic, Binghamton, vs. Bob Olin, heavyweights, and Angel Cliville, Porto Rico, vs. Vittorio Livan, Italy, middleweights, each ten rounds. At St. Louis: Joe Lohman, Toledo, vs. Al Stillman, St. Louis, light-heavyweights, ten rounds. At Chicago: George Neron vs. Paul Pantaleo, Chicago, heavyweights, ten rounds.

WHAT'LL HAPPEN WHEN TIDE RUSHES IN TO MEET COUGARS?

JOHN MACK BROWN

Johnny Mack Brown, who played on the first Alabama team to appear in the Rose Bowl, and Ray Loomis, performing on the first Washington State eleven to play at Pasadena, will face each other over the microphone Thursday night from KHJ. Brown scored two touchdowns against Washington in 1926. Loomis played end on the Cougar eleven which thumped Brown University in 1916. Earl V. Foster, graduate manager of W.S.C., will also be on the program Thursday night to tell you about tickets for the Rose Bowl classic. Paul Lowry, sports editor of The Times, will conduct the interview at 9:30 p.m. The broadcast features the regular weekly presentation of the Los Angeles Times sports edition of the air.

HOLLYWOOD SHEIKS WIN

League Champions Thump Scots as Magyars Defeat Victorias in Well Played Soccer Game

With the Hollywood Sheiks, league champions last year and runners-up in the State finals, still remaining the only undefeated team in the Los Angeles City Soccer League, play in the second round of competition began yesterday afternoon with the flashy Sheiks downing the Scots by 2 goals to 0 in the feature game of the program at Loyola Field, while the Magyars, another top-notcher in league competition, won over the Victorias, 3 to 1, in what really was an interesting soccer affair.

Over at Tournament Park, Pasadena, two surprise victories were written down on the books when Mr. Johnny Bain's muchly improved Richfield Oilmen nosed out the Pasadena A.C.C. youngsters by a 1-goal margin in the opener on the bill, while the Sons of St. George eleven and the Vikings played to a standstill with 2 goals apiece.

The heralded feature tilt out at Loyola Field was rather disappointing in the way of thrills. With Steve (Sheik) Heppell transferred from the Mag line-up to that of Bobby Cooke's Scots, fans looked for an interesting afternoon inasmuch as Heppell is rated as one of the best scoring center-forwards in the league. However, Heppell seemed to be fairly well bottled up with Ernie Copeland doing most of the ball-work in the Sheik's territory. Charlie Cowie scored early in the game for Danny Hall's Sheiks with a clever boot after the boys had fought viciously around the net for a while. Late in the game, Jimmy McDill, one of the cleverest, scored from a corner kick when the ball curved and went in the net

Warner Says He Hasn't Been Approached; Would Consider $25,000 Bid

SAN CLEMENTE, Dec. 14.—Pop Warner, Stanford coach, who is visiting with his brother, Judge Fred S. Warner of this Spanish village, stated this afternoon that the University of Pennsylvania had not officially approached him in regard to the coaching berth at that school. Warner stated that all he knew of the negotiation was what he had read in the newspapers.

"When the University of Pennsylvania officially asks me to consider the post of teaching football at Philadelphia I, of course, will give it consideration," said Warner today. "Naturally if the position of coach at Pennsylvania would call for a salary of $25,000 a year I would be forced to consider it, as you know I am free to leave Stanford at any time."

Warner declared that he has never been approached by Pennsylvania in regard to coaching. Stories two years ago said Pennsylvania was seeking his services, but Pop declared that he had never been in official communication with Pennsylvania in regard to coaching their team.

The famous Cardinal mentor stated that he planned to spend the rest of the week in San Clemente or in Agua Caliente. He had an invitation to visit the famous Mexican resort and stated that he would take advantage of the invitation some time this week. At present he is playing golf on the Spanish village course and fishing off the San Clemente Strand.

GREEN BAY PACKERS WIN PRO GRID TITLE

PORTSMOUTH (O.) Dec. 14. BUCCANEER HORSEMEN CAPTURE POLO CLASH

Buccaneer poloists with T. Lyell Puckett and Reggie Weiss showing the way, galloped to a 6-to-2 victory over Will Rogers's Rovers yesterday at Rustic Canyon Field. The game which at times was hard fought was played under trying conditions as a high wind made the ball shooting more difficult than it usually is. Puckett and Weiss, however, had their shots pretty well under control and the Rovers were bottled in a hole in the first half of the game, and the Buccaneers galloped away from them in the last four chukkers.

At half-time the score was 2 to 0. In the fifth chukker the Buccaneers made three goals practically putting the game on ice there. The Rovers scored once in the fifth and once in the seventh chukker. Will Rogers, Jr., accounted for one of the goals, and Winslow Felix the other.

Hugh Blue umpired.

SERVICE TEAMS HAVEN'T KISSED AND MADE UP YET

BY HERBERT W. BARKER

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 14. (AP)—The thirty-first Army-Navy football clash served its purpose in earning something like $600,000, for the unemployed, but there were no indications today it would lead to any permanent renewal of athletic relations between the two government academies.

When negotiations for the game were completed it was emphasized it would affect in no way the dispute over eligibility rules that drove the academies apart after the 1927 football game. For the sake of charity, both were willing to bury the hatchet for one game provided they were given the privilege of taking it up again as soon as the final whistle blew. And that, apparently is precisely what both have done.

It has been generally understood the Navy was prepared to take the initiative and either force a showdown on the eligibility dispute or take steps toward a reconciliation, but the Army was believed to be unreceptive to any agreement which would not give the Cadets the same free scope in eligibility rules they always have enjoyed.

The game itself was a hard-fought affair, but there was no evidence of ill feeling on the part of combatants themselves. There were a good many penalties but no more than were to be expected in a contest so closely fought.

One incident after the game was significant. Tradition calls for the winning cheering section to march across the field at the conclusion of the game and pelt the losers with whatever missiles happen to co

ike Reynolds to Captain Redskins This Year

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Dec. 14. (Exclusive)—Imbued with the pirit to bring basketball fame to Stanford — a spirit that has been lacking here for the past four years —the Redskin squad of thirty men entered its last week of practice before the opening of the season, a week from tomorrow night. For the first time in years the Stanford five will enter the season with nly a knowledge of teamwork following the work of John Bunn, new tanford coach, in emphasizing ndamentals rather than scrimhages.

JIM MEARS.

Because of the installation of the "Phog" Allen system of play at Stanford, the chances of the six returning lettermen for places on this year's first team are just as much in doubt as are any of the other twenty-four men out for the sport.

SIX LETTERMEN BACK

Returning lettermen are Vance awcett of Hollywood, and Bud awkins of Pasadena, and Don Ty-, Pasadena, forwards; Jimmy ears of Los Angeles, center; Capt. ike Reynolds of Pasadena, and hn Tampcke of San Francisco, ards. Fawcett and Capt. Reyn- are the only regulars of the six ttermen.

Whether Coach Bunn can find aterial to replace "Red" Berg at rward, John McCandless at cen-, and Harlow Rothert at guard is problem worrying campus cage llowers. The three players are regulars not returning this year.

Bunn has emphasized pivoting, dribbling, shooting and passing to such an extent that many of the basketeers are willing to stop practice when the whistle announces the end of the grueling sessions every afternoon.

Outstanding among the men to port this year are Rudy Rintala, ill Moffatt, Don Colvin, all from football squad; Irwin Tway, Har- Eselen, Tom Cordry, Payne lmer and Al Ray, all from last ar's freshman cage outfit; Vard ounis, Bill Doub, Carrol Weaver, ill Baker, from last year's varsity uad.

REYNOLDS WILL PLAY

Fears that Capt. Reynolds would be able to actively participate this year's schedule are gradu- fading as an ankle injury, sus- ined this summer, is gradually im- oving.

Despite the change in style of ay, Coach Bunn has declared it uld not surprise him to find Stan- d among the leaders in the con- nce race.

Bunn was formerly assistant varsity coach and head freshman coach at the University of Kansas, where "Phog" Allen has had so much success. The new Indian coach replaces "Husky" Hunt, who was relieved of his cage duties at the opening of the present school year.

Although an engineer by profes- n, Bunn deserted the transit and veyor's chain to become an in- ructor in the Kansas School of gineering. While an instructor, nn was asked to assist in bas- ball and baseball there, sports which he won six letters. He also acquired four letters while playing four years as quarterback on the Kansas eleven.

The Stanford schedule for the season follows:

Dec. 23—Stanford vs. San Jose State; Dec. 24, Young Men's Institute; Jan. 2, St. Mary's; Jan. 3, University of San Francisco; Jan. 5, Montana; Jan. 9-10, U.C.L.A. at Los Angeles (conference games;) Jan. 16-17, Southern California (conference games;) Jan. 24, California at Berkeley (conference game;) Jan. 27, Olympic Club; Jan. 31, U.C.L.A. (conference game;) Feb. 3, College of Pacific; Feb. 7, Southern California at Los Angeles (conference game;) Feb. 10, Santa Clara; Feb. 14, California (conference game;) Feb. 21, California at Berkeley (conference game.)

CORBETT, WALKER TO MEET

Fresno Southpaw and Youthful Star Will Tangle on January 13 at Olympic

Young Corbett, Fresno southpaw, and Paulie Walker will probably meet in their postponed bout at the Olympic on January 13. This date will stand unless Tommy Freeman can come to California at this time.

Freeman is to box Sammy Jackson here in January and the club will shift any other planned bout in order to fit into the welterweight champion's tour.

PAULIE WALKER.

Baby Joe Gans hopes to get into the welter weight big time here, although he is really only a 140 - pounder. But the Negro idol of Central avenue is not averse to giving away weight.

Babe Anderson, San Jose slugger, is a short-ender in his ten-round bout with Gans tomorrow night at the Doyle club. Gans is figured to be at his best now while Anderson is more of a flash performer.

Anderson might knock out the champion of the world one night and lose to an outsider his next start. But the San Jose boy is a good crowd-pleaser.

In his only start at the Olympic recently Anderson knocked out Leo Hernandez in a round. In two Hollywood appearances he trailed both Bucky Lawless and Benny Miller.

The Olympic has hopes of matching Gans, if he beats Anderson, with the winner of the Walker-Corbett bout. Corbett turned the Negro down as an opponent once, but would probably change his mind if Gans looks like he would help draw a gate.

Bobby Reister, who knocked out Baby Sal Sorio in a round at Pasadena last week, has offered to fight Gans. The young German thinks he is ready for the best of the light welters. However, Reister is hardly 18 years of age. The Olympic isn't likely to rush him that fast.

There will be forty rounds of boxing tomorrow night. If the turnout is sufficient a show will be run Christmas week.

Don Petron, the Newark Jewish heavyweight who claims to have chased Steve Hamas out of New Jersey is favored over Bad News Johnson in the eight-round semi-wind-up under Gans and Anderson.

to hand. The losers keep their seats and accept philosophically what comes. Yesterday this tradition was ignored. The Midshipmen remained seated but the Cadets failed to start the customary bombardment.

Although it took a fourth-quarter 57-yard dash by Ray Stecker to bring victory to the Army, 6-0, there was no question that the better team won. Army piled up twelve first downs to three for the Navy and gained 182 yards by rushing, to 63 for the Navy. Time and again the Cadets marched down deep into Navy territory only to find a scrappy Navy defense in the way.

Navy's one big chance to score came shortly after Stecker had broken loose for his spectacular touchdown. Bowman fumbled one of Bowstrom's long punts and Byng, Navy star, recovered the ball on the Army 25-yard line. Navy tried four passes in a vain attempt at least to tie the score and possibly win, but the alert Army defense broke up all of them, and Navy's chance had gone.

Grover Whalen's committee on arrangements still was busily checking up today on the financial figures for the game but it was said it might be three or four days before any definite announcement could be made as to the receipts. Estimates placed the total receipts at around $600,000, far below the $1,250,000 it had been hoped would be reached.

Twin Bill on Ice Tonight

With an ice hockey game between the girl teams of the Goodyear Rubber Company and the Palais De Glace scheduled as an added attraction, a double-header will be held on the Palais ice tonight. The regular Senior League clash will bring together the league-leading Los Angeles Bruins and the fast-skating Hollywood Monarchs.

Since Mike Fly, a veteran Winnipeg hockey man, took over the Monarchs the team has snapped out of its slump and has been winning. Fly has signed several new players, among them his two sons, Jim and Joe. The sextet will be an even bet against the Bruins, who blanked the Maple Leafs by a 5-to-0 count last Thursday.

Art Palfrey's pucksters have added to their ranks a pair of seasoned players in the persons of Al Oulmet of Winnipeg, a wing, and Jack Dawson, former Moose Jaw star. Dawson will cavort at defense for the remainder of the season.

The feminine sextets tonight will clash between periods of the regular contest.

Hostilities will get under way at 8:30 sharp, with Bill Phipps scheduled to referee.

REDLANDS TO ENJOY BASKETBALL WEEK

REDLANDS, Dec. 14.—Basketball fans are to have plenty of basketball for this week-end with the high-school playing two Citrus Belt League games here and the university having a practice game with the Pomona Junior College. Also next week Harold Niedemeyer, former university star, is bringing his Coronado High School basketball players here for several games.

Redlands is playing with Covina in the first C.B.L. games for the season here. The university may have considerable workout with Pomona Junior High School for the school is reported to have an exceptional team.

SOCIETIES TO BOOST GAME

John R. Gaudin of 5331 Pasadena avenue, president of Alabama State Society, has requested a joint meeting of all State societies interested in meeting the Alabama football players upon their arrival at Pasadena and joining in a reception for them to meet Friday, the 20th inst., at 8 p.m., on the mezzanine floor of the Stowell Hotel, 416 South Spring street.

The Giants sifted through so fast they broke up most of the plays called by Stuhldreher and Carideo before they could get under way. Several times, the All-Stars were set back from 15 to 25 yards in a sequence of three running plays by the hard-charging professionals. It was a magnificent exhibition of line play.

work together and the captain is no longer just another pawn.

It should be said in this connection that more and more coaches are working to bring back more fun to football, realizing also that in this way they can get out better teams.

These changes are always much better when they come from the inside, rather than from outside pressure. Football is supposed to belong to the undergraduates. If they can't handle it, the fault is theirs. But they are beginning to show they can handle it.

Winning Seasons

With the curtain down, barring one final game on New Year's Day, the number of strong teams that were beaten more than once sets a record.

Winning seasons now must carry three combinations: Plenty of good material, able coaching, and almost unlimited time for teaching and training, for drilling in the fundamentals, such as blocking, tackling, passing, kicking and ball carrying.

The latter element is fully as important as the material for even good material and good coaching require time, and plenty of it to get anywhere consistently. And this means a long, hard spring drill with a big squad out. It means concentrating on the purpose of building a winning team. Those that don't so concentrate, cannot expect to travel with those that do.

Pomona Tennis Players Lose

Led by Capt. John Booge, the Harvard racketers trounced Pomona yesterday by the overwhelming score of 14 matches to 0. The clever playing of Ranny Forbes featured when he won from Jack Dunham in three sets, 6-8, 8-6, 6-2. The matches were played on the loser's courts. Results of matches:

And not only Shires, nationally known figure will be there, but the great James J. Jeffries, as a former heavyweight champion as well.

LUTZE SIGNED WITH DE GLANE

Greco-Roman Champ Faces Popular Venice Grappler

Nick Lutze, popular Venice life guard, was signed by Promotor Lou Daro yesterday to meet Henri De Glane, world's Greco - Roman wrestling champion, in the finish feature event of the final all-star mat program of the year planned for the Olympic next Monday night.

NICK LUTZE.

Lutze, who has not had a chance at the world's title in more than two years, asked for the first championship match with Den George here and declared he was ready to prove his right to such a bout by meeting any opponent selected for him.

George had eight nontitle matches here in the last seven months, but the closest of them all was the one he had with Lutze. The backward-body-slam exponent feels certain he can beat George the next time they meet. Their first bout ended when both fell out of the ring. Lutze tumbled to the bottom of the steps leading from the dressing-rooms to the ring, a distance of fifteen feet. He was so badly hurt that George won handily, although up to the time of the accident Lutze had scored a fall and he was trying to toss George with a slam hold for the second one.

In picking De Glane as his opponent, Daro is giving Lutze one of the greatest wrestlers in the game to test his right to a title bout. De Glane looked like a champion the night he held Everett Marshall to a draw and just as formidable when he held Ed "Strangler" Lewis even for an hour two weeks later. He disposed of the powerful Balkan, Dan Koloff, here last week in a decisive manner.

De Glane has been on the Coast for two months and at the present time is said to be in much better condition than he was with either of his two biggest matches here. He will be at his best when he faces Lutze next Monday night.

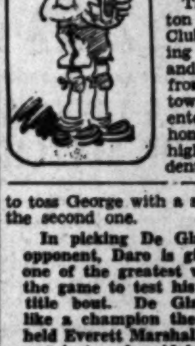
Sonnenberg was not injured as badly as was first reported in his bout with George here last week, and Lutze had hoped to get his first chance at the former Dartmouth football star now that he has lost the title.

It was reported yesterday, however, that Sonnenberg would not be able to wrestle for several weeks yet. The former champion did state, however, that he would consider offers for a match with Lutze as soon as he had recovered.

Promoter Daro expects to line up his other two big bouts for this card today.

HUNTINGTON BEACH TO STAGE PREP CAGE MEET

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Dec. 14. The second annual southern counties basketball tournament will be held here at the Huntington Beach Union High School three days next week, on December 18, 19 and 20.



The Huntington Beach Hi-Y Club is sponsoring the event and players from out of town will be entertained in homes of the high school students. About 150 boys are expected to be guests here. The club sent out twenty-five invitations to the schools that participated last year in the initial event and twenty-four have accepted. Coach Leon Miner is making plans to have this tournament surpass the one held last year. A large trophy will be awarded the winning school.

San Diego was the winning team last year and they have a strong team ready to send out this year, it is said. Schools expecting to participate are Excelsior, Fullerton, Tustin, Brea, Whittier, Capistrano, Chino, Orange, San Diego, Hemet, Chaffey, Redlands, Garden Grove, Santa Ana, San Bernardino, Anaheim, Riverside, Escondido, Oceanside, Corona, La Jolla, Newport Harbor, Perris, Elsinore and Huntington Beach.

Moore, member of the chamber, is soliciting entries so that the fisherman's race may be an added feature.

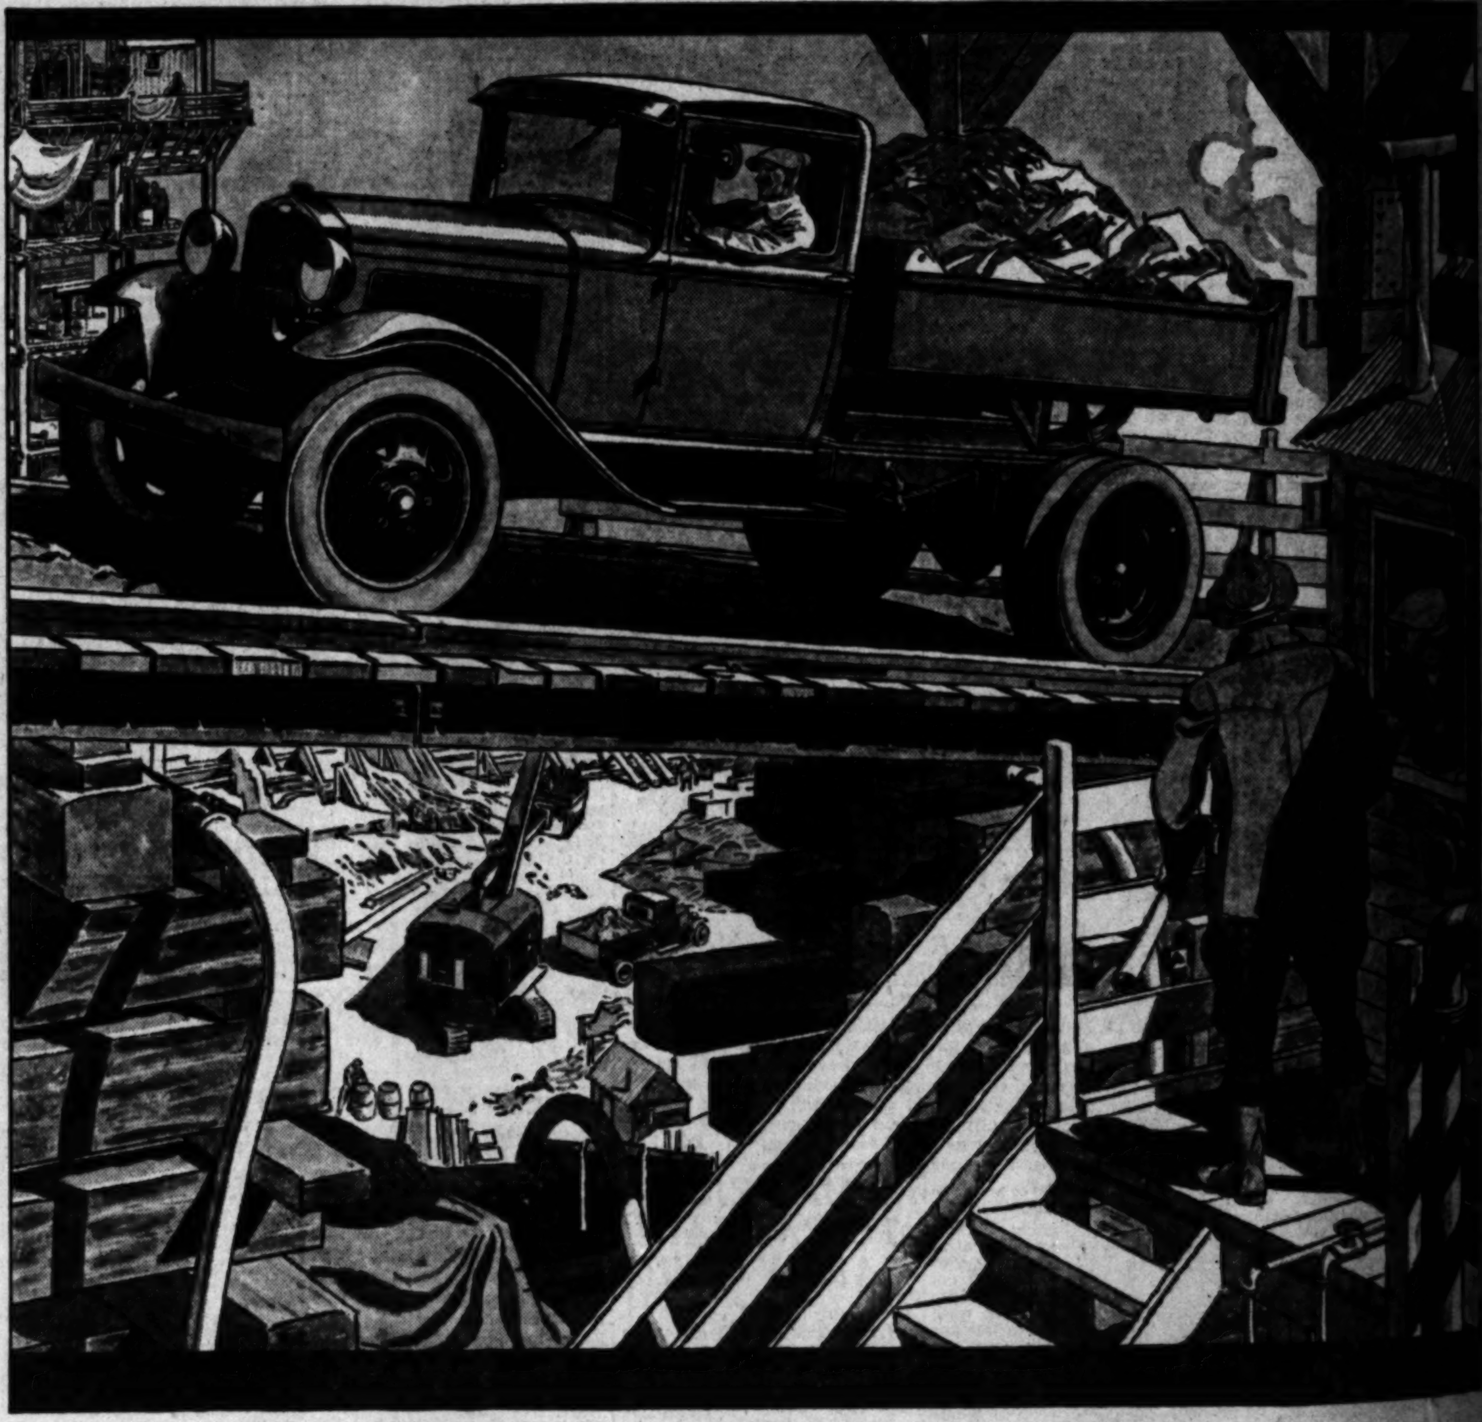
The Ford Truck gives liberal service AT SCANT COST



WHERE there are goods to be hauled and work to be done, the Ford 1½-ton truck finds its proper place. You will see these trucks in widespread service, lending their power and strength to the jobs in hand. In each case, the full measure of hauling value they give is increased by their marked economy.

Mechanical excellence, which contributes to reliability and capable performance in the Ford truck, is evident throughout its chassis. The 4-cylinder engine develops 40 horse-power at 2200 r. p. m., which is but a moderate engine-speed. More than twenty ball and roller bearings reduce friction and wear at important points in the chassis, adding to the life of the truck.

Simplicity of the electrical, ignition, cooling, lubrication and fuel systems also insures uninterrupted service, and lowers the cost of maintenance.

Other features of importance are the forty different kinds of steel in the chassis; the extensive use of fine steel forgings; the spiral bevel gear rear axle, with straddle-mounted pinion; 4-speed transmission; large, fully enclosed brakes; and dual rear wheels, available at small additional cost.

There is a wide range of bodies, making the Ford truck adaptable to economical service in many businesses. See this truck at the showroom of your Ford dealer. You can find the name and address of the nearest dealer in your "Where to Buy It" Classified Telephone Directory under the name "Ford."

FALCONS TURNED BACK

NEW YORK, Dec. 14. (AP)—Johnny Roach, little goalie of the New York Rangers, turned back the Detroit Falcons tonight in their attempt to perform a feat rare in National Hockey League circles, winning two games on successive nights. Mainly because of his play, the Rangers won, 3 to 0, and regained a tie for third place in the American division.

CLUB TEAM WILL MEET BRUIN FIVE

Mercuries and U.C.L.A. Mix on Olympic Floor; Troy Plays Tonight

Basketball will swing into full pace this week with three prominent games on the schedule. The feature game of the week will bring together the strong Los Angeles Athletic Club quintet and the U.C.L.A. sage outfit in the first game of the season to be played Saturday on the floor at the Olympic Auditorium.

JAMES DE MERS

The Bruin cagers, under the tutelage of Coach Caddy Works, scored two easy victories last week over Whittier and Pomona colleges in the Southern Conference, and may have the best team in history. U.C.L.A. will play the Hollywood Athletic Club, conquerors of the University of Southern California by a 29-to-26 count, on Wednesday night, and should have no trouble with the Movie City squad. Tonight will see the L.A.A.C. playing Coach Sam Barry's Thundering Herd in the Trojan pavilion, and the clubmen are installed as favorites to cop the victory. The club will also play Occidental College tomorrow night in the Tigers' gymnasium.

The L.A.A.C., under the player-coach, "Rags" Wilcox, is a formidable aggregation for the first time, and should give the Bruins one of the best games of the year, although the collegians are slight favorites. Carl Shy, former Bruin running guard, is on the club quintet, paired with Jimmy De Mers, standing guard. Pickell, center, and Hyatt, forward, are two "all-Americans," and Hyatt, in particular, has performed excellently so far this season. Wilcox plays the other forward position himself.

Dick Linthicum, all-Coast forward two years ago, who was out of school last year, is the outstanding man on the U.C.L.A. team. Linthicum is a clever floorman, a par-one shot for the basket, and an excellent defensive player. Capt. Carl Knowles, second high-point scorer and all-Coast forward last year, is another outstanding man on the Westwood Village outfit, and just a step behind Linthicum in all-around ability. Dick Von Hagen, a veteran regular forward last year, plays the other position in the forward line. Frank Lubin, six-foot five-inch behemoth of the court, jumps center, plays standing guard, and functions in a number of scoring plays.

The season in the southern division of the Pacific Coast Conference will open in Los Angeles on January 9 and 10, next, with the U.C.L.A. team clashing with the Stanford Cardinals at the Olympic Auditorium. The Trojans play California's Golden Bears at Berkeley on January 10.

Pirates Face Bears in Puck Tilt Tonight

The Union Oil Pirates and Sunfrese Bears have both entered what is now a four-way fight for the Southern California amateur hockey championship. They will meet tonight at the Winter Garden Ice Palace in a game that would do either club a lot of good.

Shell Oil set the pace during the early campaign, but Gilmore has lately been playing up to last year's standard. With Sunfrese and Union both in the thick of the fight, the race will probably not be decided until the tail end of the schedule.

Al Claman's Pirates will take the ice with McDonald at goal, Patrick and Henry at defense, and Hayden, Brandow, Warren, Simington, Keyes and Barr at forwards.

Clif Coleman's Bears will line up with White at goal, Collette and Smith at defense, Woodley, Grouch, McLellan, Miles, Fritz and Weber at forward.

TANFORAN TO SHIP MANY STEEDS SOUTH

AGUA CALIENTE (Baja California, Mex.) Dec. 14.—With the final curtain at the close of the fall meeting at Tanforan a veritable army of spindle-legged, glossy-coated thoroughbreds are headed here ready for a fling at the $170,000 stake, handicap and purse money that will be hung up for the eighty-two-day session that will be ushered in on Christmas Day. Never in the history of the American turf have there been so many racers shipped from one point to another in the same space of time. Between 500 and 600 horses will entrain for Agua Caliente, a large part of them in three specials. Others will come in individual shipments.

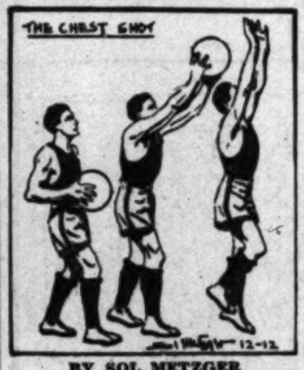
Two-Handed Chest Shot Brings Tally



BY SOL METZGER

The two-handed chest shot is the best in the world for scoring goals from the foul-line in basketball. Hold the ball in the spread finger, thumbs and opposing hands balanced at either side and rivet your gaze on the front rim of the basket.

Then push the ball almost straight up into space and forward, using the wrists and fingers, as it is leaving the hands, to give it the underspin or English that makes it skid off the backboard straight down into and through the ring if your method is to carom it off the backboard.

The follow through is important, so you actually let the body go up a bit and after the ball. It's the most accurate shot of all, and is used, in addition to foul shooting, when one gets a chance from the floor with no opponents near enough to break the attempt.

BERNAR JOINS EASTERN TEAM

Kerr Adds Giant Center to Shrine Game Squad

HAMILTON (N. Y.) Dec. 14. (AP)—Milford Bernar, veteran Syracuse University center, was added to the East squad today by Andy Kerr and will leave tomorrow for Chicago, where Kerr's players are assembling preparatory to heading for the Pacific Coast to meet the West on the 27th inst., in the Shriners' Hospital fund game.

Bernar is one of the biggest centers in football. He stand 6 feet 3 inches and weighs 215 pounds. He started his varsity career as a fullback but for the last two seasons has been the snapper-back and defensive fullback for the big Orange team.

Grid Material Outlook Good for 1931 Bears

BERKELEY, Dec. 14. (Exclusive) The new University of California football coach, whoever he may be, will not face a lack of material when he assumes charge of the 1931 Golden Bear eleven.

Twenty-two letter men will be taken on the job next season, in addition to twenty-seven numeral winners from the freshman team.

This is a situation quite different from the 1926 season when Coach Clarence "Nibs" Price took charge for the first time, upon the death of Andy Smith. Price had scarcely any letter men and had to play mostly sophomores in that first disastrous season, which was quite as bad as the poor 1930 record.

The only letter men who will not be back next season include the following: Capt. Carl Handy, Ted Beckett and Eugene Eldering, guards; Herman Eickmeyer, center; Dolph Timmerman, tackle; Russ Avery and Togo Thornton, ends, and Clarence (Moose) Garrity, fullback. Elerding and Garrity were the only men who were not considered "first string" in this graduating outfit.

In the returning material the new California mentor will have the following men: Ralph Stone, Robert Bartlett, Louis Di Resta and Charles Whyte, ends; Seldon Del Giorgio, Fritz Cahn, Gerald Easterbrook and Robert Neuhaus, tackles; Robert Pascoe, guard; Frank Medanich and Thor Hansen, centers; Ed Griffiths, Ed Kirwan and Sheldon Potter, quarterbacks; George Watkins, William McCutcheon, Ray East Joe Hickingbotham, Henry Schaldach and Lee Valianos, fullbacks; Ralston Gill and Augustus Castro, fullbacks.

There are also a group of varsity men who did not win letters last season. They will be back to try their luck again. Some potentially strong material is found in this group, which includes: Richard Tozer and Jack De Benedetti, ends; Lester Williams and Verne Swaboda, tackles; Arthur Weston, Donald Handy, Sam Gill and Marcus Swinney, guards; Joe Bohl, center; James Sheridan, quarterback; Ulrich Fritschi, Ralph Seeley, John Hunt and Milton Zimmerman, halfbacks; Joseph Smith and Laverne Binder, fullbacks.

Coach Roy Riegels's freshman team, which finished the season in whirlwind style, defeating Santa Clara, Oneonta Military Academy and Stanford in succession, is sending up the following men:

Charles Thompson, James Keefer, Elmo Tofanelli and Caroll Ellwood, fullbacks; Oakley Adams, Aaron Friedman, Rolland Nichols, John Kilfoil and Henry Beye, halfbacks; Charles Stewart, William Beye and Arnold Hillblom, quarterbacks; James Tucker and George Kemp, centers; Capt. Arthur Carlson, Norman Becker, Ralph Brewer and Dow Bonnell, guards; John Ransome and Robert Moore, tackles; Lloyd Piller, Richard Coar, Lewis Cox, Sherlock Hackley, Arden Hedge, John Sublett and Robert Moore, ends.

HARDY ATHLETE

Henry Wisniewski, right guard of the outstanding Fordham University eleven, went through the past two seasons without receiving a single substitution.

Midwinter Tournament at Palomar Starts One Week From Today

Southern California's first annual midwinter tennis tournament will get under way one week from today on the courts of the Palomar Tennis Club. Preliminary rounds for the junior events will start next Monday, while the seniors will begin Friday. All finals will be played Sunday, the 28th inst.

ELLSWORTH VINES

Although the many eastern stars who competed in the recent Pacific Southwest tournament will be absent, every local player who took part in that event will be in action, insuring fine competition in all divisions. Ellsworth Vines, of Pasadena, and Sydney Wood, of the same city, whom Bill Tilden considers two of the most promising young players in the game today, are to compete. Vines won the Pacific Southwest crown, defeating all of the leading eastern stars.

Other well-known Californians who will compete are Lester Stoefen, conqueror of Johnny Doeg, national champion, and Vines; Dolf Muehleisen and Bob Muench, San Diego, national intercollegiate doubles champions; Elbert Lewis, Pacific Coast singles king; Keith Gledhill, conqueror of Wood and Johnny Van Ryn this year, and a number of others.

Bill Ackerman, pro at Palomar, has had the courts reconditioned for the tournament, insuring fast play. The event is being sponsored by the Los Angeles Junior Chamber of Commerce, and ends the 1930 tennis season in Southern California.

HOLLYWOOD IN SOCCER WIN

within a narrow margin.

The Magyars proved to be just too strong for the Vics, and won after a good battle. Felix Sukdol scored twice for the Mags, while Zanek scored once on a penalty. Winkel kicked the oval in the net for the losing aggregation. The Magyars started out and grabbed an early lead, as they scored two goals to the Vics' one during the first half. The two Espinoso brothers, "Red" and Roberta, played well for the winning eleven and were good on both offense and defense.

Pasadena really outplayed the Richfield squad in the Pasadena game, and it was only the brilliant and effective saves that Spargo, Richfield goal-keeper, was able to make, that won for the Oilmen. The only score of the tilt was made late in the second half, when Tom Fox, inside right for Bain's boys, kicked the ball in the net.

The feature game out at the Crown City was the tie affair between the Sons and the Vikings. Both elevens fought very hard to break up the tie, but neither was able to score a winning goal. This was one of the closest and best-played games yesterday, almost overcapping the opening tilt between Richfield and Pasadena for thrills.

Royal Giants Capture Pair From Kelleys

Lonnie Goodwin's fast-traveling Philadelphia Royal Giants stretched their winning streak to nine straight yesterday at Wrigley Field by defeating the Kelley Kars in both games of a twin bill, 6 to 3, and 11 to 3. A three-run rally in the sixth inning cinched the opener for the Giants.

The colored squad had easy sailing in the nightcap, Allen, Carr and White beginnning the first inning with home runs over the left-field fence. Three more runs scored before the inning ended. Walter Berger also homed in this game, his drive clearing the trees on the other side of Thirty-ninth street and proving one of the hardest clouts ever made at Wrigley Field. The scores:

Penn Staters Complete 1931 Grid Schedule

STATE COLLEGE (Pa.) Dec. 14. With the scheduling of West Virginia University for a game at Morgantown, W. Va., on November 21 of next year, Penn State completed its 1931 football program. The Mountaineers were signed for the open date in the schedule as originally approved several weeks ago. The game will be the first between these teams since 1925 when the West Virginians were victorious, 14 to 0.

Plans for a tenth game for the Saturday following Thanksgiving Day had been dropped after the West Virginia game had been decided upon. The scheduling of this contest means that Penn State will not play on Thanksgiving Day for the first time in nearly thirty years.

The complete schedule is as follows:

Waynesburg at home, September 26; Lebanon Valley at home, October 3; Temple at Philadelphia, October 10; Dickinson at home, October 17; Syracuse at Syracuse, October 24; Pittsburgh at home, October 31; Colgate at home, November 7; Lafayette at Easton, November 14; West Virginia at Morgantown, November 21.

CANTLON IS RACE VICTOR

take the lead from Stubby Stubblefield on the twenty seventh lap. From that point on Cantion steadily increased his margin until at the end of the sixty-sixth time around he had lapped the entire field. "Shorty" undoubtedly would have passed the field sooner if Ernie Triplett had not held him up for about five laps on two different occasions.

Triplett continually disregarded Starter Wagner's signal for him to move over and allow Cantlon to get by, and when Wagner could endure that oversight no longer he reached for a white flag, which means to drive in the pits and consult with the referee. Ernie must have had a premonition of what was coming for he obligingly let Cantlon go by on the back stretch, thereby solving the problem without Wagner's assistance.

Although the feature race was run without a single mishap, the crowd was, nevertheless, treated to many a thrill. Walt May driving Quinn's Dayton Thoroughbred special took a half-spin going into the south turn and only a brilliant piece of driving by Ralph De Palma averted a tragedy. De Palma swerved his mount around May's stalled car when it seemed almost impossible that he could miss him.

Stubblefield and Bill Cummings caused chills to run up and down many a spine the way they battled around the curves. On the seventh lap Stubblefield and Cummings, who was on the outside lane, shot into the south curve with front wheels almost touching. Stubby stepped on the gas and tried to nose in front of Cummings who was forced to skid sideways to keep from climbing over the other car. The skid damaged Cummings's mount and he was forced to withdraw. Stubby kept on but his car went bad soon after.

Lou Moore in the Gilmore Lion fought a brilliant duel with Quinn and Triplett for fifty laps and after finally assuming second place his car developed motor trouble on the sixtieth time around, forcing him out of the event.

Cummings drove a great race to beat out Stubblefield and Moore in the two-lap consolation race. Cummings won the thriller on the first turn when he outmaneuvered Stubby for the pole position, and gained so much ground that he was never overtaken, although the finish was very close.

Curley Grandel led Herman Schurch and Sam Palmer to the finish in the twenty-lap consolation race. The time was 10m. 16s.

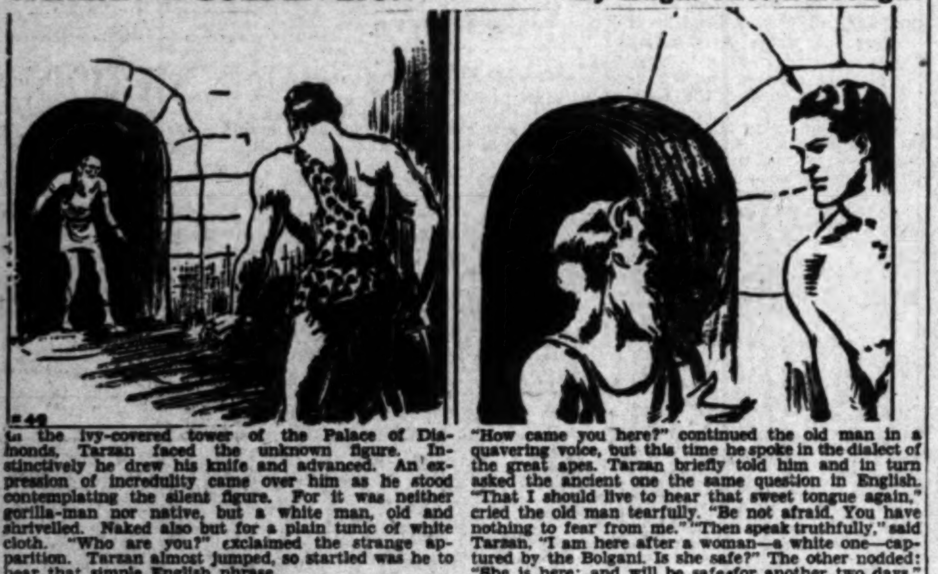
A CHUCKLE FOR EVERYBODY

TARZAN AND THE GOLDEN LION

By Edgar Rice Burroughs



In the ivy-covered tower of the Palace of Diamonds, Tarzan faced the unknown figure. Instinctively he drew his knife and advanced. An expression of incredulity came over him as he stood contemplating the silent figure. For it was neither gorilla-man nor native, but a white man, old and shrivelled. Naked also but for a plain tunic of white cloth. "Who are you?" exclaimed the strange apparition. Tarzan almost jumped, so startled was he to hear that simple English phrase.

"How came you here?" continued the old man in a quavering voice, but this time he spoke in the dialect of the great apes. Tarzan briefly told him and in turn asked the ancient one the same question in English. "That I should live to hear that sweet tongue again," cried the old man tearfully. "Be not afraid. You have nothing to fear from me." "Then speak truthfully," said Tarzan, "I am here after a woman—a white one—captured by the Bolgani. Is she safe?" The other nodded: "She is here; and will be safe for another two days."

Then in answer to the ape-man's questions concerning himself, he told the story of his boyhood trip into darkest Africa with Stanley, the explorer. Told it in a halting English as though his tongue were long unaccustomed to using the language. How hunting one day alone he became lost and was captured by unfriendly natives. How after escaping he wandered farther and farther into the savage interior. "Until upon an accursed day," he ended, "I found an entrance to this valley. Why they did not kill me I have never known."

"Now I am practically one of them. Always in my heart has been the hope I may escape. But it has become a feeble hope." After a moment he returned to the white captive. "Hopeless it is for her, too. The more so because the Bolgani have learned she is the queen of their hereditary enemies. I can tell you where she is, but cannot rescue her." "I can try," replied the ape-man. "But you will fail; and die," was the old man's answer. "Tell me where the woman is!" said Tarzan. "I do not agree with you that her case is hopeless."

GIFT CAKE TO BE SENT PRESIDENT

"Bill" Baker of Ojai Again Bakes Giant Present That Will Grace Hoover Table

SANTA PAULA, Dec. 14.—President Hoover will soon receive a California gift in the form of a Christmas cake from the Ventura County Chamber of Commerce, the handiwork of "Bill" Baker, famous cake-making artisan of Ojai, near here. The cake will be shipped Monday to Congressman Arthur Free of this district, who in turn, will present it to President Hoover on behalf of the people of Ventura county.

The cake weighs sixty-five pounds and contains delicious California fruits and nuts. It stands eighteen inches high and measures twenty inches in circumference.

Motif for the design is a combination of the Christmas season and patriotism.

The top is a picture that vividly portrays the wonderful artistry with sugar, of "Bill" Baker. He has created a repica of the San Buenaventura Mission with a background of mountains. The American shield and California Grizzly Bear emblem in colors, form a part of the entire design. Topping it all is the inscription, "Christmas Greetings to President Hoover from Ventura County, Cal."

Around the outer edge of the top is cleverly woven a rope of red, white and blue, while the inside border is a double row of American beauty roses so realistic in design that they almost appear as if they could be plucked. Christmas bells tied with ribbon form the top design. Sides of the great cake are in keeping with the top, in that the American shield and California Bear insigna are used alternatively as a border creation. California violets are used as a part of the scroll.

North Hollywood to Keep Up Fight to Get Hospital

NORTH HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 14. Asserting that two-thirds of all the accidents in San Fernando Valley take place in the North Hollywood section, directors of the local Chamber of Commerce state they have not as yet given up the hope of getting the Los Angeles city authorities to establish a regular emergency hospital here.

At one time there was a temporarily established hospital here to handle police cases, but it was discontinued in favor of the new emergency hospital completed not long ago in the Hollywood district. Most accident cases in this area are now either taken there or to the emergency hospital at Van Nuys.

Chamber directors said they would ask the Los Angeles police surgeon to visit here and make another survey of the situation. If the directors are again turned down, they say, that led by President George Williamson of the chamber they will make a call on Mayor Porter and lay the urgent need of the hospital before him.

HOSPITALITY ILLY REPAID BY INGRATES

Roger Bramy of Redlands Plays Good Samaritan to Trio Who Beat, Rob Him

REDLANDS, Dec. 14.—Roger Bramy, of 222 Buena Vista street, reported sadly this morning that times have changed since the day of the Man of Gallilee and that the Good Samaritan of this day gets a reward of a broken head and stolen property instead of the thanks of the needy one.

Bramy picked up three men, who said they needed help, and took them to his home, where he cooked a good meal for them. He fed them plenty of ham and fried potatoes and gave them bread and jam with plenty of butter. Those three men ate, and ate, and drank coffee and then ate some more.

After they had eaten all they could hold, one of them rose, bowed to Bramy and thanked him for the food, then gracefully drew a piece of pipe from his pocket and cracked Bramy over the head with it. Bramy went "out" and in a few minutes he had been tied up securely with strips of linen, trunk straps and such small items.

The men proceeded leisurely to fill Bramy's suit case with Bramy's clothes, practically all he had, bowed ironically and departed into the night. Then Bramy heard them trying to start his automobile and that made him see "red." He strained at his bonds and finally threw them off, ran out and frightened the men who could not get the car started. They abandoned it and the suit case and ran to Olive avenue.

Bramy returned to the house, called the police, and that section was scoured, but no trace of the three who had made one Good Samaritan need the services of another Good Samaritan, could be found.

LOCKHEED FACTORY IS NOT TO QUIT BURBANK

BURBANK, Dec. 14.—Carl Squier, general manager of the Lockheed airplane plant, who has just returned from Detroit following a conference with officials of the Detroit Aircraft Corporation of which the Lockheed company is a part, today stated that despite recent rumors, the plant is not to be removed from Burbank. On the contrary, he stated, a program has been laid out calling for a general enlargement of facilities and for increased activities in 1931. In addition to the manufacture of the standard model Vega monoplane, the company will make two new models. One of these will be the type with the disappearing landing-gears. When not used the wheels are drawn up into the wings of the craft.

EUCLID AVENUE WILL GET GOLDEN CARPET

ONTARIO, Dec. 14.—In the early spring Euclid avenue from Sixth street north to the Santa Fe Railroad tracks, Upland, will be a carpet of gold, the members of Ontario 20-30 Club having completed its program of planting California poppy seeds in the parkway, from curb to curb. Last year the club experimented with the poppies, planting a strip in the parkway. The flowers blossomed in such profusion that the entire parkway has been planted to the golden flower this year.

The poppy-strewn avenue last year attracted nation-wide attention through the club's official magazine.

UNIVERSITY NOW OF AGE

First Founders' Day of Redlands Institution Observed With Ceremonies Honoring Early Leaders

REDLANDS, Dec. 14.—Dr. Jasper Newton Field, first president, and others who had a part in the founding of the University of Redlands some twenty-one years ago, were honored at the exercises of the first Founders' Day of the university, today.

It was Dr. Field who inspired the Baptists of Southern California, meeting in Berean Hall, Los Angeles, on December 7, 1906, to found a college here. The school was incorporated in 1907 and a canvass for the $300,000 founding fund was begun. The location was determined by the acknowledged fitness of the city in the foothills and by the generous offer of a campus of forty acres by K. C. Wells of Hollywood. On September 29, 1909, the new institution opened in the Bible School rooms of the First Baptist Church of Redlands and the corner-stone was immediately laid for an Administration Building and recitation hall on the hill facing the San Bernardino Mountains.

At the opening session of the university, Mattison B. Jones, president of the board of trustees, gave a short address. Throughout the twenty-one years of growth and development Jones has remained in this office and it was he who delivered the historical address at the unveiling of an oil painting of Dr. Field which was the feature of the first observance of Founders' Day at the university. Other members of the original board still living are F. G. Cressy of Los Angeles, George F. Holt, Riverside; J. H. Strait and Arthur Gregory of Redlands. Deceased members are Carey R. Smith of Santa Ana, C. C. Pierce, Los Angeles; Dr. J. N. Field, Redlands, and H. P. D. Kingsbury of Pasadena.

Although the University has passed through some crises in its brief history, notably, the "freeze" of 1913, the growth of the physical plant as well as the academic standard of the institution has seemed almost miraculous to those who have watched its progress. From the original forty acres and one building have grown to a campus of 100 acres, fourteen modern, well-equipped buildings, and assets of more than $5,000,000. Students now number 600 and the faculty of six listed in the first catalogue has increased to fifty. The development of a music department, a school of education and a standard liberal arts course accredited by the Association of American Universities, are included in the achievements of the last ten years.

Alumni, trustees, friends and benefactors of the college were invited to return to the campus today to join with the churches of Redlands in the culmination exercises of the day in Memorial Chapel at 7 p.m., when an organ recital by Prof. Arthur Poister preceded addresses by Mayor Leo Lelean of the city of Redlands, Rev. Stanly Silke, Pasadena, who represented the alumni, and Mattison B Jones, Los Angeles, who gave the chief address. Letters and telegrams of congratulation and felicitations to the school upon this occasion were received by Dr. Victor L. Duke, president of the University, and one of the faculty who has been with the college since its humble beginnings. Other members of the staff who are also a part of the original faculty are: Prof. James Kyle, Latin; Prof. Harvey Collins, history, and Prof. S. Guy Jones, chemistry.

Mission Padre Returns From Honolulu Trip

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, Dec. 14. — His health much improved, Rev. St. John O'Sullivan, padre of Mission San Juan Capistrano, has returned to his duties as resident pastor, following a six-weeks' visit in Honolulu.

Father O'Sullivan, largely responsible for the reconstruction of the old mission into which he was carried, as an invalid twenty years ago, was met at San Pedro, where he disembarked, and was escorted to the gates of the mission. Joe Clever, member of the State highway patrol, headed the motor caravan.

During the absense of Father O'Sullivan, his duties were carried out by his brother, Rev. Frank O'Sullivan.

Corner-stone for New Postoffice Will be Laid

SAN BERNARDINO, Dec. 14.—Arrangements for laying the corner-stone of San Bernardino's $350,000 Federal Building on Wednesday are complete and S. W. McNabb, Federal District Attorney in Los Angeles and a former San Bernardino Mayor, has been obtained to represent the government.

About all that remains to be done is selection of the various material and records to be placed in a copper box and sealed in the corner-stone to remain until the structure becomes obsolete and is removed, nobody knows how many years from now. Among objects to be placed in the box will be copies of newspapers of that day, a group photograph of employees of the postoffice, and currency of $10 denomination and down. The money will be furnished by San Bernardino banks.

McNabb will deliver the principal address at the ceremony starting at 2:30 p.m. Postmaster Sherman G. Batchelor will introduce J. A. Kirk and J. A. Morris, who as Federal construction engineer and construction superintendent, are in charge of the work.

The corner-stone will be laid by John Stewart Ross of Los Angeles, Grand Master of the Masonic lodge. Superior Judge Charles L. Allison will preside, and H. S. Webster, president of the Chamber of Commerce, will speak briefly on behalf of that organization, which assumed the initiative in arranging the event.

Salary Suit of Teacher Set for Thursday

ONTARIO, Dec. 14. — Featured by delays and demurrers, the trial in the case of Mrs. D. L. Newkirk of this city, against the Mountain View School District for back salary, will come before Superior Court Thursday, according to Dep. Dist.-Atty. James King.

Mrs. Newkirk seeks $982.35, which she says is due her from the school district as salary between September, 1929, and February, 1930, a period for which she was contracted to teach, but did not, because of illness.

Mrs. Newkirk informed the court that when she was able to return to her duties in February, she was told the school would not release the substitute teacher.

King said the hearing will study the legal point whether Mrs. Newkirk, a probationary teacher, did not break her contract through failure to appear as a teacher during that period, thereby removing any right to salary.

At the time the school board refused to place Mrs. Newkirk on the pay roll in February, they called a hearing to determine whether she had rendered herself liable to discharge for failure to be present as a teacher, according to King. The board decided she was subject to discharge, and Mrs. Newkirk then instituted her suit.

TRIAL SET IN MURDER CASE FOR JANUARY

SANTA ANA, Dec. 14.—Trial of Elbert Sutherland, charged with the murder of Bert Meeks, Smeltzer oil worker, has been set by Superior Judge George K. Scovel for January 6, 7 and 8. Sutherland's bond was fixed at $10,000. Sutherland has admitted that he shot and killed Meeks when the oil worker approached his home the night of November 30. He maintains, however, that the man he killed and his brother had threatened his life and that he shot Meeks in self-defense.

ELEVATOR MAN GOES HIGHER

Frank J. Vail, Santa Barbara Octogenarian, Embarks for First Voyage in Plane and Fails to be Impressed; Wants to Go Faster

SANTA BARBARA, Dec. 14. Frank J. Vail of this city gave up engineering locomotives before automobiles were more than vague rumors; he deserted motoring street cars before busses were in vogue, and at present, is seriously considering giving up operating an elevator for piloting an airplane.

It seems that the other day Vail expressed his desire to take an airplane ride—the first in his eighty-odd years. His wish, spoken aloud, was conveyed to a local pilot and in due time, Vail strapped himself in a cockpit and was off to test man's newest method of rapid transportation.

Before going up, it is told, he warned the pilot not to attempt any "funny stuff" and when assured that the Department of Commerce prohibits such antics with passengers, he added:

"However, I won't mind a little speed. I hear these here things are fast."

While cruising about over the city he turned around to the pilot and asked what speed they were making.

"One-twenty," came back the reply.

"Lemme see how fast this here thing'll go," demanded the passenger, and shortly the plane was registering better than 130 miles an hour.

Upon landing Vail thanked his pilot and left the field with this remark:

"That was purty fast, but by-golly, I thought these here planes would go faster than that . . . They will? Well, by-golly, when you get a faster one lemme know!

"And say,—maybe next time we can get out over the ocean where nobody will see us and then do some of these here 'spin-tails.'"

With a chuckle he returned to his elevator and is contenting himself for the present with record-breaking six-story drops.

CROWNING OF QUEEN ANNOUNCED

Today Set for Coronation of Mary Lou Waddell as Rose Fete Monarch

PASADENA, Dec. 14.—While knights and their ladies in mediaeval attire bend their knees, pretty Mary Lou Waddell of San Marino will be crowned Queen of the Tournament of Roses tomorrow at 1 p.m. in the natural amphitheater at Brookside Park. More than 2000 persons, including hundreds of Los Angeles and Pasadena school children, will attend the colorful coronation ceremony.

Attired in a picturesque costume, C. Hal Reynolds, Tournament of Roses Association president, will enact the role of the "Archbishop of Canterbury."

All Southland residents are invited to do honor to Her Young Majesty and those who can do so are requested to bring floral tributes to lay at her feet.

Queen Mary Lou will be attended by her handmaidens, Pasadena Junior College beauties. They are Fannie Arnold, Alice Ashley, Mabel Carberry, Florence Dunkerley, Myrta Olmstead and Myrna Wilson.

Fifty-six floats have been entered in the New Year's Day parade, ten more than had been entered at this time last year. William Dunkerley, Tournament of Roses Association manager, announced today that advance indications are that the 1931 parade will break all previous records for number and quality of entries. The parade theme, "Dreams in Flowers," has stimulated the imagination of float designers, with the result that the thousands who witness the pageant will behold the most varied procession of flowers and beautiful girls in the forty-four years of Rose Tournament history, Dunkerly declares.

The parade will leave the corner of Orange Grove avenue and Colorado street at 10 o'clock. It will march east on Colorado to Meredith avenue, thence north on Meredith to Walnut street, west on Walnut street to the City Hall Plaza, where it will disband for the annual post-parade exhibit of gorgeous floats in front of Pasadena's stately new City Hall.

Two Killed in Auto Mishap

VENTURA, Dec. 14. (AP)—Charles Parrothers, 20 years of age, was killed, and Ted Kitley, 20, probably was fatally injured, in an automobile accident here today. The youths, both local high-school students, were found pinned beneath Parrothers' car, which was overturned in a ditch. Investigators found no explanation of the accident.

OWENSMOUTH PAPER OBSERVES BIRTHDAY

OWENSMOUTH, Dec. 14.—The Owensmouth Gazette, David R. Carlson, owner and publisher, this week is celebrating its nineteenth year. The paper was founded by H. J. Whitley, one of the first developers of the San Fernando Valley. He named it after the Hoboken (N. Y.) Gazette, then published by his uncle, T. J. Whitley. According to historical account the Hoboken newspaper was the one on which Horace Greeley learned to set type by hand. The Owensmouth Gazette had several owners and editors until it was taken over by Carlson in 1923. The paper is permanently established in its own building and well-equipped plant.

COAST CITY IN HOLIDAY CHEER

Huntington Beach Providing Happy Christmas

Food, Clothing and Presents for Needy Prepared

Firemen Repair Toys for Use of Boys and Girls

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Dec. 14. There is a happy Christmas in store for every one living within the city of Huntington Beach. With the formation of a temporary relief organization here, every person can be provided with food, clothing and presents.

Members of the Rotary Club called a special meeting of representatives from all organizations, at which W. N. Thompson, superintendent of the Standard Oil Company, presided. Mrs. W. H. Jones, philanthropy chairman of the Parent-Teacher Association, was named to head the welfare organization. C. B. Baldwin, superintendent of the elementary school, suggested that the organizations form a permanent welfare organization, similar to the Community Chest. After the first of the year representatives will meet to complete plans.

The firemen sent out an SOS for broken or discarded toys. The members, fifteen in number, are repairing, painting and remodeling them. Quantities have arrived daily, many of them from children here, and some coming from as far away as Beverly Hills. There are bicycles, wagons, scooters, games and balls for the boys, and dolls, buggies, beds, chairs, tables and many other toys, for the girls. W. H. Warner, local harware merchant, donated about $75 worth of toys for the cause. A large room is almost filled with toys that are gay and bright with new paint. Many parts of bicycles or wagons are missing, but the firemen are undaunted in their work. If need be they send away to the factory for new parts. Fireman Clark is in charge of the Christmas-toy work.

SANTA CLAUS IN SLEIGH

On Christmas Eve. Fireman Weigart, as Santa Claus, and other members of the fire-fighting force, accompanied by Mrs. Jones, who is called "Mrs. Santa Claus," will sally forth in Saint Nick's sleigh and carry gifts of toys, Christmas food and clothing to many homes.

A call was issued asking for food and clothing. A great supply is in store at the elementary school. Children responded heartily and brought quantities of food and clothing. Parent-Teacher members met at the Standard Oil Company's recreation hall and spent two days in tying comforts and repairing and making clothing. Every organization in the city has come forth offering assistance. The Legion Auxiliary, one of the leading organizations to render aid, has been working alone, but has now joined forces with the temporary welfare organization. Mrs. May Benningsdorf, president, and Mrs. M. Olson head the auxiliary.

The city has responded to the call of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce to carry out the Christmas out-of-doors idea. Christmas trees, lighted brilliantly, line the streets of the city, and red and green banners wave from the ornamental light standards. The Christmas spirit has been carried to the homes throughout the city for there are many lighted living trees. Others have responded by setting trees on their porches and walks.

A huge tree, transported on a truck, will be carried to the intersection of Main and Walnut streets on the evening of the 23rd inst. and a community Christmas program will be carried out. The Huntington Beach municipal concert orchestra will play and the Men's Glee Club will make its initial bow.

On Christmas Eve the churches will have their Christmas programs. Carolers will offer their songs of praise from many corners on the streets.

WELFARE LEADERS CONFER

Redlands Plans Co-ordinated Efforts to Take Care of Unemployed Through Holiday Season

REDLANDS, Dec. 14.—Local welfare agency heads held a long conference here today and planned a co-ordinated and determined effort to take care of the unemployed in this section through the holiday season. The Associated Charities, the City Council, the Salvation Army, and several other organizations were represented at the meeting, and the plan worked out plans for these organizations take care of the local persons who are in need, while the City Council, through the police department, will attempt to take care of the transients.

These transients will be placed in jail over night, given two meals, and the choice of leaving the city or working on a rock pile which will be established. If they work on the rock pile, enough will be paid to give them a place to sleep and eat for a day's work.

The charity organizations are planning to take care of the local needy, with baskets of groceries and such things for the holiday season, and with clothing that will be needed. Every case will be carefully investigated and the relief will be given only to those who are actually in need of it, it was emphasized.

SAN BERNAARDINO CIVIC LEADERS TO AID NEEDY

SAN BERNARDINO, Dec. 14.—Civic leaders are organizing for the purpose of forming a committee to seek a solution of the unemployment problem through the medium of a clearinghouse where employers and prospective employees will be asked to file their needs. An executive committee from the Chamber of Commerce was appointed last night to handle the details.

The appointments were announced by Rev. Lowell A. Young, pastor of the First Congregational Church and chairman of the Chamber of Commerce unemployment activities. The committee comprises T. M. McCord, H. C. Parker, J. A. Pierce and J. K. Tibbitts. It will meet Monday to discuss preliminary details of its work.

William Phillips, business agent of the Building Trades Council, and John E. Benson, deputy State labor commissioner for this district, have pledged their assistance in the work, Mr. Young announced. They will be consulted on all important matters of policy in connection with the committee's activities.

RELIEF MEASURES TAKEN BY MAYWOOD BODIES

MAYWOOD, Dec. 14.—The City Council has appropriated $300 to be used in giving work to the unemployed needy. Each man found in want will be given one or two days' work before Christmas. It is planned that in this manner, the fund will be circulated among a greater number of families.

For the purpose of making a unified effort to take care of the needy in this vicinity, the Maywood Community Council has been formed with Roy Franklin of the Maywood Bank, as president; Mrs. H. L. Lucas, president of the Fishburn Parent-Teacher Association, vice-president; A. A. Larkey, secretary, and Mrs. Talbot, treasurer. The investigating committee consists of Mrs. Talbot, chairman; Mrs. Agnes Clark and Mrs. Herman Bejack.

SANTA ANA GETS INDUSTRY PLANT

Copperconda Company Announces Choice

Chief Output of Factory to Be Zinc Oxide

Product Large Ingredient of Rubber Goods

The Copperconda Mines Company has chosen Santa Ana as the location for a zinc-oxide plant which is expected to become an important industry for that city and will employ a considerable number of skilled and common laborers when plans the company has mapped out are carried to completion.

This company, with general offices at Kingman, Ariz., owns and controls a large group of mines in Arizona from which the crude material, namely zinc concentrate, will be derived. This will be delivered in carload lots to the company's three-story, Class A reinforced concrete factory in St. Gertrude Place, Santa Ana, the purchase of which was recently completed by the Copperconda Mines Company.

Due to the great industrial expansion in Southern California new needs are arising constantly, and it was due largely to the vast expansion in the rubber tire industry, with its large factories located in Southern California, that the Copperconda Mines Company was prompted to establish a plant for the manufacture of his most-used filler—zinc oxide.

Authorities state that upward of three pounds of it are used in every casing and heretofore all of it has been imported from the eastern part of the United States.

Although the rubber industry is perhaps the largest single user of zinc oxide in this section a market survey of the Pacific Coast territory, which has been carefully conducted, shows an annual consumption many times the capacity of the Santa Ana zinc-oxide plant used in paints alone, and there are other important uses. The plant in Santa Ana is said to have a substantial market awaiting its product.

In addition to zinc oxide, there is a residue which constitutes a by-product and is one of the most important factors. This residue contains the gold, silver and lead, out of the original ore from the Golconda group of mines. Since these particular ores carry a generous amount of gold and silver, as well as lead, this is expected to give Copperconda Mines Company a source of profit not usually enjoyed by a zinc mining company.

Long Texas Oil Hunt Rewarded

BAY CITY (Tex.) Dec. 14. (Exclusive)—Unsuccessful drilling of test wells for oil in the Shepherds Motte area of Matagorda county, which was carried on by a number of companies during the last twenty years, has just been rewarded by the bringing in of a well upon a 25,000-acre lease in what is apparently a salt dome by the Cockburn Oil Company.

In cleaning out, the well showed an initial production of approximately 300 barrels daily. The oil tests 39 deg. gravity and comes from a depth of 5240 feet.

New Gasoline Plant Finished

BELRIDGE, Dec. 14. (Exclusive) Completion of the Belridge Oil Company's new 50,000-gallon gasoline absorption plant near the company's No. 15 well on Sec. 26, 27-20, in the Belridge field, has just been announced.

The plant has 450 pounds gas pressure and was erected for the absorption of wet gas from the Belridge No. 15 well, which is now yielding 4000 barrels of oil daily. The gas production is estimated at nearly 60,000,000 cubic feet daily.

DAM TITLE CLOUDS LIFTING

Government Acts Speedily in Claims Cases at Site of Boulder Reservoir

PHOENIX, Dec. 14. (Exclusive)—Through the Phoenix Land Office, the United States is moving toward clearance of all obstructions from the reservoir area above the site of the Boulder Canyon Dam.

Register Henry A. Morgan has sent out several hundred registered letters to persons, mainly placer mine locators, who are reputed to have claims on the ground involved, but has received only a few answers in denial of the asserted government domain.

This month the register will start upon five weeks of publication of final notices asserting invalidity of the river filings, this expected to close the cases or to bring them into court for adjudication.

A number of years ago the Federal courts of Arizona and Nevada were appealed to by the Attorney-General of the United States in regard to several hundred placer claims of 160 acres each, which had been placed mainly by the Stetson interests of Philadelphia, on the floor of the river canyon to a point near the mouth of the Virgin River.

The claimants abandoned their asserted holdings before the suits were brought to trial in either State. Declarations have been made for many years that a number of gravel bars beside the Colorado's channel carry placer gold in material quantity and several attempts have been made toward their mining, though with no large degree of success, according to reports received.

On the lower Virgin River are rock salt deposits which were mined many years ago, the product being shipped downstream for use in mine mills, but no especial value appears to attach to these deposits, if they now are in private ownership. It is understood that immense quantites of rock salt remain to be mined above the water level of the great lake to be created by the dam. No salinity is expected from the submergence.

OLD COPPER ESTATE DUE TO REOPEN

New Owners Slated to Start Core Drilling on Lesynsky Ground Soon

CLIFTON (Ariz.) Dec. 14. (Exclusive)—Core drilling soon is to be started on the old Lesynsky copper property near Clifton, recently purchased from the United States Copper Mining Company by the M. A. Hanna Company of Cleveland.

Operations will begin within a few days as soon as the necessary machinery can be moved on the ground. Assertion is made that the property is one of the richest in the district with large bodies of disseminated copper ore, well situated for economical development and operation.

The local Phelps Dodge management stands high in utilization of safety devices in the mines and low in its percentage of accidents. One illustration of the value of the safety-first work recently was known when a miner was struck on the head and knocked from a ladder by a large rock. But his skull was saved by the fact that he was wearing a "hard-boiled" hat, that was crushed somewhat, but the blow only stunned the man. He would have fallen 100 feet had he not taken the precaution to first secure himself with his safety belt.

TEXAS OIL OUTPUT OPINION ISSUED

AUSTIN (Tex.) Dec. 14. (Exclusive)—An opinion has been given the State Railroad Commission by Asst. Atty.-Gen. W. D. Lawrence that the commission cannot legally issue orders limiting the production of offset wells to fifty barrels of oil a day and that the production of any well in Texas cannot be limited to a maximum of 500 barrels a day, except where the well is in an area under proration.

REVIVAL OF OLD AUSTIN MINES DUE

Rehabilitation of Camp on Community Basis to Be Undertaken

RENO (Nev.) Dec. 14. (Exclusive)—Rising above the depression shrouding many mining camps of the West, the people of the little mining town of Austin, in Central Nevada, have undertaken rehabilitation of their greatest mineral deposit on a community basis.

The Chamber of Commerce of the little mountain town has secured an option on the extensive holdings of the Austin Manhattan Company, credited with a production of $50,000,000 in silver and gold.

Funds are being subscribed by the citizens to finance reopening of old areas and proper presentation of the project to outside capitalists. The group embraces about 100 patented claims, numerous unpatented locations, water rights, mill sites and equipment.

Many of the most famous producers of the Austin field are included in the consolidation, such as the Curtis, King Alfred, Lander and many others. The properties were merged about twenty-five years ago, but have lain idle nearly fifteen years. It is understood that numerous applications for leases have already been filed.

MINES HEAD OPTIMISTIC ON FUTURE

Stockholders of Calumet and Arizona Get Note of Reassuring Tenor

BISBEE (Ariz.) Dec. 14. (Exclusive)—President Gordon R. Campbell of the Calumet & Arizona Mining Company has been making inspection of the properties of the corporation at Ajo and in this district. In a circular to the stockholders he states:

"In spite of the low price of copper and the low schedule of production this summer, Calumet & Arizona is in an enviable position. Notwithstanding our large expenditures for enlargement and betterment of plant and equipment during the past year, our treasury is in fine condition.

"We have mines which are unexcelled in the United States, even if not as large as some others. We have a small share capitalization in proportion to the productive capacity of our mines and plants. We can increase production quickly when market conditions justify. We will not lose ground during the present depression."

Activity at Ray Mine Curtailed

RAY (Ariz.) Dec. 14. (Exclusive) There has been much curtailment in the operations of the Ray branch of the Nevada Consolidated Copper Company. The pay roll has been shrunk to about 650 names.

Mining is on a one-shift status and the surface and mechanical departments are working only five days a week. The greater part of the employment is of Mexican and Spanish miners and laborers.

BROKER HOUSES IN COMBINATION

Walsh, O'Connor Union With Barneson Announced

Operation Under New Title Takes Effect Today

Deal Held Largest of Kind on Pacific Coast

Consolidation of Walsh, O'Connor & Co. and H. J. Barneson & Co., two New York brokerage houses, to become Walsh, O'Connor and Barneson, becomes effective today, according to a joint announcement from the Los Angeles offices of both former companies.

The negotiations thus consummated have accomplished one of the largest mergers in the history of the brokerage business on the Pacific Coast. The consolidated firm adequately covers the major security markets of the West with offices in Los Angeles, San Francisco, Oakland, Hollywood and Beverly Hills.

SIX PARTNERS

In addition to Kenneth Walsh, George R. O'Connor and Harold J. Barneson, who have lent their names to the new company, there are six general partners. Arthur N. Earll and Eric L. Pedley will continue as resident partners in charge of the former Los Angeles office of Walsh, O'Connor & Co. L. Leslie Barneson and J. D. Kennedy, together with Harold J. Barneson, will continue in charge of the former Los Angeles office of H. J. Barneson & Co. R. M. Marshall will continue in charge of the Oakland office and C. M. Weatherwax, a former partner of Walsh, O'Connor & Co., will also become a general partner in the new organization. Edward M. Walsh and John Barneson become limited partners of the consolidated firm.

The constituent houses have each been important factors in their respective fields. Walsh, O'Connor & Co. was organized in San Francisco early in 1923 with the purchase of a seat on the old San Francisco Stock and Bond Exchange. It acquired a membership on the New York Stock Exchange in December, 1926, and shortly afterward opened its Oakland office. It entered the Los Angeles field in September, 1927, and opened a branch office in Beverly Hills in the early part of 1930.

BARNESON HISTORY

H. J. Barneson & Co. established its business in Los Angeles in the spring of 1926 with the purchase of memberships in the Los Angeles Stock and Curb exchanges. The acquisition of memberships on the two San Francisco exchanges in the fall of 1926 was followed by the establishment of a San Francisco office. In 1927, with the purchase of a seat on the New York Stock Exchange, branches were opened in San Francisco's north beach section and in Hollywood and Oakland.

As one organization extended south the other expanded northward. Thus each complements the other geographically.

All formalities incident to approval of the merger have been completed, with each of the stock exchanges in which memberships are involved. Walsh, O'Connor & Barneson thus assume a position of added prestige and magnitude on the street with two New York Stock Exchange memberships and seats on the San Francisco Stock Exchange, San Francisco Curb Exchange, Los Angeles Stock Exchange, Los Angeles Curb Exchange, Chicago Board of Trade, Chicago Stock Exchange and associated membership in the New York Curb Exchange.

Direct private wire connections with all eastern markets as well as with several offices of the house, will continue to be maintained.

NEW STATE ALLOWABLE CUT LOOMS

Daily Production Slash to 505,000 Barrels Up for Consideration

Based on a recommended 530,000-barrel daily output of oil for the entire State, there is a strong possibility that the fact-finding committee will lower the allowable to at least 505,000 barrels daily, which would call for a greater cut than heretofore experienced by California oil operators.

W. E. Dunlap, chairman of the fact-finding committee, has been working the past week with members of the advisory committee, preparing facts and figures for the State's new allowable. A report is expected to be ready for the consideration of the general committee on State-wide oil curtailment during the coming week.

According to the American Petroleum Institute, the total crude oil requirement of the United States at present does not exceed 2,300,000 barrels daily. The insitute reports that of the various producing areas, California needs from 521,000 barrels to 542,000 barrels daily, providing there is no increase in the demand for gasoline above the present requirement.

That the operators of this State are confronted with a serious overproduction situation now is admitted by officials in close touch with conditions, and they are urging a close check on fields that have been producing in excess of their quota.

PROJECT AT EDISON DRILLING IN SHALE

EDISON, Dec. 14. (Exclusive)—With about 3850 feet of hole made, the Petroleum Securities Company's Johnson-Moss No. 1 well is drilling ahead through sandy shale formation. It is on Sec. 14, 29-29, in the Edison district, and is the only active project in that area.

DEEPER ATHENS ZONE FORECAST

Project of Sunset Pacific in Area Spurs Hope

New Completion Producing at 1400-Barrel Rate

Original Producing Depth in Hole 4900 Feet

Further evidence of substantial deep production in the Athens townlot area, is afforded by the performance of the Sunset Pacific Oil Company's Marine No. 31, at the northwest corner of One Hundred and Twenty-eighth and Figueroa streets.

The Marine No. 31 established an initial daily flow of 1400 barrels of clean 37-deg. gravity oil per day from a depth of 5350 feet, being considerably higher on the structure than the Barnsdall Oil Company's Trust No. 1 and Trust No. 2, seven blocks farther south. A water shut-off was obtained at 5250 feet. There are 190 feet of oil sand to draw from.

Sunset Pacific's Marine No. 31 originally was completed at a depth of 4900 feet, and during the past six years is reported to have yielded nearly 1,500,000 barrels of oil. Because of this well's performance, Sunset Pacific is deepening Marine No. 37 and Marine No. 13, and is preparing to deepen another well into the deeper zone.

On the Howard Park lease at Rosecrans, the Union Oil Company is deepening Howard Park No. 10 and No. 18, both of which have been on production in the shallower zones. Leasing activity by the Mitchell Oil Company indicates that there is quite a movement to develop deep production in the Athens townlot area. Several drilling sites have lately been leased near the intersection of One Hundred and Twenty-seventh and Hoover streets. George F. Getty, Inc., is deepening Hercules No. 2 and Getty No. 8 at Athens, and the General Petroleum Corporation is deepening its No. 12.

WILDCATS CENTER OF INTEREST

Group Being Drilled in Northern Part of State Attracts Attention

Oil operators are considerably interested in a series of wildcat wells now being drilled in the north-central part of the State. The most prominent of these, at the moment, seems to be the Orinda Petroleum Company's well in Contra Costa county, down approximately 1300 feet. It is drilling near the East Bay tunnel.

The Rushing Development Company's well east of Waterford in Stanislaus county is down 970 feet. The Vicars Company's proposed test in Colusa county, is expected to start the drill early in the new year.

The Oakdale Oil Company's well, on Stockton road, immediately north of Oakdale, has landed twelve and one-half inch casing at 1000 feet and obtained a water shut-off. Hole is down 3500 feet.

The Pure Oil Company and the Standard Oil Company some time ago acquired substantial leases in Yolo county, on what is known as Nigger Heaven dome. The Getty interests are expected to start their second well in this district within the next month.

SHELL OIL GETS NEW PRODUCER

Six-Hour Test Flow of Belridge Project Gives 120 Barrels Daily

BELRIDGE, Dec. 14. (Exclusive) The Shell Oil Company has completed its core hole No. D on Sec. 14, 28-20 in this district. During a six-hour test the well produced about twenty barrels of oil of 12.2 deg. gravity. It is the fourth core hole made by Shell in the Belridge field.

On Sec. 34, 27-20, the Reward Oil Company's well is drilling through hard shale at 2060 feet; on Sec. 36, 27-20, the Ohio Oil Company's Bloomer No. 1 is down more than 3750 feet, in shale; General Petroleum Corporation is reaming at 2450 feet in its Berry No. 1 on Sec. 30, 28-21 and the Texas Company's Martin No. 1 on Sec. 22, 27-20 is going through hard shale at approximately 3000 feet.

The Belridge Oil Company has rigged up for its No. 8 well on Sec. 27, 27-20, and its No. 48 on Sec. 35, 27-20. It has the foundation laid for its No. 35 on the same section.

The Standard Oil Company is past 3750 feet in its McPhail No. 1 on Sec. 36, 27-20, with brown shale and hard sand at bottom, while rigging of rotary goes on at McPhail No. 2 on the same section.

K. C. Wallace, pioneer of this field, having been drilling for many months, has progressed beyond 3910 feet on Sec. 32, 29-21, and is in hard brown shale.

Richfield's Belridge No. 1, soon expected as a producer, has drilled out the cement plug, where the nine-inch casing was set at 5580 feet, four feet from bottom. It is on Sec. 22, 27-20.

RED BLUFF WILDCAT IN SHOWINGS

Strong Flow of Gas in Project Gives Promise of Making Producer

RED BLUFF, Dec. 14. (Exclusive)—A strong flow of gas has halted drilling of the No. 2 wildcat well west of Corning. Oil sand was found at 1915 feet and indications are said to be promising for the development of a commercial well.

The operators have arranged to set 2000 feet of six-inch casing to shut off the water. The well is located on the Heavey ranch in the Flournoy district, and the land is held under lease by a group of Los Angeles and Long Beach operators.

The Standard Oil Company has added 800 acres to its leased area in Yolo county by securing interests of Woodland owners. The leases are near the area where the George F. Getty, Inc., recently drilled a shallow well. The Union Oil and other strong corporations are reported as having recently leased several large tracts in Colusa, Tehama and Yolo counties.

New Producer at Poso Creek

POSO CREEK, Dec. 14. (Exclusive)—The General Petroleum Corporation has placed on production its Sill No. 8 well on Sec. 26, 28-27, at Poso Creek. Total depth is 2188 feet.

Following completion of the Sill No. 8, General Pete spudded in Sill No. 9 and is drilling ahead through surface formations.

National Securities Wildcat Attracts Attention

ARTESIA (N. M.) Dec. 14. (Exclusive)—Southeastern New Mexico, this week witnessed the completion of two wells in the Hobbs pool, both on the same section, and representing an increase of 31,860 barrels in the field's potential daily output. The largest well in the southern portion of the Hobbs area, is the State No. 1-C, of the Continental Oil Company on Sec. 5, 19-38, which was drilled to a depth of 4175 feet. It flows at the rate of 19,400 barrels daily. This well is a quarter-mile west of the nearest production.

A diagonal northwest offset to the State No. 1-C of the Continental is the McKinley No. 26 of the Midwest Refining Company finished on Sec. 5, 19-38, at a depth of 4208 feet. On a company test this well made 12,460 barrels daily, flowing through an open casing.

A wildcat well, approximately four miles west of production in the Hobbs pool, known as Linan No. 1 of the National Securities Oil Corporation on Sec. 33, 18-37, has attracted considerable attention because of oil and gas showings at 2999, and 3060 feet.

Plans for a deep test in the Getty area of Southern Eddy county may be abandoned, because of excellent shallow showings at 1353 feet in Dooley No. 6 of the Getty Oil Company, on Sec. 24, 20-29. This well showed up better in its initial performance than Dooley No. 4 of the same company, which when drilled to 1378 feet pumped 1400 barrels of oil per day.

Three new locations staked recently in the Hobbs field have renewed interest in that area because the number of drilling wells in that sector was lately reduced to seven. The new locations, principally offsets, include the State No. 1-C of the Amerada Petroleum Corporation on Sec. 26, 18-37; the Continental Oil Company's State No. 1-E, on Sec. 25, 18-37, and the California Company's Meredith No. 1, on Sec. 19, 21-36.

Late reports from the Hobbs field indicate that the Texas Company has completed a fair well in its State No. 3-C, on Sec. 25, 18-37, at 4240 feet. It is said to have flowed 261 barrels through a three-inch tubing in one hour.

New Texas Oil Activity Slows

AUSTIN (Tex.) Dec. 14. (Exclusive)—Since the first proration order of the Railroad Commission went into effect on August 27, there has been a great reduction in well drilling activities in the different fields. During November, a total of 234 new oil wells were completed, as compared with 422 in August.

The largest number of new wells in November was in the Young county field, with a record of twenty-three. Gray county came next with twenty-two, and the Van field third, with nineteen. During November, twelve new gas wells were completed.

Carson and Eastland counties led the list with three wells each, and Gray and Hutchison counties each had two wells, while Coleman and Refugio counties had one each.

OATMAN MINING SITUATION TOLD

Promising Ore Developments at Tom Reed Mine

Conditions Found Promising in Aztec Workings

McIver Renews Activity on Telluride Estate

OATMAN (Ariz.) Dec. 14. (Exclusive)—Report has come that good ore conditions have been found on reaching the Aztec ledge of the Tom Reed estate on the 1100-foot level of the Grey Eagle shaft. For thirty or more feet before reaching the vein there was cutting of stringers of quartz. On the 800-foot level drifting has been pushed on the vein for about 100 feet, but with nothing notable reported. The Aztec had good ore in large quantity on its 400-foot level.

J. L. McIver announces renewed activity on the Telluride property in start of sinking a 200-foot winze from the 600-foot level, with lateral work on the vein as it is followed downward. Large advantage has been secured by draining of the mine through the new Tom Reed operations. Telluride has its own milling plant and good shaft equipment.

United America also has been helped by Tom Reed pumping, clearing its workings far under the previous water level. The corporation may be reorganized in Los Angeles on plans submitted by Manager W. K. Ridenour. The next work is to be connection with the Reed workings and the sinking of a 200-foot winze from the lowest level.

A merger is reported almost complete of the Del Rey, Imperial and Lexington companies, with work proposed on a large scale on the Western Apex property, which has been a section of the Imperial holdings.

Oil Status in Buttonwillow District Told

BUTTONWILLOW, Dec. 14. (Exclusive)—Several hundred feet have been drilled by the Superior Oil Company in its K.C.L. No. 1 well on Sec. 32, 29-25, in the Buttonwillow district. Sand and clay are being cored at intervals. The well was spudded on November 27.

The Nordon Oil Company's Salisbury No. 1-A on Sec. 7, 29-24, is nearing 5000 feet and is in sandy shale. This well has passed the usual trouble zone generally encountered by projects drilling there, which are held up by caverns.

Status of Taft Project Given

TAFT, Dec. 14. (Exclusive)—While the Federal Drilling Company drills ahead, the Midland Exploration Company continues work preparatory to drilling at Buena Vista Hills.

Federal's No. 1 on Sec. 20, 31-24, is down 4900 feet and in sandy shale formation. Midland's No. 1, on Sec. 54, 21-24, has rig up.

OUTPUT VALUE HIGHER

tion controls immense deposits of gold-bearing tailings, and plans the construction of a large mill. It is understood that old sections of the historic Delamar mine will be eventually reopened and a drive made for ore in new territory. Several companies have recently entered the Delamar field, with Los Angeles and Arizona capital chiefly interested.

The Salt Lake Pioche Mining Company reports the development of a fourteen-inch shoot of gold ore at a depth of 102 feet on its holdings near Pioche. The ore is said to be of shipping grade and a carload will be sent out soon. Operators of the old Groom mine report discovery of rich silver-lead ore on the 200-foot level, and plan to start shipments shortly. The Tempiute Mining and Milling Company is shipping selected ore and concentrates to a Utah smelter. The product runs high in silver and is said to net fair profits despite the low price of the white metal.

TROUGHS MILL BUSY

ous mining. A substantial tonnage of mill ore is said to be exposed, with gold values largely predominating.

Development of a promising shoot of rich gold ore in a winze from the lower tunnel of the old Auburn mine is reported by the owners. The ore is said to assay $60 per ton. Rich float and seams of excellent ore have been uncovered on the surface of the Auburn, about 900 feet from the old workings, with preliminary work indicating presence of an important silver-gold deposit. The property is controlled by G. W. Warmuth and Los Angeles associates.

The Mexico Consolidated Mines Company has acquired the Lang Syne and Notches gold properties, located near the Auburn mine, and started work with small crews. This corporation owns quicksilver properties near Beowawe and gold and silver mines in Elko and Eureka counties.

RARE MINERALS, METALLURGY, CHEMISTRY

Qualitative analyses will be given in this department of The Times to correspondents on ores and minerals free of charge. Make each sample of an ounce or so in weight. Be sure to write a letter stating what tests are desired and give the approximate locality from which samples were taken. Do not pulverize the specimens. Give your name and address on paper wrapped with samples.

Chloritic Rock

SANTA MONICA, Nov. 27.—Question: The samples were found in Upper Yerba Buena Canyon, Ventura county, almost adjoining the Los Angeles county line, and about six miles north of the coast line. There is a seam of varying thickness in evidence, running from six inches to a foot or more. I am curious to know the nature of the samples, particularly to have you identify the small dark-colored crystals found therein. X.

Answer: The small dark-colored crystals in the specimens are simply of amygdaloid matter containing iron and manganese. The silvery-lustered flakes mixed with some of the amygdaloid show up in the field of a microscope as probably traces of molybdenite. It would call for slides made from the rock to determine more definitely, and the samples contain no copper.

Chiefly Silica

SAN BERNARDINO, Nov. 27.—Q.: Please classify the sample. It comes from a ledge twenty feet wide near Amboy. H.

A.: Some volcanic ash in the specimen.

Black Sand

BALDWIN PARK, Nov. 28.—Q.: Please tell me what the sample carries. It is from the Kooteny placer claim, San Gabriel Canyon, and taken from about twenty pounds of black sand. S.

A.: Eighty per cent magnetic iron, quartz, feldspar, titaniferous iron and traces of native gold, with yellow mica, found present.

Three Samples

LONE PINE, Nov. 28.—Q.: I am mailing three samples of mineral from the White Mountains. No. 1 is surface sample from a large outcrop. No. 2 occurs in vein form 100 feet underground. No. 3 occurs in bunches through the same vein. Will you please classify and oblige? R.

A.: No. 1 is handsome crystallized wollastonite, (silicate of lime.) No. 2 is shaly wollastonite, and No. 3 is tough, impure nephrite, (axestone,) carrying pyrite in good percentage.

Dolomite

PASADENA, Nov. 28.—Q.: Sample from mine on Lytle Creek, twelve miles northwest of San Bernardino. Sent by Mr. C. What does it contain? J.

Four Samples

POMONA, Nov. 29.—Q.: Please classify samples. G. W. H.

A.: All of the specimens are altered schorl, (black tourmaline,) with some hornblende.

Clay Sample

GLENDALE, Nov. 29.—Q.: The sample is from a locality in Los Angeles county. What is the white that occurs on the surface? G. H.

A.: The white coating is halite, (common table salt.)

Two Samples

BODFISH, Nov. 30.—Q.: Am sending two samples of rock. I think No. 1 is schist, and No. 2 gneiss. Both from the northerly slope of the Piute Mountains. Thanking you. R.

A.: Sample No. 1 is a schistose rock containing pinkish-red colors of manganese carbonate, and iron oxides; microscopic pyrite on coating, and cinnabar absent. No. 2 seems to be altered granitic rock carrying microscopic biotite (black mica of the mining boys in the hills) with traces of pyrite as coating. The pyrite in both specimens may be auriferous, and fire assays for gold and silver are required for further determination.

Three Samples

SAN BERNARDINO, Nov. 30.—Q.: Kindly classify the inclosed samples numbered 1, 2 and 3. S.

A.: Sample No. 1 is impure crystallized calcite mixed with mica on one edge. No. 2 is low grade calcite mixed with iron oxides. No. 3 is a conchoidal specimen of calcite with more or less strontium present. Commercial values of mineral represented by the samples are problematical.

Feldspathic Rock

GLENDALE, Dec. 1.—Q.: Sample of pink rock from Los Angeles county. Any commercial value? H.

A.: More or less graphic granite (pegmatyte) is present. The pinkish color is probably due to manganese content, and commercial value of such rock is problematical.

Four Samples

GLENDALE, Dec. 2.—Q.: Am sending four samples from San Bernardino county. Please classify them and oblige. A.

A.: Specimen No. 1 is low-grade jasper with some white chalcedony. No. 2 is red and green, low-grade jasper. No. 3 seems to be a mixture of limonite, hematite, and some manganese, in siliceous rock. No. 4 is chalcedony (quartz) stained with limonite.

Actinolite

JOHANNESBURG, Dec. 2.—Q.: I am sending you a rock sample found four miles from Johannesburg. Would like to know if it represents any value? W.

A.: The specimen is a greenish crystallized variety of hornblende and of doubtful value.

TURKEY LOOMS ON OIL HORIZON

Government Geologist Gives Out Statement

Says Chances for Production Fairly Bright

Visits Texas Field to Study Operating Plans

SAN ANTONIO (Tex.) Dec. 14. (Exclusive)—It is the opinion of Djevad Eyoub, petroleum geologist for the government of Turkey, who has just completed a survey of the petroleum possibilities of that country, that prospects are fairly good for oil production there. He says that he located a number of structures that looked very promising. Mr. Eyoub is now in Texas investigating oil operation methods in the different fields. Before becoming connected with the Turkish government, he was employed as geologist by the Empire Oil and Fuel Company in Texas.

Oil development in Turkey will probably be undertaken by American interests, he says. It will be the policy of the Turkish government to limit production to domestic demands. He estimated the present demand of the country at approximately 500,000 barrels annually and that five years ago it was not more than 100,000 or 150,000 barrels annually. He estimated there are now between 6000 and 7000 automobiles in Turkey, and he placed the population of the country at 14,000,000 people.

In his survey, Eyoub found many oil and gas seepages on the surface. He visited the old gas seepages near the ancient tomb of Apollon, where it is said gas seepages have been burning for more than 2000 years. He also found many oil seepages, some of which yield several gallons of crude petroleum daily with a paraffine base and a specific gravity of 36 deg.

PROMISING PROPERTY IN ARIZONA

Ore Taken From Savage Claims Near Globe Held Rich in Gold Values

GLOBE (Ariz.) Dec. 14. (Exclusive)—Rich ore is being brought from the Savage claims, ten miles southeast of Globe, on Christmas Road. Assays show 11 per cent copper, $38 gold and ten ounces silver, with samples declared to be fairly uniform across a four-foot ledge, at seventy feet depth. The shaft is an old one, on property now held by option from Pat Savage by Frank D. Rivera.

It is planned to ship about 100 tons a month to the Miami smelter.

Declaration is made that excellent ore in large quantity has been developed in deep workings at the VanDyke property, which lies close to the business section of Miami. Shipments of mixed ores to the Miami smelter have given returns of around $1000 a carload. The property covers 1700 acres and is believed to carry an extension of the ore lenses of the Miami Copper Company, though at much greater depth than in the older mine.

United Verde Extension of Jerome is reported to have exercised its option on the property of the Pinal Copper Company, near Miami, with active development work expected soon. Drilling has outlined several low-grade copper lenses of large size. The ore is sulphide in character, readily concentrated by flotation.

Holston No. 2 Completed for 1000 Barrels Daily

Company Reported Rigging Up for No. 3 Project

The California Ventura Oil Company has succeeded in completing another well at Hermosa Beach. Its Holston No. 2 near Sixth avenue and the Santa Fe Railroad tracks, came in for an initial yield of 1000 barrels of 20-deg. gravity oil per day from a depth of 3328 feet.

According to company officials, Holston No. 2 was not drilled as deep as Holston No. 1. The flow was turned into the tanks yesterday and reports are that a major oil company may handle the production.

California Ventura's Holston No. 3 is rigging up, while H. A. Bardeen, independent operator, and George Wolfe, successful in bringing in a well in the Venice oil field, are rigging up projects and expect to be drilling within ten days.

The oil obtained in the townlot area at Hermosa Beach is reported to be similar to that found in the Torrance oil field. Operators say there is evidence of a slight fault between the Hermosa Beach producers and the southwesterly edge of the Torrance field. Hermosa Beach is about five miles southeasterly along the coast from the Venice oil field.

FACTORY OF W. C. DURANT PURCHASED

Norman Devaux Acquires Plant and Soon Will Put Out New Automobile

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 14. (AP)—Norman Devaux announced today the purchase from W. C. Durant, automobile manufacturer with whom he has long been associated, of the Oakland (Cal.) manufacturing plant of the Durant Motor Company of California.

The information was contained in a telegram received here by associates of Devaux who is in Grand Rapids, Mich. Devaux said he also has purchased a factory at Grand Rapids and soon will start the manufacture of a new automobile to be known as the Devaux six. Associated with him will be Col. Elbert J. Hall, automobile and airplane motor designer.

The announcement confirmed rumors during the past week of a business "break" between Durant and Devaux. Both were formerly connected with General Motors.

Devaux said purchase of the Oakland factory and refinancing in connection with the purchase of stock will involve $5,000,000, while the cost of the entire project will total $20,000,000.

TRANSAMERICA POOL FORMED

Proposes to Deal in Stock of Holding Company

Share Owners Invited in On $20,000,000 Deal

Letter Says Present Low Price Not Justified

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 14.—Letters outlining the plan for the formation of a $20,000,000 syndicate to buy and trade in Transamerica Corporation stock are being mailed to stockholders of the company tomorrow.

The letters, signed by A. P. Giannini, Elisha Walker, L. M. Giannini, P. C. Hale and James A. Bacigalupi, who will be managers of the syndicate, point out that Transamerica stock is selling substantially under its real worth and invite participation in the gigantic pool.

It is planned that the syndicate will operate over a period of six months, with provision for renewing the term an additional half-year if deemed necessary by the syndicate managers.

The managers would be further authorized to begin or terminate operations at any time. The detailed outline of the plan as laid down in the letter says:

"Transamerica stock, is, in our opinion, selling altogether out of line with the true worth of the corporation and its various subsidiary companies quite apart from any allowance for good will or going concern value.

"Believing that at current prices the stock offers an excellent opportunity for investment and profit, a group of important stockholders have formed a syndicate to buy and trade in Transamerica stock. . .

"While the market value of any stock, as distinguished from its true value, may be temporarily affected by the activity of professional short sellers (for the reason that whenever there are more sellers than buyers the price must decline if the sellers insist upon selling at reduced prices,) this condition cannot continue where there is no real reason for decline.

"The companies owned by Transamerica are in splendid condition and are all making good progress. Consequently there is no fundamental justificaiton for the present market action of the stock. It is understood that there is at present a large and active short interest in Transamerica stock, which will automatically assist in advancing the price of the stock as soon as the short sellers cover their commitments.

"Believing that investments in Transamerica at this time will not only result in profit to the purchasers, but also have a stabilizing effect upon the market, an opportunity is hereby extended to all stockholders in their own interest, to participate in the syndicate."

The stated object of the syndicate is "to buy and sell Transamerica stock with the dual purpose of stabilization and profit to syndicate members." The letter of invitation states that "each stockholder is free to come in for such amount as he may be able and willing to subscribe."

STUDENTS SUSPENDED AFTER ORGY

Drinking Party on Yacht, Leads to Action by Seattle School Authorities

SEATTLE, Dec. 14. (AP)—Six boys and a girl have been suspended from the Roosevelt High School as a result of an investigation of reports that thirty students attended a moonlight drinking party on a chartered yacht, V. K. Froula, principal, said here tonight. Their names are withheld.

The investigation involving ninety-six students is being continued to determine the source of the asserted liquor used on the yacht and in road houses and automobile parties, Froula said.

The girl, 16 years of age, is in the Juvenile Detention Home, and the boys, a senior, two juniors, a sophomore, a freshman and a post-graduate, all between the ages of 16 and 19, still are in their homes, according to Froula. They were suspended on charges of "drinking and immoral conduct."

The principal states suspensions may result in ten other cases being investigated. Parents of some of the students implicated, have retained attorneys and will fight the suspensions and charges.

INDIAN RIFT UNHEALED IN CONFERENCE

Hindu and Moslem Meet at MacDonald's Country Estate to No Avail

LONDON, Dec. 14. (AP)—Efforts by Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald to compose differences between Hindu and Moslem delegates to the Indian round-table conference have failed. Representatives of both religions who visited Chequers, the Prime Minister's country estate, over the week-end, announced the failure today.

"We had a very interesting time at Chequers and enjoyed the Premier's hospitality, said Reja Marenda Nath, speaking for the Hindus. "Our conversations were most pleasant but no settlement was reached."

Sir Sayed Sultan Ahmed, speaking for the Moslems, said:

"I regret that so far no satisfactory solution has been reached, despite the earnest efforts of the Premier."

The chief point of contention between Hindus and Moslems is the question of the reservation of seats in legislatures for the minorities. This question also is the chief stumbling block before the round-table conference at present.

PLATICAS DE LOS LUNES

POR EL PROFESOR F. GUERRERO
Encargado de la Sección Española de Este Diario

En el cuarto párrafo del cuento de Aurelia Ramos que hemos estado repasando, leemos: "Si Restituto sentía calor, al instante se abrían en la pared varios boquetes y entraba por ellos una fresca y perfumada brisa, saturada precisamente del aroma que añoraba el rey en aquellos momentos." "Añorar" significa sentir añoranza, y esta voz, que procede del catalán "anyoranza", denota la tristeza y pena que causa en el ánimo la ausencia de la patria, de los parientes, o de una persona amada, o el recuerdo constante de un bien perdido. Muchos usan actualmente "añorar" en el sentido de "desear" a secas; pero, según arriba queda establecido, el buen uso pide que el deseo a que "añorar" se refiere sea un anhelo nostálgico y morriñoso de volver a gozar de algo que nos produjo contento o felicidad en pasad poca.

Al hablar de algunas plantas que exhalan aromas gratos al olfato de Restituto, cita la escritora las "algas marinas", "los pinos montañosos", etc. Ya se deja ver que debió haber dicho "montañeses" en vez de "montañosos", por cuanto "montañoso" es lo abundante en montañas: "Suiza es un país montañoso"; "Las costas de Creta son montañosas"; al paso que "montañés" es lo que vive en la montaña o de ella procede: "Los montañeses de Virginia son gente ruda y esforzada".

Nos dice en otro párrafo la escritora que en la despensa de Restituto había "las mejores viandas". Esta última voz, no obstante ser cognada de la francesa "viande", denota no sólo la carne, sino toda clase de comida que se sirve a la mesa, y es, por tanto, sinónima de "manjar": "Sirvieron exquisitas viandas (exquisitos manjares) en el banquete de la Casa Blanca". El compuesto "portaviandas" se usa muy propiamente en Méjico, en vez de "fiambrera", como en España se dice, para designar ese utensilio de cocina compuesto de varias cacerolas iguales, de loza o de metal, sobrepuestas unas a otras, sujetas en dos barras de hierro, y con un braserillo debajo, que se usa para llevar la comida caliente de un punto a otro. La "fiambrera", dada su derivación, no debiera servir sino para poner en ella "fiambres", es decir, carnes frías; pero en España por tal nombre se conoce el portaviandas. "Fiambre"—adjetivo y sustantivo—es vocablo que se aplica a lo que, después de asado o cocido (rosbif, jamón, aves, etc.), se deja enfriar para comerlo frío. "Comer de fiambre" es comer cosas sólidas que se han dejado enfriar: comer escabeches, carne asada o cocida fría, etc. Entre periodistas se da el nombre de "fiambre" a una noticia atrasada o trasnochada: "Ese periódico no publica más que fiambres". En Méjico se emplea muy especialmente la voz "fiambre" para nombrar un plato compuesto de ensalada de lechuga, patitas de puerco, espaldilla (cuarto delantero del cerdo preparado a manera de jamón), tajaditas de aguacate pelado, rebanadas de cebolla y rajas de chile verde asado.

Sigue diciéndonos el cuento que de nada carecía Restituto; pero que "se aburría soberanamente, y hasta llegó a enfermar de tedio". Notemos que la escritora usa con toda propiedad el verbo "enfermar", sin darle malamente la forma refleja tan común en América: "enfermarse". No hay que decir "me enfermé de catarro", sino "enfermé de catarro"; ni tampoco "me regresé", como dicen casi todos los mejicanos: "Fui a los Estados Unidos y me regresé a las tres semanas". Debe suprimirse el "me".

Más adelante nos dice el cuento que el rey convocó a su palacio a todos los niños del reino, "desde seis a doce años". Si bien no faltan ejemplos de buenos escritores, en que "a" se usa como correlativo de "desde", y "de" como correlativo de "hasta", son más eufónicas las frases en que "hasta" es correlativo de "desde" y "a" lo es de "de": "los niños desde seis hasta doce años", o "los niños de seis a doce años"; "Los billetes son válidos desde el 5 hasta el 20 del actual", o "Los billetes son válidos del 5 al 20 del actual".

Dos párrafos adelante, luego de decirnos la escritora que el tío Gaspar dejó por toda herencia a Gasparín un gran zurrón (bolsa grande de pellejo) repleto de esperanzas, exclama: "¡Valiente herencia y valiente desencanto el del niño!" Note el estudiante que el primer "valiente" está usado irónicamente en el sentido de triste o miserable. Es muy frecuente en castellano el uso irónico de tal adjetivo: "¡Valiente calabaza!", decimos de una persona necia, torpe y bruta; "¡valiente chasco!", decimos de un chasco de órdago; "¡valiente ganga!", dícese de lo que no lo es; "¡valiente mamarracho!", se dice de la persona necia, presuntuosa y ridícula en algún sentido; "¡valiente pécora!", se dice de la mujer mala y de mal carácter; "¡valiente tío!", decimos de una persona a quien despreciamos, etc., etc.

El la Plática siguiente seguiremos comentando el cuento de Aurelia Ramos.

LIGHTHOUSE KEEPER HAS DEATH VIGIL

For Twelve Days He Has to Stay Alone With Body of Mate Until Aid Comes

SAULT STE. MARIE (Ont.) Dec. 14. (AP)—Death dwelt for twelve days in Otter Head lighthouse while Gilbert MacLachlan of Toronto, the tender, called in vain to the outside world for aid.

John Moore, 68 years of age, fell from the lonely signal tower on the 1st inst. and was killed. MacLachlan found his mate's body near the beach, forty feet below, late that day, half-buried in the snow.

Placing the body in the little house near the tower, MacLachlan alternately watched over his dead mate and signaled with the station fog horn, but no ship came near the stark headland.

Twelve miles down shore Jack Mills, at Puckasaw, at last heard the distress calls and set out for the lighthouse, a three days' journey.

Mills undertook to go back with a telegram to the government authorities, but was blocked by the weather and MacLachlan, to keep the house cold, lived on soda biscuits until last Thursday when the government lighthouse tender Murray Stewart hove in sight and ended his lonely vigil.

Teutons Accuse Poles in Second Note to League

GENEVA, Dec. 14. (AP)—An official German note to the League of Nations, published here today, charges open oppression of German minorities in Polish Upper Silesia has been continuing since the recent Polish elections.

This communication is supplementary to a note which Foreign Minister Curtius dispatched to the League two weeks ago, protesting asserted Polish mistreatment of the German minority during the elections. This protest has been placed on the agenda of the League's Council meeting in January.

In his second communication Dr. Curtius says the German government has learned of numerous additional "acts of violence" in which Polish citizens of German blood were reported victims. He lists seventeen instances.

PLANE FALL KILLS GIRL PASSENGER

Craft Strikes Power Line and Wire Hits Victim Across Her Heart

Miss Jessie Ligert Wood, 27-year-old secretary of Frances Marion, screen writer, was injured fatally at dusk yesterday in an airplane crash at the Culver City Airport.

At the time of the crash Culver City police say she did not appear to be injured. Later she became ill and died a short time after at the Hollywood Hospital.

Dr. J. Q. A. Scroggy, who attended her, said she suffered a basal skull fracture and a broken larynx which caused a hemorrhage. A wire struck her across the throat and neck, he declared.

Shortly before dark Miss Wood, together with Frank Bush, a commercial pilot, took off from the Culver City Airport in a two-seater American Eagle. In attempting to land, the landing wheels struck a power line, turning the plane on its nose. The pilot was unhurt.

Miss Wood resided at 955 North Genesee street. The body was taken to the County Morgue.

STATE FARMING GROUPS ON WAY

Los Angeles Host This Week to Agriculturists

Sixty-third Convention of Growers to Open

National Figures Scheduled to Address Meet

Los Angeles is to be host to representative agriculturists of the State this week. For three days approximately 1500 fruit and vegetable growers, live-stock men and farmers and their wives from all sections of the State and some from other Western States will be here for the sixty-third California fruit growers' and farmers' convention at the Alexandria, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. The Chamber of Commerce, in co-operation with the State Department of Agriculture and twenty other agricultural organizations and institutions, is sponsoring the meeting as an annual clearing-house for the State's agricultural policies and problems.

An elaborate program of addresses and discussions by farm leaders and State and Federal officials has been arranged by a committee, headed by Manager Clements of the agricultural department of the Chamber of Commerce.

AFFILIATED GROUPS

The convention brings into the city a number of associated meetings, including the fall convention of County Agricultural Commissioners, representing every county in California, a trade practice meeting for both growers and distributors in which Federal and State trading regulatory laws are to be discussed, a conference of agricultural representatives from eleven Western States, a meeting of growers and packers representing the dried-fruit industry, producers and shippers of fresh fruit and vegetables, and the southern regional meeting of the State Chamber of Commerce.

The banquet of the convention will be held on the evening of the 18th inst. Governor-elect Rolph and Lieut.-Gov. Merriam are on the program of the banquet.

Heading the list of out-of-State speakers are C. B. Denman, Washington, member Federal Farm Board; Nils A. Olsen, Washington, chief, Bureau of Agricultural Economics, United States Department of Agriculture; Lee A. Strong, Washington, chief plant quarantine and control administration, United States Department of Agriculture. C. C. Teague, California's member on the Federal Farm Board, may come if press of duties does not interfere.

MERITS ATTENTION

"This convention merits the attention of every fruit grower, live-stock man and farmer," states Dr. Clements. "California agriculture is a big business, the basic industry of the State and its problems must be solved intelligently if farming is to attain a parity with industry. Collectively, California agriculture represents a capitalization of more than $3,500,000,000, and yields a gross annual return of $800,000,000.

"While prices of farm products are still low, due to conditions over which the producer has very little control, much can be done to improve the farmer's economic position. He must be safeguarded against the invasions of pests and diseases. His marketing outlets must be improved. His products must reach a degree of standardization which will make greater appeal to the consumer."

JOBS PRORATING PROPOSED

Chairman Shaw of County Employment Committee Will Submit Plan to Municipalities Today

Prorating of work rather than dismissing workers, where the reduction in personnel is contemplated to meet the present business depression, is advocated in a plan to aid in the relief of unemployment recently adopted by the county-wide committee on employment of which Supervisor Shaw is chairman. A copy of the plan will today be placed in the hands of the Mayor of each of the incorporated cities of the county, Supervisor Shaw announced last night.

Following receipt of the plan, the city officials of each municipality will be met by Harvey C. Fremming, recently appointed by the Board of Supervisors as employment stabilization director, who will endeavor to aid the cities in co-ordinating the county plan with any the municipalities might have.

Supervisor Shaw and Director Fremming propose that a committee be named by the executive head in each town to co-ordinate with a centralized headquarters of the county-wide committee.

For the guidance of such municipal committees twelve suggestions are set forth in the plan as follows:

(1.) Opening of a central registration bureau to register the unemployed.

(2.) Appointment of a committee on social agency contact and relief.

(3.) Formation of a committee of business men and merchants to obtain the co-operation of employers to prorate work rather than lay off workers.

(4.) Organization of a committee to contact industrial heads with the same purpose in mind as outlined in No. 3 suggestion.

(5.) Formation of a committee of loan association men and bankers to form a plan to safeguard against foreclosure on equity home owners.

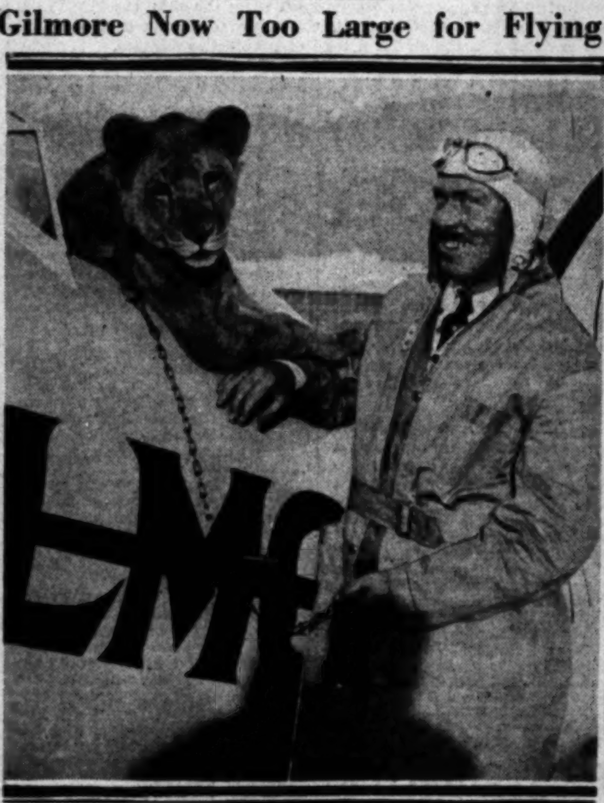
LION'S CAREER IN AIR AT END

Gilmore Now Too Large for Flying



Lieut.-Col. Roscoe Turner and His Pal

Famous Gilmore, known as world's only flying lion, climbing out of cockpit of plane in which he has flown 25,000 miles during the last nine months with his master.

GILMORE—the only flying lion in the world, who has traveled 25,000 miles by air in the last nine months—is on the ground for good.

He took his last ride from United Airport last week with his master, Lieut.-Col. Roscoe Turner, in the Gilmore Lockheed monoplane which practically has been his "home" since he was four weeks of age.

When Turner "adopted" Gilmore the animal was a furry little cub, barely tipping the scales at seventeen pounds.

But he is almost full grown now—125 pounds of African lion, with the start of a mane, growl and all.

His size, however, is all that cut short his air career, Turner points out. Gilmore's disposition is remarkable and at the age of ten months he still allows strangers to pet him and is as playful as when he used to take nourishment from a bottle instead of indulging in his present diet of six pounds of fresh meat daily.

Just because he is going to lose his place as Turner's air mascot does not mean that Gilmore is to be relegated to an ordinary cage on a lion farm or in a circus.

A special arena, playground, house and all, has been completed for him at a cost of $2300 at the corner of Fairfax avenue and Beverly Boulevard.

"It's going to be as tough on me as on Gilmore—his having to give up flying," Turner declared.

"I have become attached to him. He has been a model air passenger and I'll miss him plenty, particularly on long solo flights. He has hardly been out of my sight during the time I have had him. He still minds, is as affectionate as ever and only his size is against him."

Among Gilmore's most noted flights were the transcontinental hops of last May, in which Turner piloted the Lockheed to a new east-west record, and the nonstop air race from here to the Chicago national air races last September.

On these and many other trips Gilmore wore a special parachute which Turner could have opened preparatory to dropping him overboard had the occasion arisen for a midair escape.

Gilmore has been a "guest" in practically every major hotel in the country, and some in Canada and Mexico, during his travels with his master. He stayed in Turner's room, ate choice steaks and, so to speak, has had a lion's share of thrills and happiness during his short life. He was born at Goebel's Lion Farm. His mother is named Queen and his Father Andy, who recently was poisoned.

From now on Gilmore will have plenty of time to rest in his special home, but he is "grounded" for keeps and will only be able to cast an envious eye at swift craft skimming overhead to recall the days when he was in his way a hero of the skies.

TRIO KILLED, SIX INJURED, IN TRAFFIC

Death of Two Men Caused by Being Struck by Autos; Car Overturning Fatal

Three men were killed by automobiles and half a dozen other persons were injured seriously in collisions yesterday. Two deaths resulted from the victims stepping into the street into the path of cars.

M. E. Fitzgerald, 75 years of age, 5653 Stoll avenue, was killed at Avenue 55 and Pasadena avenue when he stepped in front of a car driven by E. W. Robinson, 333 Neva avenue. Witnesses asserted Robinson was unable to avoid striking the man.

John Martz, 65, whose address was not learned by the police, was killed instantly in front of 1458 Echo Park avenue when struck by a car driven by A. J. Barnard, 2154 Lake Shore avenue. Barnard, who was not held by the police, asserted the victim suddenly stepped from the shadows into the path of his car.

Antonio Ruiz, 25, of Atwood, Cal., was killed and his wife and two children were injured seriously when the steering wheel of his car broke and caused it to turn over in Norwalk. The wife, Rosa, and the two daughters, Rosetta and Beatrice, were taken to the General Hospital.

One man was reported fatally injured and three others were painfully cut and bruised when their automobile turned over near 1137 Monterey Road early yesterday. All were removed to the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital.

Howard O'Connor, 21, of 1638 Van Horn avenue, suffered a skull fracture and other injuries which may cause his death. John and Anthony Stagno, 24 and 20, respectively, of 1260 Pueblo avenue, and Lynn Harris, 18, of 4829 Hillsdale Drive, also were hurt.

Lincoln Heights police are investigating the accident.

Mrs. Alice Stephens, 36, of 1611 West Sixtieth street, was reported to be in a critical condition at the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital last night as the result of injuries received in a traffic accident at West Sixty-first and South Figueroa streets yesterday.

The victim's throat was deeply gashed by flying glass when the automobile driven by her husband, C. L. Stephens, was struck by another machine driven by Jose Montoya, 30, of 672 South Clarence street, according to the police report. Neither Stephens nor Montoya was injured. The latter was held for questioning by police of Seventy-seventh-street division.

Four persons were injured when two automobiles collided at Los Feliz Boulevard and Rowena avenue last night. Those injured are Fred Browne, a policeman, who was driving one of the cars; his wife, Mrs. Odessa Browne; his grandfather, John Browne, and Sigurd Jangaare, driver of the other car.

Jangaare's 3-year-old daughter, in the car with him, was uninjured. The victims were taken to the Hollywood Hospital.

FORMER FRENCH HIGH COMMISSIONER BILLED

Pierre De Lanux, director of the Paris information bureau of the League of Nations and former member of the French High Commission, will speak before an assembly of students and faculty of the University of Southern California tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock in Room 305 of the Administration Building. Following his lecture, Mr. De Lanux will address a luncheon meeting of the International Relations Club of the Trojan institution in the Student Union Building.

PALATIAL YACHT SWEPT BY FIRE REDUCED TO JUNK

Flames and smoke last night continued to pour from the wreckage of the palatial yacht of Charles S. Howard, San Francisco automobile dealer, destroyed in an explosion and fire Saturday night while at anchor in Avalon Bay, Catalina Island.

The boat was abandoned to the flames a short time after the explosion and all day yesterday continued to burn. At times the flames flashed to a height of ten to fifteen feet. During the afternoon a second explosion, believed to have been one of the fuel tanks, rocked the wreck.

Four members of the crew, who were injured and taken to the hospital for treatment were released yesterday. A fifth, a Filipino mess boy, was unable to leave and is believed to have suffered internal injuries.

The explosion, which came while Howard and his guests were at dinner, is believed to have been caused by a blast in the battery room. At first, the explosion was blamed to an overflowing oil stove in the galley.

Howard, his guests and members of the crew will return to Los Angeles today. The wreck of the $30,000 vessel anchored some 500 yards offshore, will be abandoned, as nothing remains but the steel hull.

CHINA'S STATUS TOLD BY EXPERT

Former Minister Crane Sees Republic Recovering

Loan Like That to Russia Would Reap Profits

Expert on Orient to Inspect Indio Date Ranch

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, Dec. 14.—By extending the same helping hand to China which has been extended to Russia in the form of long-time credit on goods purchased in this country, the United States would lay the corner-stone of a foundation for profitable trade relations with the Orient.

This is the opinion of Charles R. Crane, former United States Minister to China and retired president of the Crane Company. Mr. Crane, a resident of New York City, is a guest here at the Hotel Vista del Arroyo, having returned a few days ago from his first visit to China since retiring from public life.

BETTER THAN THOUGHT

"Conditions in China," he asserted, "are better than I expected to find them. I am convinced that China is in a far sounder position than Russia and at a point in her development to take advantage to the fullest extent of the aid of American capitalists. The Pacific Coast in particular is interested in selling goods to the Orient, but until this trade is stimulated by credits it may be a long time developing."

"Russia is far less stable than China and the Russians are not running their own country. In China the leaders are all well-educated Chinese, most of whom are in their early forties, the prime of life. Communism is China is very sporadic and there is a concerted drive against its activities at the present time. Its leaders are members of various races.

"China is not yet in a condition to place large orders for machinery. Road building and canal construction are the crying needs. They can't disband the army immediately but the soldiers should be employed in construction of communication and transportation facilities. Reforestation is one of the nation's requirements which requires stimulation."

STUDENT OF ORIENT

Mr. Crane made his first journey to China via the Cape of Good Hope on a sailing vessel fifty years ago, and has been a student of the Orient since that time. He admitted that possibly the proudest moment of his career occurred when the captain of the 1000-ton Ventus, in which he made the trip, complimented him upon his seamanship and offered to make him first mate on the return voyage.

In the course of his brief sojourn here Mr. Crane has been entertained by his sister, Mrs. Kate Crane Gartz of Altadena, whose husband, A. F. Gartz, died a few weeks ago.

Date culture is Mr. Crane's hobby. He is owner of a date garden at Indio which has seventy varieties of date palms, the most varied collection in the United States.

CALIFORNIA'S BEST

"The dates now being raised in California," he said, "are the cleanest and best-flavored obtainable. The business is on a solid basis. By comparison with the fresh and sterile California dates the Arabian date is a poor article."

A native of Chicago, Mr. Crane entered the great business founded by his father, R. T. Crane, and worked his way up through the ranks to head of a concern which has branches in all parts of the world.

In addition to his service to the United States in stabilizing relations between the United States and China at the conclusion of the World War, he served as chairman of the American Commission on Mandates to Turkey. President Wilson also appointed him a member of the diplomatic commission to Russia.

Tomorrow this city's distinguished guest will go to Indio to inspect his dates before leaving for New York. He plans to make another trip to China in the near future.

FREE SHOW FOR CHILDREN

School children will be given a free Wild West show at 1:30 p.m. today when the Ramona Indian Village at 5600 West Washington Boulevard, presents a program of Indian dances and ceremonies.

APOLOGY TO MEXICO MAY BE SOUGHT

Vice-Consul Here Charges Insult Due to Seizure in Contempt of Court Case

Action by the Mexican government through diplomatic channels at Washington seeking apologies and explanations for an asserted insult by Los Angeles county officials to Joel Quinones, Mexican Vice-Consul, appeared probable yesterday.

The Mexican official reported that he, as well as his government, had suffered insult through a contempt-of-court citation directed by John Zaring, justice of the peace of Belvedere township, and the subsequent remarks and acts of Deputy Sheriff J. B. Davis. Vice-Consul Quinones asserts that both Zaring and Davis used language disrespectful to the Mexican government and officials. He subsequently accepted an apology from Davis in his own behalf. Reports of the affair have been forwarded to the Mexican Embassy at Washington; the Mexican Minister of Foreign Relations at Mexico City, and the Mexican Consul-General at San Francisco, by Rafael de la Colina, Mexican Consul here.

Vice-Consul Quinones appeared before Justice Zaring as an attorney for Antonio Garcia, Mexican national, charged with drunkenness. At the close of the trial he attempted to discuss some evidence with the court. The justice declared that diplomatic privileges did not prevail for the Mexican official and unless the arguments ceased he would cite him for contempt. Subsequently a fine of $5 was assessed and the Vice-Consul was placed in custody of Davis. About an hour later Zaring was advised that he was without jurisdiction in charging the Mexican official with contempt, and he ordered a release. A habeas corpus action started by Consul de la Colina in United States Court before Judge James also was dismissed.

TROLLEY PLEA GRANTED

A request by the Los Angeles Railway for permission to construct a pole line and erect wires along Towne avenue in the vicinity of Slauson avenue, in accordance with the ordinance granted the company to construct appurtenances in connection with its railway system on such streets as may be necessary, has been approved by the Board of Public Utilities and Transportation. The poles and wires are for connection with existing systems and a new automatic substation to be erected on Towne avenue, south of Slauson.

THEATER GROUND BROKEN

Ceremony Marks Start of New $350,000 Plant for Next Season of Pilgrimage Play

Ground was broken yesterday afternoon for the new $200,000 home of the Pilgrimage Play. Gathered at the site of the old structure, at Cahuenga and Highland avenues, Hollywood, which was destroyed by fire a year and a half ago, a group of officials of the organization, together with a group of representative citizens, held a public ceremony which was attended by several hundred persons.

Mrs. Robert Burdette, vice-president of the Pilgrimage Play Association, was in charge, and with Mrs. Chauncey Clarke, a founder member, turned the first earth. Rev. Dr. Stewart P. MacLennan, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Hollywood; County Supervisor Wright, Mayor Porter, Byron Hanna of the Chamber of Commerce; Rufus B. Von KleinSmid, president of the University of Southern California, and Joseph Scott spoke briefly of the advantage of such a play being given in Los Angeles and pledged support to the movement.

Mrs. Burdette paid a tribute to the founder of the play, Christine Wetherill Stevenson, saying that in organizing this thing of beauty she had given a solace to the world. She declared that the hills of California and the climate and sun furnished an almost identical setting to that lived by the Christ in Palestine.

Mrs. Burdette, who acted as presiding officer owing to the absence in the East of George L. Eastman, president, as she turned the spadeful of earth rededicated the spot to the constructive and spiritual good of the community and to a noble expression of art, education and culture.

The structure will be completed, it is hoped, in time for the opening of the play next July. This will mark the eleventh season of the presentation of the play, the past season having been omitted because of the destruction of the wooden playhouse structure. More than 500,000 persons have seen the play.

AND now even the Prince of Wales has gone Spanish.

There is something very significant about this wave of Spanish enthusiasm that is sweeping over the world. It represents the wistful yearning of a worn-out civilization for a life that has something of peace and charm and romance.

In America we have translated the national motto, "E Pluribus Unum" to mean: "Step on the gas, kid."

THE STORY OF THE WEST

If you have ever studied the history of our West, one fact must have attracted your attention.

Three hundred years before the first covered wagon crossed the plains, Spanish explorers had found and explored the West. The East was settled by sober-minded Pilgrim Fathers, who were trying to escape religious persecution. The West was conquered by knights in armor who were looking for the end of the rainbow. Hunting for seven legendary cities whose houses were made of gold.

END OF THE RAINBOW

There is nothing for which men will endure so much or suffer so horribly as the pursuit of a pipe dream.

REDS

The usual remedy of a country beset with internal troubles like Russia is to get into a foreign war. Europe will be lucky if this does not happen.

MARY'S PEP

Mary Garden's attempt to put a little pep into a jazz version of "Camille" has met a dismal end and faint applause. This may be due to the fact that grand opera patrons do not believe it is the real thing unless they are bored stiff. And then again, Mary is a big girl now and perhaps they are not so hot about seeing her dance on tables.

THE INDIAN WOMAN

The appointment of Ruth Muskrat, a full-blooded Cherokee Indian, to an important post in the Indian Bureau has significance.

The real hope of the Indians is in the Indian woman. She has brains, the power to endure and strength of character. The coming of civilization to the Indians was too sharp a reversal for the Indian man, whose business was hunting and war. The life of the Indian woman was not so much changed. She has merely changed from a camp kettle to a gas stove.

GO SLOW

The question of zoning residence areas such as Los Feliz Boulevard for business is a grave one.

Unless a street promises to be a real business center, such zoning will wreck the district for residence purposes and do nothing real for it as business property.

The answer to the traffic jams is to plant new business centers. But there are already enough of these. Peppering this whole town with little business warts will damage the value of property already zoned for business.

BONDS SOLD AT PREMIUM

The entire issue of 183 bonds for the opening and widening of Flower street between Washington and Thirty-eighth street, which aggregate $537,199.04 in value, has been sold for par and a premium of $125.90, according to a report filed with the City Council by City Treasurer Powell.

PARLEY CALLED ON CRIME WAVE

Business Leaders Summoned to Chamber Meeting

Methods of Getting Funds Will Be Discussed

Opposition Voiced to Few Bearing Whole Burden

Leaders of various business, commercial and industrial groups have been invited to participate in a special conference next Wednesday called by President Austin of the Chamber of Commerce to discuss the present emergency confronting the community with regard to the crime situation.

Those invited include representatives of the banks, downtown business groups, newspaper publishers, officials of the service clubs and men prominent in civic affairs, Austin said.

SOLUTION OFFERED

"It is the belief of the board of directors of the chamber that the raising of necessary funds with which to meet this situation is the responsibility that rests on the entire community," said Austin. "We do not believe it should be met by assessing the burden against a few, particularly in the form of business or occupational taxes.

"Therefore, our suggestion that with the necessary decrease in the assessed valuation should come the necessary increase in the tax rate to offset it, does not necessarily mean an increase in taxes, but rather a stabilization of the income of the community.

CAUSE OF PROBLEM

"For years the increased cost of government for Los Angeles as the population grew was absorbed by the natural increase in assessed valuation until the business depression called a halt and the city finds itself with insufficient revenue due to a legal limit on its tax rate and a decreasing valuation.

"We desire to submit to the meeting on Wednesday the concrete facts as to both angles of the picture to learn the views of the city's leading men as to their attitude on how we are to handle this crime wave and the unemployment problem in Los Angeles."

The meeting will be held in the directors' room at noon, Wednesday.

PARK PROJECT STUDIED

A request to the park department to take over and beautify as a part of Sycamore Grove Park a parcel of land thirty feet wide along the north side of Pasadena avenue, beginning at the intersection of Echo street, and extending to Avenue 50, has been referred by the Park Commission to Supt. Shearer for an investigation and report.

HERE'S WAY TO SMASH CRIME

Wield Hammer on Old Auto Plates

Forestalling Criminals

Nancy Bolyman and Capt. Cullen of police auto thief detail show "way to ruin."

"DESTROY old auto license plates and help curb the crime wave!" says Detective Chief Taylor.

Discarded license plates may be used until January 15, next, and if early buyers simply chuck them into the ash can when they put on the new ones, it is quite possible that they may turn up on a bandit's machine. Such things have happened in the past, according to Taylor.

First license plates for 1931 will be issued today and policemen will be stationed at the license bureau to remind motorists of the destruction program.

Old plates may be destroyed in several ways. One method is to whack them up with tinner's shears; another, by placing them in an incinerator and thus effacing the numerals, but the best plan, according to Taylor, is to bend and hammer the plates until they are beyond the possibility of further use.

Plea Made for Money Due on Sales of Seals

A plea to all residents of the city who have received letters containing Christmas Seals from the Los Angeles Tuberculosis Association to remit at once was made yesterday by Dr. R. L. Cunningham, president of the association. Pointing out that funds derived from the Seal sale is the association's sole source of income, enabling it to combat the spread of tuberculosis, Dr. Cunningham said $100,000 is needed during 1931.

"Tuberculosis may be prevented," he stated. "Thanks to the advance of medical science, it may also be cured if treated in the early stages, but to prevent tuberculosis and to effect the cure there must be proper facilities created. Physical examination of children, proper food and sanitation and a suitable environment, all these things cost money, and all money derived from the sale of Christmas Seals is devoted to procuring them.

ARMY OFFICER ASSIGNED

First Lieutenant James M. Fitzmaurice, Army Air Corps, of 1600 North Kingsley Drive, has been assigned to duty at the air corps training center, Duncan Field, San Antonio, Tex., according to information received from the War Department. Fitzmaurice is in the Canal Zone, Panama.

Juvenile Court Aide to Be Feted

Dr. Miriam Van Waters, retiring referee of the Juvenile Court, who is leaving that position to become a consultant with the National Law Enforcement Commission, will be the guest of honor tonight at a banquet to be given by friends in the First Baptist Church at Eighth and Westmoreland streets.

Mrs. Van Waters has served as a referee of the Juvenile Court for more than twelve years.

ENDURANCE FLIGHT FLOPS

Six-Man Plane Stays Aloft Twenty-two Minutes; Stowaway, Girl Parachute Jumper, Blamed

An attempt by six airmen to make an assault on the world's refueling endurance record at Grand Central Air Terminal failed yesterday. A crowd of 10,000 persons was disappointed when the ship, the largest tri-motored monoplane in the world, was forced down by engine trouble after remaining in the air for a total of twenty-two minutes.

With considerable ado, the six pilots, headed by Jimmy Angel, left the ground shortly before 3 p.m. and gained altitude with irritating slowness as most of the 10,000 persons hoped for the best. A moment later two refueling ships took off and joined the huge monoplane, not for the purpose of replenishing its tanks, for it had started with a capacity load of 600 gallons of gasoline, but for some mysterious reason which still remains unexplained.

BACK TO EARTH

Twenty-two minutes after the take-off the plane returned to earth, and as it ceased moving the nose motor ceased with it. Then, to the surprise of the assembled customers Miss Billie Brown, 24-year-old professional parachute jumper, stepped out of the cabin.

None of the 10,000 persons on the field had had the slightest inkling of her presence in the plane and, moreover, neither did any of the six pilots, they insisted.

EXPLANATION GIVEN

The explanation offered by the flyers was that Miss Brown had "stowed away" in the ship's tail without their knowledge and, when they discovered her, they were compelled to return her to earth. She could not have "bailed out," they explained, because she was equipped with only one parachute, and Department of Commerce regulations make it compulsory for a parachute jumper to use two.

Besides Angel, the ship's crew comprised George Shleppey, Paul Wiser, Ed Frame, Sam Hopkins and Bob Perlick. None ventured a guess as to when the feat will be re-attempted.

One of the outstanding events of the week will be a meeting at the First Congregational Church at 2 p.m. on Thursday under auspices of the Los Angeles League of Women Voters, which has been arranged for report and discussion of the California Commission for the Study of Educational Problems. Dr. Susan M. Dorsey, former local school superintendent, is chairman of the commission and will deliver the report.

GROUND BROKEN FOR PLAYHOUSE

The next theater will be constructed entirely of cement and will seat 1471 persons, each seat to be individual and upholstered. The value of the land which will be occupied is placed at $150,000, which will make the project a $350,000 one.

One of the unique features of the new theater will be an escalator which will wind up the hills from the roadway and car tracks of the Pacific Electric. Other plans include the making of the grounds into a miniature Jerusalem with vegetation and buildings in keeping with the period in which the play is staged.

It is hoped to have the theater completed in time for the meeting of the National Educational Association here next summer, when 15,000 educators are expected to be here.

Solomon Will Feast Newsies at Biltmore

FRED SOLOMON.

Good news for Los Angeles news vendors came yesterday in the announcement by Fred H. Solomon that the fifteenth annual Newsboys' Christmas Dinner again will be given in the Biltmore.

The dinner, to include turkey and all the fixin's on a five-course menu, will start at 10:45 o'clock on Christmas morning and continue until the tummy of the slowest newsboy calls a halt to his individual gustatory activities.

As a lad on San Francisco's windswept streets, many years ago, Solomon started his career as a street-corner merchant selling newspapers and mindful of his early privations, for the past fourteen years he has had the newsboys as his guests at dinner on Christmas Day.

The death of his mother, the late Mrs. Seraphine Solomon, a few years ago, led Solomon to dedicate the newsboys' dinner as a memorial to her, in view of the fact that she had taken intense interest in arrangements for the affair during her lifetime.

Concert Pianist to Perform at Music Lecture

Celebrated musicians will appear with Dr. Bruce G. Kingsley at his concert lecture Wednesday morning at Bullock's. Count Waldemar Skarzynski, concert pianist recently arrived from Poland and a recital tour of New York, Chicago and Detroit, will play several piano selections. Other artists to appear will be members of Hiner Band School in unique ensembles, and Mrs. Hiner, concert soprano.

Dr. Kingsley will, as usual, interpret the Philharmonic symphony program.

PLEA MADE FOR YULE LIGHTING

Preparation of Trees and Shrubs Immediately Urged on Citizens

With the lighting of outdoor Christmas trees in the yards of hundreds of Southern California homes scheduled to take place on Friday evening of this week, individuals and groups fostering the movement and its attendant program of Yule season music by groups of carol singers are urging that trees and shrubs be prepared now.

Harry L. Harper, chairman of the exploitation committee of the Chamber of Commerce and one of the leaders in the "Christmas-out-of-doors" movement, said yesterday that present reports indicate that the drive made in Beverly Hills for 1000 lighted, living trees, has been successful. The lighting of the trees in that community on Friday evening will be ushered in with a ceremony at the huge tree placed in the municipal park, with Mary Pickford officiating and the singing of Christmas music by radio entertainers and a chorus of forty voices.

Fifteen groups of carol singers have been organized in Beverly Hills to tour neighborhoods of lighted trees on several nights prior to Christmas Eve.

While the ide of floating a huge lighted star over the downtown district has met with considerable response, to date no organization has volunteered to put the plan in motion, it is reported.

Indicating the national attention being focused on the "Christmas-out-of-doors" idea, word has been received that the "Jo and Vi" program over the Columbia chain broadcast from KHJ will turn its attention to the Southern California idea tomorrow evening and again on the 23rd inst. The program is broadcast from 7 to 7:15.

TRAFFIC OUTLET ASKED IN VENICE OIL AREA

A resolution approving the opening and widening of the Pacific Electric right of way for street purposes from Avenue 35 to the Esplanade in the Venice district has been sent to the Opening and Widening Committee of the City Council by tne Board of Public Utilities and Transportation. The plan is fostered by the Venice branch of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce as an emergency measure to correct the greatly increased traffic congestion in the oil field area.

BANK SUES CLARA BOW AND FORMER SECRETA

The break between Clara Bow and her erstwhile secretary, Daisy De Voe, left the Beverly Hills National Bank "holding the sack" for $400, according to a suit on file in Municipal Judge Baird's court.

E. Edward Alton, attorney for the bank, filed suit against the two asking for that amount. In the complaint he sets out that Miss De Voe, acting as agent for Miss Bow, drew a check on the California Bank, Hollywood branch, for $400 and cashed it at the Beverly Hills bank. The check was later returned, he asserts, with the notation, "payment stopped."

KERR ASKS CITY TO FILL CHEST

Donations Total $2,686,994, With Goal $3,200,000

Deficit Will Leave Many Unprovided For

Final Report Meeting of Campaign Held

The total amount to date subscribed by citizens to the 1931 Community Chest fund is $2,686,994, according to a statement issued at headquarters by Campaign Chairman J. A. H. Kerr.

The final report meeting of the team organization was held on Wednesday, the 3rd inst., but since that time a large number of volunteer workers have continued the solicitation of donations to the Chest. Many persons who had not subscribed during the intensive solicitation period have mailed in their subscriptions, while numerous others have made additional donations to those previously given.

APPEAL RENEWED

"New and additional subscriptions received since the 3rd inst. amount to $62,572, said Chairman Kerr. "The campaign goal is $3,200,000, and that is the absolute minimum necessary to enable the agencies to carry on their helpful service among the poor and needy during the coming year. This means that a considerable amount remains unsubscribed, and unless the good people of our city open up their hearts and their purses and meet this need it is a foregone conclusion there will be many worthy cases, where relief is needed, that cannot be given the necessary attention by the agencies. In the name of these unfortunate people we again earnestly urge the public to be generous and give enough to insure the proper care of every worthy case during 1931."

The campaign chairman was generous in his praise of the tireless and cheerful service rendered by the 15,000 volunteer workers, saying: "On behalf of the directors of the Los Angeles Welfare Federation and the 124 agencies, I wish to extend to the team workers assurance of deep appreciation and gratitude for the splendid assistance rendered in the recent campaign of the Community Chest.

"It is the fine spirit of human helpfulness, so cheerfully given—an unpurchasable service—that makes the Chest possible. Without this kind co-operation the charity and welfare agencies would of necessity be deprived of the manifold benefits derived from the Chest. Personally, I wish to thank these volunteers from the bottom of my heart. Their greatest compensation will come from that peace and joy springing from the knowledge of having done a noble deed at a time of unprecedented need. May the blessings of the poor and afflicted follow each and every one of them throughout the coming year."

Day Labor to Be Employed Building Sewer

Day labor will be used to construct approximately $11,000 worth of trunk-line sewers in County Sanitation District No. 11, according to A. K. Warren, chief sanitation engineer of the county. The district is just north of Inglewood.

Warren said the board of directors of District No. 11, desiring to do what it can to help relieve unemployment in the county voted that day labor be employed to construct the sewers instead of letting contractors do it. Only county residents will be employed, he said. About twenty men will be set to work within a week.

Similar action was taken by the board of directors of district No. 2, which includes Montebello and Bellflower. About $100,000 worth of work will be done employing more than forty men. Installation of a sludge digestor tank, just west of Watson, however, will have to be done by expert workmen.

FIVE SWIMMING LESSONS FREE

Y.W.C.A. Classes Open to School Girls

Water Sprites

SCHOOL girls of Los Angeles are invited to take advantage of five free swimming lessons to be given at the Young Woman's Christian Association this week.

Instruction to girls between 6 and 11 years of age, will be given each day at 2 p.m. and to high-school girls at 3 p.m. Misses Alma Hansen, Pearl Ross and Betty Beam, regular swimming instructors at the Y.W.C.A., will be in charge of the classes.

Girls desiring to take the classes are invited to telephone Miss Ella Stevers, head of the physical education department of the Y.W.C.A. at TRinity 0461.

ART BOARD REPORT SHOWS VAST BUILDING PROGRESS

For the first eleven months of the year, according to a report by Miss Elizabeth Black, secretary, the Municipal Art Commission has considered plans for structures aggregating $7,736,599 in value.

Included in the total are plans for bridges and viaducts totaling $2,559,000, additions to the Coliseum, $900,000; Lincoln Heights jail, $350,000; airport buildings, $83,000; playground and park buildings, $100,100.

Seven pedestrian subways, five of them for Wilshire Boulevard and costing $75,000, were approved. So were plans for a power-distributing station costing $123,000.

During the eleven-month period 117 plans for street-lighting standards were submitted.

The commission approved designs for a $65,000 fountain in South City Hall Park, for the $1,250,000 State building, for a granite boulder at Elysian Park and North Broadway commemorating the discovery of the city's site, and a Founders' Memorial Fountain at the Plaza.

During the period the commission also exhibited a number of paintings by local artists in the session room, 351 City Hall.

Chamber Makes Preparation for Yule Luncheon

Plans for the annual Christmas luncheon of the Chamber of Commerce, scheduled for the 23rd inst., are now being made, according to Secretary-Manager A. G. Arnoll. This year's affair will be held in the chamber's dining-room and will be open to the full membership and any others of the general public making reservations.

The program this year will again feature Christmas messages by leaders of Catholic, Hebrew and the Protestant churches, Arnoll said, and arrangements are also being made for appropriate Christmas music by a mixed quartet. Bishop Cantwell, Rabbi Magnin and Bishop Stevens of the Episcopal diocese, representing the orthodox religions, will be on the program.

MAP GOES TO COMMITTEE

The assessment district map for the improvement of Echo Park avenue between Altivo Way and Montana street, submitted to the City Council by City Engineer Jessup, has been transmitted to the Public Works Committee for consideration.

DYE-GAUSS TRIAL WILL BE RESUMED

Attempt Will Be Made Today to Complete Jury in Horton Slaying Case

Additional prospective jurors will be questioned today in Superior Judge Fricke's court when defense and prosecution attorneys attempt to complete the choice of a jury to hear the trial of Lloyd Dye and Gordon Gauss, 22-year-old Long Beach youths charged with the murder of Wade Albert Horton, 68, wealthy Mint Canyon rancher.

Investigators charge that the two youths went to the Horton ranch in Mint Canyon on May 18, last, believing that Wade Horton and his brother, George, 92, kept a large sum of money hidden in their home.

In the course of the robbery Wade Horton was shot to death by one of the bandits, but not before he had shot the man twice in the stomach. Officers charge that Dye is the bandit that was wounded in the attempted robbery because of two asserted bullet scars found on his body.

The youths were traced when Long Beach police reported they had taken a man into custody with bullet scars on his stomach. Later, according to Deputy Sheriffs Penprase and Gray, the tires of Dye's automobile were found to correspond with the tire prints left by the bandit car at the Horton ranch.

Students to Get Shuttle Service on Bus Route

A shuttle service for the benefit of University of California at Los Angeles students to be operated by the Pacific Electric Railway motorcoach division from the intersection of Highland avenue and Hollywood Boulevard to a terminal at Crescent Heights and Sunset boulevards, along Selma avenue to McCadden Place, and along Santa Monica Boulevard, has been approved by the Boart of Public Utilities and Transportation.

The service is to provide a direct connection with the Hollywood-University-Ocean Park coach line and is destined to provide a better service for University of California students residing along Santa Monica Boulevard.

PERJURY SUSPECT TO BE TRIED TODAY

Jesus De Leon, accused of giving perjured testimony in behalf of Juan Reyna, who recently was convicted of manslaughter for shooting a Los Angeles police officer to death, is scheduled to go to trial today in Superior Judge Aggeler's court. It is charged that De Leon testified falsely that he saw officers beating Reyna over the head with the butts of their revolvers at the time of his arrest. Investigators assert that De Leon was in jail at the time and could not have seen the arrest.

Today's Bible Text

And God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes; and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow, nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain: for the former things are passed away. Rev. xxi:4.

RELATIVITY

Another reason why Einstein is coming to Pasadena may be to hunt for the only twelve men in the world who can understand him.

NO BANDITS THERE

One thing is patent: We do not hear of the mail plane being held up by bandits as the mail bus was in olden times, or the mail car in later days. There are no thieves in heaven.

UNEMPLOYMENT

A Michigan tree sitter sat for 100 days and got only $5 out of it. If his daddy had given him a good spanking he would have gotten at the seat of much unemployment.

JUST LIKE THAT!

Once we raised our hands in horror at the thought of "a Billion Dollar Congress." Now that amount is passed in the appropriation for one department of the government.

STUDENT RIOTS

Judging from the almost daily reports of disturbances in Cuba and South American countries we wonder when the "students" ever find time to attend classes.

ANOTHER LOOPHOLE

Judging from the stuff they drink now, the palate and nostrils of the wet will soon become immune to the "rotten-egg" variety of alcohol and the feeling of security is not likely to cut down the consumption of booze. But the use of the new denaturant should be hailed as a great victory for Hearst.

PEACE-TIME HEROES

Ten thousand persons gathered about a church in Australia for a glimpse of Kingsford-Smith and his bride. Curiosity is world-wide and hero-worship the "one touch of nature" that binds the world. And it is gratifying to know that in recent years most of the heroes have been men and women whose accomplishments do not smack of war.

NEW HETCH HETCHY PACT

At last, after years of contention, the municipality of San Francisco and the Federal government have reached an agreement as to the city's obligations at Hetch Hetchy under the Raker Act of 1913, the precise application of the terms of which have been in dispute, though it has been generally believed that San Francisco has interpreted them incorrectly in its own favor.

An official delegation from San Francisco met Secretary Wilbur in Washington recently and the Secretary accepted the plans relating to road construction and power distribution as proposed by San Francisco's spokesmen. It was explained that the deadlock on the Raker Act interpretation had prevented the city from realizing its dream of a Hetch Hetchy water supply, and that only by the making of a new pact with the government could the water be conducted into San Francisco, as planned twenty years ago.

Under the terms of the Raker Act the city agreed to build certain highways in Hetch Hetchy Valley as well as to make other improvements, including the construction of a power-distribution plant. But it has failed to carry out its agreement, one reason being that the citizens would not vote a certain bond issue to meet the expense. The main points of the new agreement are: San Francisco agrees to continue its campaign for power distribtuion, to spend $1,250,000 on new roads and to transfer to the government the remainder of the Yosemite lands not needed by the city for the water project. Secretary Wilbur accepts the present Lake Eleanor road as complying with Raker Act provisions.

According to press dispatches Secretary Wilbur was impressed by the showing that San Francisco has spent nearly $100,000,000 on the project to date, including the cost of a tunnel said to be the longest in the world. However, he must have been equally impressed with the fact that the voters of the city had failed to authorize the spending of money to fulfill the agreement made by their representatives for ample power distribution.

THE NEW PROBLEM

Somewhat neglected in the flurry of more spectacular matters that attended the opening of Congress was the annual report of Secretary of the Interior Wilbur, in which he devised a new phrase to sum up the work of the Interior Department. That phrase is "Continental conservation," more fully descriptive, he declared, of the problem of the government division of which he is the head, than any other ever used.

Dr. Wilbur sees forest saving and reforestation, conservative development of mineral resources, including oil and coal, preservation of natural beauties, water control—in which is included flood control, grazing control and reclamation—and other activities of the department as parts of this single problem.

"We can be secure upon this great continent if we can conserve its values through intelligent action," he said. "The prime aim for us as human beings in the conservation of the continent is to care, protect and plan wisely for those who will inherit it. The day of the amateur in the conservation and preservation of our continent and our child life is past."

The nation is fortunate in having as Interior Secretary a man who can paint so vividly upon a broad canvas. There were rumors some months ago that Dr. Wilbur felt the Interior Department was working itself out of a job and soon would have no further excuse for existence. If he ever had this feeling, it plainly is gone now.

Among the most interesting things in the report, aside from this breadth of view, are these paragraphs:

"In their conquest of the desert our pioneer people have erected sovereignties which must co-operate in the new pioneering. That new pioneering must be done by regions, just as thirty years ago it was done by communities and, in the decades before that, by individuals. Interstate agreements will help to solve these problems, and the compacts affecting the Rio Grande, the Colorado, the Columbia and other western streams must be the Magna Charta of this new pioneering.

"If one State can block the destiny of a region and a watershed by failure to think in terms of the larger regional units, a great part of the West's future control of its water will be relinquished. The future of the semiarid regions of the West is no greater than its ability to control its water. The background of community co-operation which made possible the development of the great irrigation projects in these States will eventually lead to interstate co-operation in the solution of this problem."

There could be no clearer statement of the issues involved in the Colorado River suit now pending in the Supreme Court, or better indication of its importance.

Another statement which emphasizes the importance of oil and gas conservation states that the gas wastage from the Kettleman Hills field alone exceeds 450,000,000 cubic feet daily.

"Each year," he continues, "the waste of energy from Kettleman Hills is over twice the total expected annual electrical output of Boulder Dam. Californians who for years have urged the development of the Colorado River as a great new source of energy probably do not realize that failure to enforce strict conservation measures is costing them annually twice as much irreplaceable energy as Boulder Dam will be able to make good."

By agreement and otherwise, the Secretary reports, more oil and gas wells have been shut in in each of the last three years than have been brought into production. On July 1, last, there were 6190 wells shut in, while during all of 1929 and half of 1930 there were only 1898 new producers, in the seven oil-producing public land States. Most of this activity took place in California, where there are 5431 shut-in wells and 1562 new ones.

"It is not apparent," remarks the Secretary dryly, "that further prospecting would result in anything but an economic waste of any oil which might be produced."

MAN'S SPIRITUAL NATURE

In a recent radio broadcast of Sir Arthur Stanley Eddington, the noted British physicist, on "The Spiritual Nature of Man" one notes an almost complete accord with the views of Dr. Robert A. Millikan as expressed in his brochure, "Science and Religion." Sir Arthur's address is just another indication of the recognition by scientific minds of the fact that science, with all its biological, astrophysical and other lore, fails utterly to satisfy the human heart.

"Science," Sir Arthur says, "has had to make room for a spiritual conception of the universe and man's place in it." He sees no true answer to the longings of human nature in electrons, atoms, planets and suns. These things make no reply to the question, "What is it all about?" But what does make answer is "the spirit in which truth has its shrine, with potentialities of self-fullment in its response to beauty and right."

Prof. Kirtley F. Mather, professor of geology at Harvard University, said in a recent lecture: "Personally I believe that the contrasts between science and religion that are so frequently proclaimed are for the most part fallacious." He holds that men of science and men of religion will succeed in making the most of their opportunities only as "they co-operate in their search for truth and righteousness."

This is precisely the Eddington view of this important matter. It is significant to note that Sir Arthur believes there is an existence beyond the power of science to apprehend. What he said in his broadcast about the conditions to which the world is looking forward is in line with the dictum of Dr. Millikan that "the future is certainly going to need the essentials of Christianity more than the past."

CORN CROWN

Viola Mach, a pretty 18-year-old girl of Tabor, S. D., has been crowned sewing champion of the country. And now Herbert C. Watson of Tipton, Ind., wins the corn crown in the International Live Stock Exposition at Chicago for the best ten ears of corn. These are champions worth while. Tree sitters and dance marathoners have tumbled from the back page into oblivion.

LEE SIDE O' L.A.

BY Lee Shippey

OUR favorite place to sit and work, on sunshiny winter mornings, is out on the front porch. There the songs of birds and the perfume of flowers steal to us as we rattle our typewriter and feel sorry for the poor chaps who have to sit in offices all day long. And what other luxury is quite so satisfying as feeling mildly and pleasantly sorry for people less fortunately situated?

WOY? YOU'RE HERE AGAIN?
BZZZ

But, alas! there's a fly in our ointment, or would be if we had any ointment. Anyway, there's a fly. Just one, but what a pest one fly can be. No sooner have we boarded a train of thought and played the first notes on our typewriter than he (or she, we cannot say which) hears or sees and comes to welcome us. He (or she) seems to claim us as a kindred spirit, one who like himself (or herself) appreciates the beauty of California's wintertime and so he (or she) tries to kiss us and encircle our neck and gently caress our brow.

So we are driven indoors by the rigors of Southern California's winters—by a fly or bumblebee. Who can write a column of great thoughts every day when even one too affectionate and demonstrative fly is singing softly in his ear or nestling tenderly on his bald spot? We are driven indoors to our study, which is all screened windows.

Truly, in Southern California winter is hard—to beat.

To Him That Hath

About a year ago we told how Mrs. George Norris, mother of five girls, ranging from 10 years old down, had built for them a whole yard full of playhouses and swings and things. Recently the stork flew that way again and was so pleased with what Mrs. Norris had done for her daughters that he left her another pair. Fortunately, Mr. Norris, the father of those seven girls, is a grocer; but unfortunately he is not also a dry-goods merchant. As father to father, our heart goes out to him.

NOW LET ME SEE!

We met George the other day and he told us about the new double blessing. He beamed as he told us, just as if he were announcing an unexpected gift of $2,000,000, but we faltered for a moment in our congratulations.

"What on earth have you named them all?" we asked.

George thrust a hand into an inside pocket and drew forth a paper. "Just a minute and I'll tell you," he said. "So many people ask that question that I always carry the list with me."

Our One Great Lack

Leesider: Though we have made our home in Southern California for only a short time, we perhaps have better perspective than persons who have lived here for years, or native sons, and would like to point out a crying need of this otherwise wholly satisfactory community.

The great need of Southern California is a devitalizer for children.

We came here from New York for our little daughter's health. She had not been thriving in our Long Island home. We worried about her, back there, but she never bothered anybody. She never was noisy or bumptious. She would spend all day curled up in a big chair or on a couch, looking at story books. She never interfered with anybody's work or interrupted anybody's conversation. She really was a model child.

But since she came to Southern California a few months ago she has changed completely. She slides down banisters, robs the pantry, dashes madly through the house in uproarious play and is continually asking us to stop everything and watch her turn somersaults or cartwheels.

It seems to me that most of the children we see in our friends' homes, here in Beverly Hills, are equally subdued.

How can I write any great scenarios in such an atmosphere? Unless somebody can put a devitalizer on the market I'm going to have to go back to New York in order to earn a living.—D. M.

Dignified Girls of Other Days

And this reminds us once more that children haven't changed such a lot since the old days.

A party of prominent club women was visiting the Goodwill Industries, which occupy the old Baker Block, once the pride of the city. Those queer old towers on the roof are the most ornately carved things you ever saw and the stairway is so noble that you could march a company of soldiers up it. One of the elder members of the party, who also is a member of one of the city's oldest families, looked at the long sweep of the stairway banisters and sighed.

"I'd love to slide down them," she said. "I've done it many a time as a girl, when the top floors were the Beverly-Wilshire of that day and Mme. de Baker had her apartments there, and Coulter's occupied the ground floor."

Chinese Boy Scouts

The other day we mentioned the fact that Riverside county has two Indian troops of Boy Scouts, as well as two Mexican troops and a Japanese troop. At that time we did not know that Los Angeles has three Japanese troops and one Chinese troop, probably the only Chinese troop in this country.

ARMED

Since the bandit concealed his gun in bandages of an arm in a sling and poked it into the face of a bank cashier at Walnut Park, men with arms in slings are under suspicion. A man cannot afford to have his arm broken any more.

THE THRILL HATER

By James J. Montague

I like to watch a royal Bengal tiger
When he bristles up his black-and-tawny fur
And hurries through the banyans with carnivorous companions
All emitting savage cries which sound like G—rrrrr.
I like to see them pouncing from the covert
Or careening through the shady tropic glens,
I feel placid and unshaken, for I know that they've been taken
At a distance with a telephoto lens.
And the terror of the jungle standing growling and at bay,
When they got the picture of him, was a half a mile away.

I long for wild adventure in the forest
Where the pythons trim the trees in long festoons,
Where the panther softly passes through poisonous morasses,
And one hears the raucous roar of big baboons.
I like to gaze agape at grim gorillas
As a dozen of them slither down a slope,
And to know that while they wander here and there and over yonder
They were posing for a telephotoscope.
All the cunning of such creatures, all their craft and all their guile
Could not harm a human being who was off a half a mile.

I never used to care so much for close-ups
When a leopard or a camel or giraffe
Dropped his air of haughty languor and in stern revengeful anger
Stalked the lads who tried to take a photograph.
I like to see the young of yak and rhino
Through the equatorial forests romp and frisk
If I do not need to worry while they hop and jump and scurry
Lest some nervy chap is taking quite a risk.
So I like the pictures better in these modern days, because They are taken with less danger of remorseless teeth and claws.

WHAT OTHERS THINK ABOUT IT

"ROUNDING THE HORN"

[Better Methods]

The spirit shown by the skippers of the New England clipper ships that built up such a record for themselves in the Eastern Asia trade, may prove a source of inspiration to the business man of today. In their path to the Orient lay one of the most stormy sections of the earth, the region around Cape Horn. When they started on a voyage they knew the storms they would encounter. This knowledge of danger, rather than daunting them, acted as a spur, and it became a source of pride to bring their ships safely around "the Horn." The business man of today is in a similar position. Times of slackening business are his "Capes of Horn." Like the old Yankee skipper, it means the exercise of ability and judgment on his part to safely navigate his enterprise through periods of business stress. Like them he has to make certain that his craft is seaworthy, with the proper sails set. History repeats itself, and he will discover that there is a limit to the trying conditions, and courage and business seamanship will bring him around "the Horn" into the Port of Success.

THE FUTURE OF GAME BIRDS

[Portland Oregonian]

From Iowa comes a letter advocating the use of the single-shot firearm as a means of concerving game birds. The writer of the letter was a resident of the prairies when prairie chickens were common as sparrows, and the mellow booming of the cock birds made everyyhere an unforgettable music. Now they are gone, or nearly so, and he believes that the repeating shotgun brought this sorry condition to pass. It is an old argument.

The buffalo were brought almost to extinction by means of single-shot arms, and the extermination of the passenger pigeon was largely accomplished by muzzle-loading weapons. The remedy for any threatening condition, as to the future of American game birds, would appear to be in smaller bags and shorter seasons, rather than in modified firearms.

NO FEAR OF INVASION

[San Francisco Chronicle]

Recent announcement that the long-discussed project for a tunnel under the British Channel, uniting France and England, has been abandoned because it would be a "military hazard" lends particular interest to the opening of the Detroit-Windsor traffic subway. Between this great American industrial city and Canada there now is access by ferry, bridge and tunnel. There is no navy on the river, no army, no military armament. Yet neither side shows any apprehension of what the other may do. Odd, isn't it?

POSTAL RATES

[Chicago Daily News]

Congress should not accept without inquiry the Postmaster-General's assurance that there is no other solution of the problem of the postal deficit. The postoffice should pay its way, as Mr. Brown asserts. He refrains from suggesting the corollary that the franking privilege and other unwarranted privileges should be abolished. The existing letter rate of postage is not low. It yields a considerable surplus. And certainly an increase in letter postage would not constitute a stimulus to lagging trade and commerce.

THE WASHINGTON WASH

BY STRICKLAND GILLILAN

Somebody was wondering recently how Senator Shortridge comes to be such an authority on happenings of long ago. They are as fresh in his memory as if they had happened yesterday. But the other day I got wise. I saw him waiting in the outer office of a dentist. He was avidly reading the "late" magazines displayed on the waiting-room table.

I had done my share, in my brief and mistake-filled life, of howling about Congressional franking in causal connection with the postoffice's operating deficit. But when I heard an Illinois Congressman on the floor talking about that, I had my eyes opened. The franking privilege of the Congressmen causes only about $700,000 of the departmental expense, which is only about seven-tenths of 1 per cent of the deficit. So it isn't worth talking about at all. Though you and I both think the franking privilege is a nuisance. Think it? We know it.

President Hoover signed something lately, right out in the open, and not a Democrat objected. It was a football. That should have called for a little kicking, one would think.

Talk about being between the devil and the deep blue sea—the Democrats are there right now. If they yes the President and everything goes smoothly in the country, it will make fine campaign material for the Republicans, who can say: "See? If you'd agreed with a Republican President long ago, things would have been better." On the other hand, if they resist the President and things go dully for a while, people can say: "See? It's those such and such Democrats that cause all this retardation, by their opposition."

It's a case of be damned if you do and be damned if you don't, and the usual Democratic attitude is "Damned if we will!"

But they are certainly, particularly some of the Presidentally ambitious ones. (What's that? No, sir! I never even mentioned Joe Robinson!) being pretty good boys right now. Credit where credit is due!

There was quite a flutter in society this past week over the redating of the judiciary reception at the White House. After I had my invitation for Wednesday night, I called the White House and asked:

"Bert there?"

"Sure," was the reply, for my voice was recognized. "Bert, come here. Strick wants to talk ta ya."

Then the well-remembered voice asked:

"'Yes?"

"Lissen, Bert. About that judiciary shindig Wednesday night. Go ahead with it if ya wanna, but if you have it that night it'll be without me."

"What!" came the wild yell at the other end of the wire. I heard a goldfish bowl fall and smash—heard a gasping fish.

"'I'm tellin' ya. My laundry don't come home till Thursday, and me one-stud, full-dress shirt is in it. I can't get it aheada time without payin' extry, and you know my ancestry."

"Oh," came in a relieved tone from the White House transmitter. "French," I heard him call, "change that to Thursday night." Then to me, "Don't scare me that way again, when it's a thing that can be fixed as easily as that."

So the reception was Thursday night.

Funny how those bits of gossip about prominent people get out. Only two days later, Sir Ronald Lindsay, the British Ambassador, came in for his lunch where I was eating, at a cafeteria. He poked me in the back with his tray and said:

"Wotto! could you do with a bit of spoofin', what?"

"Raw-THER!" I Johnny Bulled right back at him.

"Righto! I say, old chap, you're by way of havin' me a bit."

"Cheerio! Your bloomin' laundry chappie told me all about it at our club. And he says it was an English-made open-back shirt! Rippin'! Top-hole!"

David Rankin Barbee, that brilliant Southern writing gentleman, has done a book that is the answer to the tourists' prayer if they ever pray (we know they do with the other spelling;) also to their questions, for we know they do question. It is called "Washington, City of Great Events." Everything that cousin from Painted Post or the uncle from Sinking Springs would ask you is answered in that book, and there are wonderful pictures. The history in it is accurate, for Dave did the researching. Coming right now, on the eve of that bicentennial which is going to bring in all the folks from everywhere, it ought to be a good thing for the Tennessee editor, as we know it will be for the information-hungry public from out of Washington—and particularly for us who live in the city, who are still more ignorant.

Representative Howell, from Nebraska, who had a search-and-seizure bill fermenting in his noodle, has been Howelled down by those who love peace and tranquillity in these too-disturbed times. To have sprung that right now would have marked Howell as the same type of trouble-maker and hairshirt I believe Clarence True Wilson to be. We need a search-and-seizure agitation right now. We have no other troubles!

There is in the National Capital a filling station run by R. G. Dunne. He spells it that way, so no one will be asking him the rating of other filling stations.

But when they come to Washington from anywhere in U. S. A. They are not tourists, lay to that, as tourists are regarded—nay!

For Washington belongs to them—a fact that simply will not down.

And when we see them in our midst they're visiting Their Own Home Town.

LETTERS TO The Times

It All Depends

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 10.—[To the Editor of The Times:] In your editorial on the "Lindsey-Manning Row" you take the point of view, apparently, that inasmuch as a church is sacred, a preacher has a moral right to impeach motives and blacken character at will, and that the rule of church decorum gives him protection. The man whose motives are impugned, accused of cleverly advocating adultery and lewdness and whose past life is attacked without reference to the fact that it has received vindication at the polls where it had been entirely thrashed out—is supposed to say nothing in reply because only ministers are allowed to attack.

Your ensuing references to Lindsey's alleged conceit are so small that they are pitiful. You say that Lindsey thinks his Juvenile Court success entitles him to set up "as a universal authority on any subject on which he may choose to speak." This petty attack might be made on any person who spoke on any subject. The question as to whether Lindsey thinks too much of himself, which seems to be his principal offense, is entirely irrelevant. I wonder why you did not have the courage to condemn the howling fury of the church mob, assembled in a house dedicated to love.

FOSTER McLAIN.

Noisy Pests

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 10.—[To the Editor of The Times:] God knows that Los Angeles has a bountiful supply of ordinances, but certainly is in need of just one more—i.e., an ordinance which would permit any citizen to step out to his front porch with a double-barreled shotgun and shoot the tires from under some of the hundreds of cars driven by bunches of brainless boobs at terrifically high speed, the drivers backfiring as rapidly as pistons will function.

These cars are, in ninety-nine cases out of every 100, driven by boys from 15 to 25 and of the type that should one step into an elevator with you you would remove your hat.

These drivers are morons with ingrown inferiority complexes, striving mightily to make up in noise what they lack in brains, brawn, beef.

An idiot has, and of fairness should have, a perfect right to amuse himself, but these backfiring drivers aside from being a general public nuisance provide a perfect smoke screen for things who are out with their "gut guns" actually killing citizens.

In my neighborhood this stunt is in full flavor and in other sections where I have chanced to be I find it the same. From 10 to 11 p.m. this date I have counted over 200 backfires within two blocks of my home. There were two cars in which there were but two boys. In two other cars, one following the other at terrific speed, there were four and five boys, respectively.

Sometimes these (or other hoodlums) fire ball cartridges from pistols. I have stood in my apartment and seen the streak of fire from the striking of the bullet at an angle on the concrete roadway and some of these scarcely missed people in their homes.

These pests should be doing good long jail sentences, if for no other reason than that boys with a type of brain (if any) which permits them to indulge in this pastime have not enough brains to justify their being at large.

New Note at Wedding

A new note in fashions for bridesmaids was to be seen at the wedding of Lady Helena Rous to Maj. Douglas Beresford-Ash in London. The bridesmaids carried tall gold sticks surmounted by large bunches of red and yellow dahlias and greeny-blue taffeta ribbon bows. Each bridesmaid, dressed in gold, with a greeny-blue gauze veil, clasped to her head with golden gauze flowers, resembled a fairy as she took up her wand in the porch of the church on the way in. The bride's dress was a beautiful affair of peach tinted satin almost smothered with priceless old lace.

Ex-Policeman Burglar

Without food for two days, a former member of the Newcastle (Eng.) police force turned burglar and was captured by some of his comrades of other days. Starving and penniless, Albert Charlton broke into a hotel. A man next door heard him prowling through unused rooms and summoned the police. In a few minutes the hotel was surrounded by Charlton's former colleagues, one of whom pursued him into the bar and captured him. Charlton retired from the force last spring because of illness and at that time was presented with $500 by his colleagues. He was sentenced to two months in jail.

SELFISH CITIZENS SCORED BY MAGNIN

"Parasites" on the body politic were scored by Dr. E. F. Magnin in his Sabbath sermon at Temple B'nai B'rith. Dr. Magnin spoke in part as follows:

"It is the duty of every citizen to contribute something toward the preservation and development of ideals in his community. There are too many persons who do not feel any sense of obligation. They enter a community which has been prepared for them, participate in its blessings and give nothing in return. They are, in a sense, parasites, benefiting from the contributions of others and escaping their obligations.

"Thousands of persons enter the gates of this city year after year, making it their permanent home, even though they may retain their citizenship in other cities. Neither their former home nor Los Angeles derives very great benefit from them. The charities, educational and religious institutions are maintained by a comparatively small group of men and women who feel duty bound to take care of them. This is a condition that should be altered.

"Those who would enjoy the respect and affection of their fellow-citizens must join with them in the maintaining of all worthy enterprises."

CULTIVATION OF FAITH HELD NEED OF CHURCH

Dr. J. George Dorn, pastor of Hollywood Lutheran Church, preached yesterday on "The Middle Watches." He said in part:

"Perhaps there was no time when it was more difficult to be a Christian than in the early years of Christianity, when to the hatred of the Jew was added the ridicule of the Greek and the intolerance of the Roman. Yet there was no time when Christian faith reached so high as then, when the church went from triumph to triumph until in three centuries she had conquered the world. But when the first watch was over and the long dark ages marked the second and third watches, they were found less faithful. There was a time when they sparkled with enthusiasm for Christ and the church, but now they have fallen victims of the temptation of life's middle watches.

"The message of the Advent season is one of expectancy, that as Christ came in the long ago, so He will come again. The attitude of the church should be one of watchfulness."

MERRY CHRISTMAS HERALDED

Flowers and Sunshine Mark Yuletide

Dressed for Season

Messengers of annual Los Angeles Holiday Pageant to be given on City Hall steps Saturday evening, next.

WITH thousands of school-children beginning the first week of their Christmas vacation period today, rehearsals are scheduled to start for the third annual Los Angeles Yuletide pageant, "The Christmas Message," which will be enacted by 600 playground children, Boy Scouts, Campfire Girls and others on the City Hall steps Saturday night.

The task of providing costumes for so large a number of child actors has kept the playground and recreation department costume shop busy for the past several weeks. Flowers and plants that flourish in Southern California will be represented in the dances and tableaux of the pageant, in contrast to the ice and snow characteristic of Christmastime elsewhere.

The Christmas festival, which annually ushers in the holiday season in Los Angeles, has been designated as the official civil yuletide celebration of the entire city. Former pageants here have attracted widespread attention to the fact that it is possible to hold outdoor spectacles of this kind in Los Angeles at this season of the year, in which children in flimsy costumes participate.

According to plans of Mrs. Emelie Hollington, dramatics supervisor in the playground and recreation department, the dances and pantomime of the pageant will portray the attractions of the Southland—its stars, evergreen trees, flowers, the sea and other features. In conjunction with the affair Christmas music will be sung by four community chorus groups and St. Paul's Cathedral Choir.

NEW TESTAMENT'S IMPORTANCE CITED

"The Foundation of Civilization" was the subject of a sermon preached yesterday by Dr. Bruce Brown at South Park Christian Church. He said in part:

"With the passing of the centuries there are some things in morals and religion that have been established. Their value has been proved by the experience of countless generations. The most amazing fact of history is that 2000 years ago a man, without schooling, encompassed the whole field of human duty. Not one item has been added to His list of virtues. Not one thing that He denounced as evil has ever benefited mankind. Wherever His rules of conduct have been put into practice, peace and happiness always have followed. A little book that can be carried in the vest pocket contains all of His teachings, the foundation upon which all civilization has been builded."

CAPT. FANNIE WEST PAID HIGH TRIBUTE

Memorial services for the late Staff Captain Fannie Fields West were conducted yesterday at the Salvation Army Citadel. In his address, Brig. J. C. Bell said in part:

"Let us pause as we honor this one who has been promoted to glory and say in letters of gold that she rests from her labor, that her work is done. For forty years she was a good Salvationist. She served in America and in the lands that lie beyond the western horizon.

"As a member of the first graduating class of Los Angeles State Normal School, which is now the University of California at Los Angeles, her life has been notable. As a faithful Salvation Army officer her work has been notable at home as well as abroad. And as she has passed on, resting from her labors, her works do follow her. When we have gone on, our work remains. Fulton lives in the steamboat, Morse in the telegraph, Luther in religious freedom, but this one in the souls she has touched and their name is legion."

MANKIND DECLARED ON WRONG TRACK

Declaring that the natural attitude of every individual is social, Dr. Sheldon Shepard, in his sermon at First Universalist Church yesterday, said the disturbing element in our civilization is that "we are on the wrong track in establishing human relationships."

"Our civilization seems to be organized to suppress the most normal, natural and valuable trait in human nature," said Dr. Shepard. "Who could devise a scheme more scientifically planned to bring forth misery? Family life, education, drama, literature and business emphasize the unsocial attitude. Children are taught to compete and excel. Ideas of grandeur implanted in their minds develop grandiose delusions and complexes, the hallucinations of the whole modern world."

PRESERVER OF MAN SERMON SUBJECT

"Withhold not Thou Thy tender mercies from me, Oh, Lord: Let Thy loving kindness and Thy truth continually preserve me." This petition of the Psalmist constituted the Golden Text in the Lesson-Sermon on "God the Preserver of Man," yesterday in all branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston.

The Scripture selections included various other verses from the Psalms, among which were the following: "My help cometh from the Lord, which made heaven and earth. He will not suffer thy foot to be moved: He that keepeth thee will not slumber. Behold, He that keepeth Israel shall neither slumber nor sleep . . . the Lord shall preserve thy going out and they coming in from this time forth and even for evermore."

One of the passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, stated: "The history of Christianity furnishes sublime proofs of the supporting influence and protecting power bestowed on man by his heavenly Father, omnipotent mind, who gives man faith and understanding whereby to defend himself, not only from temptation, but from bodily suffering."

SAYS: "Pie" to a printer is just an unassorted mess of all kinds and sizes of type. But to the rest of us, pie is a cherished delicacy, the national dessert and an American institution.

AMERICA is the birthplace and native home of that culinary triumph, the pie. It is small wonder that Americans have developed a discriminating taste—that we demand perfection in products of the oven.

The Davis Perfection Bakeries have attained their present success simply because they so capably supply this demand for delicious bakery goods. Of course they have to let people know about their products, and that is where we come in. The folder above, printed in rich brown and blue on a warm tan paper stock, is an example of our work.

by JUANA NEAL LEVY

The engagement of Miss Grace Pape Thompson, member of Alpha Omega Sorority, who was graduated from the University of Southern California last June, to Dr. Charles Wadsworth Gray, also a Trojan graduate, was announced at a bridge party given by Miss Thompson the 4th inst. at the Mary Louise.

Ostensibly honoring Mrs. George E. Symons of Champaign, Ill., sister of the hostess, the bridge party was attended by sixteen sorority sisters of Miss Thompson, including Mmes. Earl Hosington, Ronald Stewer, Walter Colpine, Maurice Mathis, George E. Symons, Charles Gray, Robert Brown and Charles Ingrum and Misses Martha Dyer, Jean Burke, Elaine Seitz, Portia Phillips, Marion Nuppnau, Katherine Joplin, Betty Budd and Loraine Neel.

News of the engagement was revealed when the guests untied their tallies from a beautifully decorated Christmas tree and found scrolls with the names of Miss Thompson and Dr. Gray, with the date, "December 26" given as the time of the wedding, which is to be an 11 o'clock ceremony in the chapel of St. James Church.

Miss Thompson is the daughter of Frank J. Thompson of Sullivan, Ill., and Dr. Gray is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gray, 4207 South Flower street.

Christmas Party

One of the most beautifully appointed of the Christmas parties was the high tea held at Girls' Collegiate School yesterday afternoon, when a pageant depicting yuletide celebrations in foreign countries was given, to the accompaniment of carols by members of the glee club.

Christmas decorations were used throughout the drawing rooms and tall candles gave a soft glow, adding to the spirit of festivity. Miss Charlotte Gregg was chairman of the social committee, Miss Anna Margaret Locey of the program committee and Mrs. Emma Sawyer of the faculty was in charge of arrangements.

Tuesday evening students and faculty members will have their annual Christmas dinner, after which three one-act plays will be presented by students of the private expression classes. "Pink and Patches," a delightfu lplay by Margaret Bland, will be given by Misses Ruth DeVienne, Frances Elfendahl, Juanita Lewis and Betty Merwin; "Stars and Groceries" by Ursula Cooke MacDougall will follow, with Misses Eleanor Williamson, Mary Olive Todd and Nancy Ann Monroe assisting. Gilbert Cannan's "Everybody's Husband" will complete the program, with the cast including Misses Gene Monroe, Betty Stoddard, Audrey Miller, Meta Booge, Helen Chandler and Helene Maddux. Health and Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK McCOY

Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

ACUTE AND CHRONIC DISEASE

In order to better understand the cause and cure of disease it is well for everyone to understand the difference between what are called acute and chronic disorders.

An acute disorder is one having a short and relatively severe course, while a chronic disease may be said to be one which is long continued with often no sharp symptoms. When one's body is in a perfect condition of health it is not possible to have either an acute or chronic disease. However, most people are constantly suffering from some chronic disorder, even though it has not been diagnosed or they do not understand its nature. For instance, constipation is a chronic disorder, and it is doubtful if there are more than perhaps 5 per cent of men, women and children who do not suffer from this ailment. Most of the people so constipated will have other long continued disorders, such as those of the lungs, kidneys, liver, stomach and other organs and tissues of the body.

When acute disease shows through in manifestations of pain, distress or other symptoms, it is a sure indication that some chronic disorder already exists and the acute disease is simply a violent manifestation of the chronic trouble. One may have chronic disorders with little if any symptoms, but it is my belief that it is impossible to have an acute disorder develop unless the patient's body is in such a condition that a careful examination would at any time reveal some chronic abnormality or impaired functioning. Disease caused by infections surely could not get a foothold if the body had up to that time been in absolutely perfect health.

Whenever one is apparently "attacked" by an acute trouble, he should bear in mind the fact that such a disorder is really an acute crisis due to some long continued chronic disorder. When one has a cold and headaches or pain in any part of the body not caused by a definite injury it must be assumed that whenever the immediately irritating cause the unpleasant symptoms are only an indication of the almost volcanic eruption of a chronic state of sickness.

Too many attempts are often made by doctors and patients to suppress the symptoms in treating acute disorders, for the opposite plan should always be used and that is, to as much as possible, let the acute disease alone so that it can cure itself. The changes which take place in the membranes of one with a sore throat are changes necessary for the body to make in bringing about a reduction of the toxins or inflammation in the body of the patient. It is true that bacterial infection may induce the cold, but it is certainly true that this form can only occur in the throat or membranes of one who really has some kind of chronic catarrhal condition. One in perfect physical health might abuse himself a great deal at any one time without being able to induce a headache. Those who easily contract headaches are already toxic and always on the verge of having their chronic toxic condition burst forth into an acute form, such as various forms of headaches. Headaches and pains are really Nature's warnings to one who has been violating natural laws of proper living. Let every acute disorder be a lesson to you so that you will study how to eliminate your bad habits and change them to good ones and thus be free from a chronic condition of sensitiveness which can be so easily precipitated into an acute attack.

Chef Wyman's RECIPES

Every Friday at 2 o'clock Mrs. A. L. Wyman will conduct a free class and demonstration of good cookery in the lecture room of the Southwest Building, 130 South Broadway.

LOBSTER CHOW MEIN

Boil half a pound of noodles in boiling water, until tender; drain well and fry the noodles until crisp in hot shortening, drain and place on a hot platter, heat two teaspoonfuls of butter in a saute pan, add half a pound of sliced, boiled lobster, and cook for four minutes. Add one thinly sliced small onion, two-thirds of a cupful of dried mushrooms that have been sliced and soaked in hot water, three thinly sliced stalks of celery, three sliced water chestnuts. Allow this mixture to fry for seven minutes, add one cupful of thinly sliced bamboo shoots, and cook five minutes longer. Place the sauted mixture over the hot noodles, and garnish with the yolks of two hard-boiled eggs that have been pressed through a sieve.

BAKED EGG PLANT

Peel the egg plant, cut in slices and saute until brown on both sides in oil; place a layer of the egg plant in an oiled baking dish, cover with a layer of chopped ripe olives, then add a layer of grated strong eastern cheese, then a layer of finely chopped onions, and another of finely chopped green peppers, continue until all of the ingredients have been used. Pour over this a thickened tomato sauce, cover with dry bread or cracker crumbs, dot with bits of butter, and bake in a moderate oven.

APRICOT TARTS

Line small individual tartlet pans with a cookie dough, prick them with a fork, and bake in a medium hot oven, drain the syrup from a can of preserved apricots and heat. Soak two teaspoonfuls of gelatin in one-third of a cupful of cold water for ten minutes, add to the hot syrup and stir until dissolved, add one teaspoonful of lemon juice, and stir until it begins to harden. Fill the baked tart shells with halves of apricots, pour over the nearly cold syrup, place a blanched almond in the center of each tart and set in a cold place until it has become hard.

EGGS WITH PIMIENTO POTATOES

To two cupfuls of hot riced potatoes, add two tablespoonfuls of butter, one-third of a cupful of rich milk, and one-half a teaspoonful of salt. Beat vigorously for three minutes, then add one and one-half of a pimiento that has been pressed through a sieve and continue the beating until the mixture is thoroughly blended. Pile evenly on a buttered baking dish, make four depressions in the potato mixture and carefully break into each cavity a raw egg. Place in the oven until the eggs are set.

Mrs. Wyman does not reply to letters, but requests for recipes are answered in the department, PRACTICAL RECIPES, published every Friday.—(All rights to reproduce reserved by A. L. Wyman.)

Emergency Aids

Avoid using too much soap on gilt china.

When vegetables are dark in color they have been cooked too long.

Brush brown floor stain over white candles to obtain an antique effect.

Bran may be used effectively in place of soap when laundering chintzes and cretonnes.

When washing fine lace, use two lumps of sugar to a basin of water instead of stiffening with starch. It makes a much better body.

Your Baby and Mine

by MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope forwarded to this office will bring a personal reply.

This department offers leaflets on weaning and feeding the child from 6 weeks to 6 years, prenatal care and diet for the nursing mother, constipation, eczema, outfits for the new baby, sleeping, walking, teething, thumb sucking, ammoniacal urine, bed wetting, training in cleanly habits, periods of nursing, cod liver oil, orange juice, hives, worms, vomiting, refractory children, prune juice, lime water, rupture, styes and boils and cradle cap. Before asking a personal question about one of these subjects, it is better to send a self-addressed stamped envelope for the leaflet you need. If your particular problem is not covered in the above list, Mrs. Eldred will be glad to give you a personal reply.

LIVER MUST USUALLY BE DISGUISED FOR CHILDREN

The discovery that liver is a remedy for anemia resulted first of all in making an aristocrat, because of its high price, out of what was once looked upon as a very common food, and, secondly, in hunting ways and means of getting this very useful food into the children's diet.

Liking for liver, as for olives, is seemingly an acquired taste, for few, if any children, like it. It must always have been so, for children of a past generation could be lured to accept liver, heart or gizzards only in the form of giblet gravy, a form in which children will accept it today, so giblet gravy can still be counted upon when children turn up their noses at liver. There are other modern ways of serving it that will so mask the liver flavor as to be acceptable to children who vow that they hate "inners."

WON'T EAT LIVER

Mrs. R. F. T. is bothered by this problem. "My doctor told me that my little girl of 5 years was very anemic and advised me to give her liver at least three times a week. But Mrs. Eldred, how can I? She simply won't eat it, no matter how temptingly I cook it. She turns her face away and won't open her mouth. Shall I force it?"

Absolutely not. Instead, stop mentioning liver to her at all. Stop telling her how good it is, how badly she needs it, that the doctor says she must have it, and all the rest of the arguments you have been using to convince her that she must eat liver. Change and mask it so that she will accept it without knowing it.

APPETIZING WAYS OF SERVING LIVER

Liver Loaf—Blanch one-half-pound of calf's liver in boiling water for ten minutes. Then remove tough, stringy portions and chop the liver in chopping bowl or run through a medium knife of meat grinder. Mix this with one pound of chopped round steak. Season and pat into small cakes and saute in butter, or mold into a loaf and bake it in the oven. The child will not notice the presence of the liver if it is well mixed with the beef.

Liver cocktail—Blanch liver, remove strings, run through fine knife of food chopper and then press through a wire sieve. Add one tablespoonful of this mixture, juice and all, to an equal amount of either orange juice or pineapple juice. Serve in a glass.

Liver sandwiches—Use the above finely chopped liver, season with salt and a drop or so of onion juice and spread on tiny sandwiches. If the bread is cut into triangles and circles it makes a dainty sandwich to serve to the child with her milk at four. Call it afternoon tea. Or you may spread one-half of the bread with hard-cooked and sieved yolk of egg and the other side with liver paste.

Liver soup—One-half-pound of finely chopped liver may be added to one quart of vegetable soup and cooked for fifteen minutes. Or liver soup, already cooked and strained, may be bought in glass jars.

If the child spurns all these various forms, ask the doctor about liver extract or liver powder, both of which are now on the market, as an aid in curing anemia.

Mrs. C. K. W., I shall be very happy to send you the leaflet you want, but you neglected both to address your letter or to send the self-addressed and stamped envelope which we must have in order to fulfill your request. Will you do that, please?

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Enamelware

When the enamelware pan gets scorched, half-fill it with cold water and add a tablespoonful of washing soda. Heat slowly to boiling point, then pour out and wash. It will readily wash clean.

Marked Linen

When buying a new make of bed linen it is wise to mark it in some way when put into use so you can know whether it wears well or not. Different types of initials will identify it for you nicely.

Raw Potatoes

Slices of raw potatoes are wonderful helps in removing mud stains. They will take them off of woolen materials as well as remove them from tan shoes. Just rub with the moist cut side, changing to a clean piece when soiled.

WHEN THE SANDMAN COMES

by THORNTON W. BURGESS

STUMPY LEARNS A USEFUL TRICK

A thing of seeming small account
May to importance yet amount.
—Old Mother Nature.

Little things often prove to be most useful, even more useful than some bigger things that seem more important. It is so all through life. You never know how soon some bit of knowledge may become of the greatest possible use to you. So never overlook and never scorn little things.

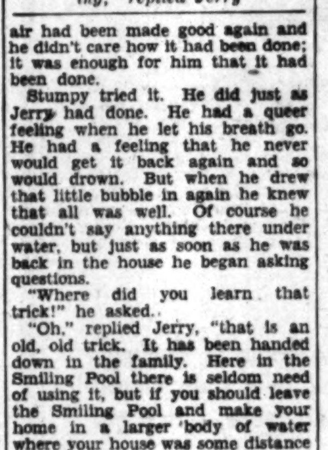
Jerry Muskrat had told Stumpy, his three-legged son, that he would show him a way to breathe under the ice without going to the bank where almost always a little air is to be found under the ice. Stumpy reminded Jerry of this as they were preparing to go look for some roots of water plants in the mud at the bottom of the Smiling Pool. "You said that if there wasn't any air under the edge of the bank beneath the ice there would still be a way to breathe. I don't see how that is possible," said Stumpy.

"It is a little trick worth knowing," replied Jerry. "There are many little tricks that come in handy all through life. This is one. It might save your life sometime."

"I'll take your word for that," replied Stumpy. "Now what is the trick?"

"You follow me outside and do just as I do," said Jerry. "I am going to let my breath out, but notice just where and how I do it and how I take it in again. Then you do the same."

He led the way outside and Stumpy followed. Instead of heading for either bank Jerry swam straight up to the ice that covered the Smiling Pool, making a sort of roof. Anyway that is what Stumpy called it, and I guess Stumpy wasn't far wrong. Straight up to the ice swam Jerry and put his nose against it. Then he let out his breath. The air made a little bubble against the ice, for of course it could not escape. Jerry waited. Then he took in that bubble of air; took it back into his lungs breathed it in.



"It is a little trick worth knowing," replied Jerry

Now an interesting thing had happened. When he had let that air out from his lungs it had been impure, bad. All the goodness of it had been used up. When that bad air had formed that bubble against the ice it had there become purified again by the freezing of the water just there. So it had become good to once more take into the lungs and Jerry had drawn it in. Jerry didn't know how that air had been made good again and he didn't care how it had been done; it was enough for him that it had been done.

Stumpy tried it. He did just as Jerry had done. He had a queer feeling when he let his breath go. He had a feeling that he never would get it back again and so would drown. But when he drew that little bubble in again he knew that all was well. Of course he couldn't say anything there under water, but just as soon as he was back in the house he began asking questions.

"Where did you learn that trick!" he asked.

"Oh," replied Jerry, "that is an old, old trick. It has been handed down in the family. Here in the Smiling Pool there is seldom need of using it, but if you should leave the Smiling Pool and make your home in a larger body of water where your house was some distance from the nearest bank that little trick might come in very handy."

"Does it always work?" inquired Stumpy.

"I've never known it to fail," replied Jerry.

"I don't think I like this roof on the Smiling Pool," said Stumpy.

"I do," replied Jerry. "By and by there will be dreadful storms and the weather will get terribly cold, but we won't care. It is always the same under the ice. We can go and come as we please no matter what the weather may be up above. I am always glad when Jack Frost covers the Smiling Pool. You will be, too, when you are more used to it."

"Perhaps," said Stumpy, but it was plain that he doubted it.

Cards should be ordered by now, gifts to be monogrammed should be in the making, but the many little remembrances you will be planning with the annual feeling of desperation. The problem is to find novelties. There are a few charming new gifts each season, and I have listed some of these for you in my trips through the New York shops.

A gift of charm either for a woman or for a man, and men are so hard to shop for, is a delightful chromium clock for library or dressing-room, which has, concealed back of the dial, a cedar-lined cigarette box. This swings into view at a touch and disappears again as easily. Another novelty which will be appreciated by members of your family of either sex is a pack of aluminum playing cards, just heavy enough to defy the beach breezes, but not heavy enough to be awkward.

For Smokers

Among novelties for smokers, the most amusing one which I have seen is a box which, at the touch of an inconspicuous button, mysteriously drops a cigarette into a groove from which you take it. The novelty and convenience lie in the fact that the cigarette is automatically lighted for you. Another new cigarette box, in white onyx, has a lid shaped like an ashtray. This may be removed entirely from the box and used for ashes while you are smoking, and the surface is so smooth that all traces of your cigarette may be removed with ease.

Big Game

All the world seems to be game conscious nowadays. And the back-to-backgammon movement has taken the country by storm. To give a backgammon board and set is to give a beautiful and lasting gift. The loveliest one that I have seen is imported from France where they have long played the game. There is a special table, the top of which is glass, the legs thin metal tubes. The points are enamel, fired directly into the glass top, red and black. The glass counters are clear glass and enameled black, the dice also are clear glass with the spots enameled on. Bright red leather dice cups complete this gay ensemble, an elaborately beautiful gift for the owner of a great house. Lesser backgammon sets range from boards of especially chosen woods to a delightful set for traveling which has no board at all. Instead there is a silk bridge table top, which will fit on any bridge table. On this the points are marked. The dice cups are folding, and with the cover, the counters and dice fit compactly into a black moire envelope-shaped case, piped with red. For others who would transport their pleasures with ease, an ideal game box is one of wood, not over two feet long, which contains, I think, more games than I remembered existed. Every crack and cranny have been skillfully utilized, so that from a box of modest dimensions emerge two decks of cards, dice and poker dice, checkers, backgammon, a minute roulette wheel, cribbage, chess, and I know not what. This is probably the most appropriate gift ever conceived for the giver of many week-end house parties. Even that good old standby, the bridge table, has taken a new lease on life, and it is made in a range of colors to brighten your living-room. In addition, some enchanting ones have old prints set into the top, or engravings of coats of arms, then lacquered so that the surface is perfectly for the playing of your

ATTACHE'S ROMANCES DISCLOSED

"The Boudoir Diplomat," Melange of Love and Politics at Orpheum

BY EDWIN SCHALLERT

How love affairs may become the turning point in international affairs, and sex and politics merrily mingle in the settling of ponderous matters of state, is the subject elucidated in "The Boudoir Diplomat," now showing at the Orpheum Theater. The picture is taken from "The Command to Love," which played here a season or so ago as one of the spicier divertissements of the stage. Ian Keith, Betty Compson, Mary Duncan, Lawrence Grant and Lionel Belmore, among others, compose the cast of the cinema version, which was directed by Malcolm St. Clair.

Written by Rudolf Lothar and Fritz Gottwald, "The Command to Love" was an airy and utterly frivolous comedy, deftly exposing intimate intrigues in high diplomatic circles. Naturally it did not need to be taken seriously. It simply expounded a very clever idea, with perhaps a modicum of truth shining through.

An attache was its leading figure, romantically involved with the wife of his superior, the ambassador. The lady was depicted as very jealous of his affection for her.

During the course of the play the attache received the command to make love to the wife of the war minister of another country, in order that this inamorata might prevail upon her husband to consent to the signing of a treaty. Virtually all the complications in the very ingenious plot arose from this smart little plan arranged by the ambassador himself.

"The Boudoir Diplomat" does not depart materially from the original. What it does lack, perhaps, is something of the glitter and zest of that play, but it is by no means as weak a transcription as some of the reports have indicated.

The climax is especially good, when the wife of the ambassador tries to incriminate the attache and fails of the purpose. She hands her husband, wrapped up in a package, a miniature painting and a letter that are designed to completely undo his young aide. But the attache adroitly gets these away from the ambassador by telling him that they are old and disagreeable bills acquired by the wife, and that he would not want to see them on the very day that he desires to appear at his best before the king.

Unquestionably some of the roles in "The Boudoir Diplomat" are not as well cast as they might be, but interesting portrayals are given by Ian Keith, Lawrence Grant and Mary Duncan, and Betty Compson is also often effective. Miss Duncan does one of her most competent portrayals to date on the screen. Keith scarcely looks the suave attache, but his acting is exceptionally good.

Grant exhibits an excellent manner in his role. An amusing eccentric impersonation is done by Andre Beranger. Lionel Belmore is the war minister and Jeanette Loff the fiance of the attache. The tempo of the picture is inclined to be slow at times, but despite this, and the fact that the atmosphere and the grace of the original are lacking in certain scenes, "The Boudoir Diplomat" is rather fairly entertaining.

Concerned in the adaptation of "The Boudoir Diplomat" were Tom Reed and Benjamin Glazer.

Louise Fazenda is starred in a mad sort of comedy, called "Too Hot to Handle," in which she acts as a hostess and etiquette expert, and also furnishes the aristocratic guests for a party. A fantastic fox hunt winds up the film.

The Humanette novelty, travestying Sherlock Holmes, is unusually good. A Grantland Rice cartoon of track sports holds much interest.

LARGE CAST CHOSEN FOR STAGE PLAY

Henry Duffy Signs Treacy, Mia Marvin and Others to Support Joe Brown

Henry Duffy, who is supervising the production of "Elmer the Great," scheduled to open Sunday matinee at El Capitan Theater, has selected the complete cast for the Ring Lardner stage farce. Joe E. Brown, of screen and footlight note, is the star.

The supporting group is headed by Emerson Treacy, who will play the important juvenile role. Mia Marvin has been chosen for the part of the show girl, while Ruth Matteson will portray the hometown girl who is Elmer's inspiration.

Trade Papers Consolidated

Consolidation of several leading trade publications of the motion-picture industry has been announced by Martin J. Quigley, president of the Quigley Publishing Company. The consolidation affects Exhibitors Herald-World, Motion-Picture News, Exhibitors' Daily Revue and Motion-Pictures Today, as well as the Motion-Picture Almanac, the Blue Book and Better Theaters.

The combined publishing resources will be devoted to one national weekly trade journal and one daily film paper, it was announced. The weekly will be put out under the title of Motion-Picture Herald and the daily under the title of Motion-Picture Daily. Headquarters for both will be in New York City, with executive offices also in Hollywood and Chicago.

Quigley will be in charge of eastern activities, and William A. Johnston, formerly head of Motion Picture News, will be in charge of the Coast offices.

Player Holds Winning Combination

Marlene Dietrich

Whose beauty and acting talent are equally proportioned, is one of the most talked-of figures of the screen today, although she is a comparative newcomer. The actress plays a leading role in "Morocco" at the Chinese Theater.

"RIVER'S END" ANNOUNCED

Charles Bickford plays the leading role in James Oliver Curwood's story of the North, "River's End," which starts at both Warner Brothers' Hollywood and Downtown theaters Friday.

This rugged story presents Bickford in a dual role. Others in the cast are Evelyn Knapp, J. Farrell McDonald, David Torrence, Zasu Pitts, Tom Santschi, Junior Coughlan and Walter McGrail.

"River's End," considered one of Curwood's most popular novels, deals with the Northwest Mounted Police of Canada.

Bickford enacts his most virile role since his screen debut in "Dynamite." The exterior scenes were taken in Canada and Lake Arrowhead, lending an authentic note to the picture.

The film marks the second appearance of Miss Knapp since her arrival from New York. Her first, "Sinner's Holiday," brought the actress a long-term contract with Warners.

"River's End" was adapted for the screen by Charles Kenyon and directed by Michael Curtiz.

"PETER PAN" TO OPEN AT MUSIC BOX

Revival of Barrie Play in Original Form Starts Tonight in Hollywood

Presaging a successful three weeks' engagement, a sell-out of two matinees and several evening performances is reported by the management of the Civic Repertory Players for its production of "Peter Pan," which opens tonight in its original textual form at the Music Box Theater.

Three special matinees will be added to the regular weekly bill of Wednesday and Saturday performances. These are announced for Friday, Christmas Day and New Year's Day.

An audience comprised of leaders in social, civic, professional and art circles of the city will make the opening a brilliant occasion, it is reported. "Peter Pan" will be present on both sides of the footlights—the imaginary one, as conceived by Barrie, and interpreted by Marion Clayton on the stage, and an actual one, Peter Pan Loftus, in the audience. The flesh-and-blood Peter Pan is the son of Cissie Loftus, renowned mimic, who succeeded Nina Boucicault in the title role with the original company in London about a quarter of a century ago. She named her son after the Barrie characterization, and Barrie himself was godfather.

Miss Loftus will attend the opening and will be surrounded by several old-time principals of "Peter Pan" organizations in this country and England. Among those who have been bidden to attend the first revival of the play since Maude Adams presented it here on her first tour of the Coast in 1907, are Mary Miles Minter, Betty Bronson, Lionel Belmore, Walter and Daisy Robinson, Henrietta Goodwin, Reggie Sheffield, Gustav Von Seyffertitz, Mrs. Stanhope Wheatcroft and Lawrence Wheatcroft.

Extremes of Music Played by Orchestra

BY ISABEL MORSE JONES

The Philharmonic Orchestra concert yesterday afternoon contained two extremes of music. The first was the Skriabin symphony No. 3, an ethereal, inspired composition which developed themes in an impressive and original way, and the second was the Liebling concerto, a clear, concise piece of music-writing in the Lisztian manner.

Other numbers were the Dvorak "Carnival" and Chabrier's "Rhapsody Espana."

The Skriabin symphony was repeated from a recent symphony pair and even more welcome at this presentation than upon its first hearing because its splendor was more fully realized. It is a translucent work, letting in a white light and then covering its meaning with confusion and bitterness. There is reality and strength as well as a softer beauty in it.

George Liebling, a Liszt pupil and a well-known composer-pianist, played his own "Eroica" concerto in a masterful way. He has technical command of the piano and of composition. The orchestration is well put together and shows good craftsmanship.

NEW PLAY ACTED AT PASADENA

Vera Gordon, Jean Arthur Perform Leading Roles in "Spring Song"

BY KATHERINE T. VON BLON

Vera Gordon, in Bella Spewack's "Spring Song," now receiving its premiere at Pasadena Community Playhouse, creates a Jewish mother, not to be identified with a racial type, but instinct rather with that very passion of tenderness which is all motherhood. And Jean Arthur, through her splendid delineation of Florrie, and Morris Strassberg share honors with the star.

Out of a racial consciousness invaded by changing standards, Miss Spewack has forged a drama which drives with irresistible force toward the climax. The East Side New York locale is pictured with fine accuracy. There is nothing extraneous, here, and one somehow senses a close approximation, an actual approach to truth, in dialogue and situation.

The symbol of everlasting motherhood with its travail beats ever against an almost Wagnerian Love-Death motive in this tragic swan song. Nature with its stark necessity must be appeased, and the Florries of the world would seem redestined through their overpowering urge for living to be the hapless victims of her imperious craving. So Florrie succumbs to the inescapable rhythms of fate.

There is implanted within the heart of the mother the inexorable law of ancient Judaism of an "eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth." True to the instinctive teaching of her race she demands that her lovely child shall marry the author of her shame and also suffer until the end of time for her treachery in stealing her sister's beau. But the inconsequential little Florrie, East Side flapper, seeks an easier solution. But in the end, her defenses down, she reveals a sturdy intensity of feeling which yields to the old order.

Gilmor Brown is to be congratulated upon splendid direction and grooming for the New York debut, which is to take place in the near future. Indeed, Mr. Brown is acquiring an enviable reputation as successful entrepreneur of plays devised for New York.

The natural sincerity and intensity of Miss Gordon's portrayal brought tears to the eyes. There was irresistible appeal in the simplicity, the loving sympathy of this untutored creature struggling against conditions which she could not understand, as brought to life through the art of this universal artist. The spontaneity and ignorance of life which led the gay little East Side Florrie to a bitter end were realized by Miss Jean Arthur with an instinctively fine dramatic sense. She has charm and a delicate beauty as well as individual acting talent.

As the friend and husband-to-be of the mother, Morris Strassberg gave an outstanding characterization. Nadje Gordon was a gentle self-sacrificing sister, and read her lines with much feeling. Franklin Provo was sensitively competent in his part of the lover of Tillie. Fannie Stanley Burgett was amusing in a character part and Harold Enfield was a proper type as the boy friend of Florrie.

Whispers in the Wings

BY MURIEL BABCOCK

IN LIEU of a batch of items from the local rialto, this column offers today for your perusal the weekly New York letter, from which it may be noted what's what, what's coming and what's leaving Broadway, as well as how much the shows will cost New Year's Eve. (The latter information ought to be invaluable if you are planning to be in New York on that festive night.)

The letter:

Warners Make $1200

Though they go right ahead producing big musical shows, the managers are always to be heard complaining that there is not much money in it, and sometimes they are right. In its thirty-six weeks at the Lyric last season, such an upstanding hit as "Fifty Million Frenchmen," for example, made only $1200 for Warner Brothers. The piece cost $264,000 to produce and besides the $1200 the only other net profits Warners realized from that investment were the motion-picture rights.

From Tickets to Stage

William McBride of the brothers McBride, who deal in theater tickets, is toying with the idea of becoming a producer. Although he has long been a factor in the New York theater, Mr. McBride, if the records are not awry, has made only one previous venture into production. This was a musical show at the Globe some seasons ago. Could it by any chance have been "Jack and Jill"? Anyway, he is now reading plays and is said to have four under consideration. They are a new piece by Kenyon Nicholson and Ernest Howard Culbertson; the one called "Frankenstein," which Mr. Liveright once announced; "Acquitted," by Douglas Murray, and something described simply as a "Chinese play."

Road Vanishing

There are those who maintain that the Shuberts would be not at all averse to getting rid of some more theaters in Philadelphia and at least three of the Chicago playhouses they operate. The theaters in Chicago are the Garrick, Great Northern and Princess. And one experienced showman last week went so far as to predict that by February there would be practically no shows on the road except in the biggest of the "key" cities.

Mr. Erskine is planning to make two more productions this season, the first very soon. "The House We Live In," which he recently acquired, may be one of them.

"Of All Things," which started out to be a musical comedy with Jack Hazzard, among others in it, succumbed last night after a week near the sad sea waves of Atlantic City and will go no farther.

"The Queen At Home" in the production of John Henry Mears, will be heard from again. It will reopen in Great Neck, the 27th inst. G. Albert Smith, who was good in "Coquette," and Lee Patrick are recent additions to the cast of "Rock Me, Julie," in which Mr. Muni, late of "This One Man" and Helen Menken will have the leading roles.

Migration to Palm Beach

This is increasingly tough business, but just the same theatrical people do manage to get to Europe in summer and to Palm Beach in the winter. Already an early delegation is or should be on its way to the Florida resort to forget all about the ticket leagues and threats of censorship. Among those in it are Sam H. Harris, Arch Selwyn, Irving Caesar and George White. Of them Mr. Harris plans to remain away the longest, three months in all.

FOX COMEDY SCHEDULED AT LOEW'S

"Princess and Plumber" Stars Charles Farrell; Bill Opens Thursday

Several choice offerings on stage and screen are looked for Christmas week at Loew's State Theater, starting Thursday.

On the screen, Charles Farrell's new Fox comedy vehicle, "The Princess and the Plumber," will be seen. Maureen O'Sullivan has the leading feminine role in the picture which Alexander Korda directed. H. B. Warner is also prominent in the cast.

As a special attraction to the screen, Laurel and Hardy's new comedy, "Another Fine Mess," will be shown.

A new Larry Ceballos stage show, "Icy Hot," is the Fanchon and Marco presentation, featuring the Three LeGrohs, Betty Lou Webb and Harris and Wallace. The stage half of the program also includes the appearance of the Meglin Kiddies in song and dance offerings.

Current at Loew's State is "Holiday," with Ann Harding, Mary Astor, Robert Ames and Edward Everett Horton.

Lasky Comedy to Commence Run Thursday

"Follow the Leader," a Paramount comedy-romance, will follow the current vehicle, "Along Came Youth," into the Paramount Theater, starting Thursday. Ed Wynn is featured in the cast.

With "Follow the Leader" on the screen the theater will present another eastern stage show, entitled, "Hello Paree." The cast is headed by Senator Murphy. Others are Samuels brothers, Bernice Stone and the Albertina Rasch Girls.

The Rhythm Boys, who have proved, according to the management, to be one of the most popular trios of the year, will be held over for another week on the stage. Oscar Baum and the orchestra will present another overture novelty.

TUNNEL BORERS BEAT SCHEDULE

Figueroa Extension May Be Opened by May 1

Tile and Plaster Work to Be Completed Next

Two Types of Construction Now in Progress

Construction of the northernmost of the three tunnels in Elysian Park hills, as part of the North Figueroa extension, is completed except for tile and plaster work, and the whole job, it is expected, will be done by May 1, according to a report to City Engineer Jessup.

If traffic flows through the tunnels May 1, it will mean that H. W. Rohl Company, the contractor, is nearly three months ahead of schedule on the job which was begun April 4, 1929.

DIFFERENT SYSTEM

Tunnel No. 3, as the northern bore is termed, is 405 feet in length. Like the other two, it is 46 1-2 feet wide, carrying a 40-foot roadway and a 5-foot sidewalk.

Tunnel No. 1, on the south side, will be 461 feet long. Holes have been driven the length of this tunnel and the earth is being removed, but it will be about ten weeks before this bore reaches the stage of completion of No. 3.

Tunnel No. 2 is 130 feet long. A different system of construction is being used in this case, as instead of a bore, a large open cut is made, the concrete wall constructed and the earth replaced above. The shrubbery above the tunnel also will be replaced.

TWO OTHER TUNNELS

In addition to the three traffic tunnels, the construction job calls for two pedestrian tunnels, one for a school and another for park patrons. Included in the job are the paving of Solano street and the roadway which will connect the northernmost tunnel with the Dayton-avenue bridge.

The contract price for the whole job is $652,789. In time a viaduct will be constructed across the river from the northern tunnel to connect with Dayton avenue directly, while proceedings are running for the completion of the Figueroa job south to Second street and from Second street to Pico street.

SUBMARINE FOOTBALL SQUAD EXITS

Lieut. Hardwick, Coach, Transferred to Honolulu; Colleges Seek His Stars

LIEUT HARRY HARDWICK

Lieut. Harry Hardwick, field coach of the unbeaten Submarine eleven at San Diego, sailed on the Lassco flagship City of Los Angeles this week-end for Hawaii, and with his transfer the Submarine squad passes out of existence.

The Submarine division has been discontinued at San Diego, and many of the divers have been transferred to Pearl Harbor, including the S-47, to which Hardwick is assigned.

Hardwick's team has won every battle fleet championship on this Coast for the last six years. He was an outstanding end on the Naval Academy team at Annapolis in 1923-26.

Coast universities are reported after several members of his team, particularly "Tex" Guentert, a 20-year-old Texas high-school boy, whom, Hardwick said, would star on any varsity squad.

Diane Ellis, Film Actress, Dies on Honeymoon Trip

The brief wording of a cablegram yesterday brought news of the death in Madras, India, of Mrs. Stephen C. Millett, the former Diane Ellis, Hollywood motion-picture actress, whose marriage to her millionaire husband in Paris two months ago was one of the social events of the French capital.

Mrs. Millett's death ended a honeymoon trip, which her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Frank Ellis, 655 Heliotrope Drive, said had taken the couple through Spain, Egypt and India and was to have terminated in Los Angeles. The cablegram received by the parents gave no details of the cause of the death.

Diane Ellis was born here in 1909 and was a graduate of the Fairfax High School. Her first appearance in motion pictures was in "Paid to Love" and she appeared in six other feature pictures and until the time of her marriage was under contract to the Paramount Studios.

Memory of Late Salvation Army Woman Honored

Memory of Staff Captain Fannie Field West, a member of Citadel Corps, Salvation Army, who died recently, was honored last night at army headquarters, 125 East Fourth street. Capt. West was buried Saturday at Inglewood and was one of the oldest and best-known Salvationists in the territory. Her last work was done in Hawaii.

More than 500 persons gathered last night to hear Brig. James C. Bell deliver the tribute. Capt. Frank Mann, in charge of Citadel Corps, also was a speaker, telling of the life and work of Capt. West. The Salvation Army band played the Dead March from Saul, and the army songsters, fifteen in number, sang her favorite hymns and songs. Services also were conducted at the temple at 832 West Ninth street where Adjt. Frank Howell was the speaker.

SPLENDID RECORD ON "FORCE" ENDING

Detective Lieutenant Rex A. Houston

Police Veteran to Retire Today

More than twenty years on the police force and never once on the green carpet!

This is the record of Detective Lieutenant Rex A. Houston, in charge of the night fugitive detail at Central Police Station, who today will retire on pension. He joined the department, September 26, 1910, and one of his first assignments was in connection with the explosion which wrecked The Times Building. Many important captures are attributed to his efforts and many times he risked death in performance of his duty.

For nineteen years he has been attached to the central division and never once has been affected by the spasmodic transfers or so-called shake-ups. He was a member of the first police flying squadron, on which he served six years, and for four years was assigned to motorcycle duty.

Houston expects to rest until the first of the year, after which he may consider some light occupation. The lighter the better, he says.

FAIRBANKS TO HUNT FOR BIG GAME

Siam, Indo-China and India to Be Goal of Film Men, Author and Others

An adventure into Cambodia, the huntsman's paradise, will be essayed by Douglas Fairbanks and associates early next year in quest of big game. They will sail on the Red Star world-cruising liner Belgenland, due here from New York January 1, and departing westward the following day.

Siam, French Indo-China and India will be the hunters' goal. Besides Fairbanks there will be John Monk Saunders, author of "Wings," the recent film romance of the air; Victor Fleming, director of "The Virginian" and other successes, and Fairbanks's personal secretary, Charles Lewis, and a valet.

The party will be entertained while in the Orient by the Emperor of Japan, the King of Siam and the Maharajahs of Rajputna and Baroda.

LA CANADA OPPOSED TO ANNEXATION

Residents Enter Protest on Shoestring Juncture Urged by Altadenan

Residents of La Canada Valley are no in accord with any proposal to annex that district to the city of Los Angeles, according to a communication filed with the City Council by the La Canada Valley Chamber of Commerce.

Some weeks ago Jay V. V. Green of Altadena requested information looking to the annexation of that region to the city. As Altadena is not contiguous to Los Angeles Green suggested the annexation of a strip including parts of Flintridge, La Canada, La Crescenta and Montrose, running as a belt along the southern slope of the mountains, to connect with the city boundaries east of Tujunga.

The Council sent the La Canada protest to its City Planning Committee, which has Green's appeal.

LAST REST OF ACTRESS UNMENACED

Funds to Retain Crypt for Emma Carus's Body at Hand, Says Attorney

The legal tangle which has surrounded the estate of Emma Carus Leopold since her death in 1927, and for a time caused friends of the famous comedienne to fear that her remains would be removed from a crypt in Forest Lawn Memorial Park for nonpayment of charges, yesterday was reported to have been sufficiently cleared to prevent the removal.

B. Dean Clanton, attorney for Leona H. Thurber, guardian of the estate of the actress, said yesterday that funds to pay for the crypt are on the way from New York.

Attorney Clanton added that there never has been any serious danger that the remains would be removed from the crypt, and said that no person had been authorized to solicit contributions to provide a burial place.

Shortly after the death of the actress in 1927 a legal contest was started by the divorced husband and a group of heirs in Germany. Several nieces attemptd to establish that their aunt was insane when she married J. Leopold in 1926. An additional contest on the distribution of the $165,000 estate was filed when Lydia McCann, former housekeeper for the actress, claimed $32,600 due her from the estate as a trust fund.

WIFE SHOT AND KILLED BY HUSBAND

Truck Driver Then Fires Bullet in Own Head, But May Live, Doctors Say

MRS JAMES SWIFT

Because his wife refused to listen to his pleas for a reconciliation after a week's separation, James Swift, 39 years of age, a truck driver, shot and killed her in the presence of her mother at the family home, 2427 East Fifty-third street last night. Swift had been drinking when he entered the house with a gun in his hand, according to the mother, Mrs. Nora Walker, who lives next door.

When Swift walked into the room, his wife was sitting on the floor while her mother was curling her hair. The mother saw the gun and screamed. Before the wife could raise her head Swift aimed and fired twice. One bullet struck his wife in the temple and the other in the abdomen. She died instantly.

Swift then turned the gun on himself and fired a bullet into his forehead and fell across his wife's body. Mrs. Walker fled to the street. Deputy Sheriffs Mayhew and Crobkston of the Florence-avenue substation arrived and sent Swift to the hospital. Surgeons assert Swift's wound may not be fatal.

According to the mother's story, her daughter and Swift had quarreled constantly during the last few months because of his asserted drinking. The couple had a daughter, 3 years of age.

CRITIC OF HOLLYWOOD TO SEE IT

Co-author of Satire on Film Capital Here for First View of City

Moss Hart, 23-year-old playwright who is co-author of the most biting satire ever written about Hollywood, arrived in Los Angeles last night to confess that he has never before been in the motion-picture capital. With George S. Kaufman, Hart wrote "Once In a Lifetime," one of Broadway's biggest stage hits.

Hart said that Kaufman has never been in Hollywood, either.

"But we know a lot of people from Hollywood, and, anyway, it's all in fun," he said.

Sid Grauman, who has purchased the Los Angeles and San Francisco rights to the play and who will stage it in Hollywood, met Hart and took him to the Ambassador.

"You had better stay away from Hollywood for a few days," Grauman advised him, "as I don't think it would be safe to put you up in a Hollywood hotel."

The play, which handles Filmland and film people rather roughly, is Hart's first and its sensational success in New York is making him a rich man.

"My friends in the East told me I was either brave or crazy to go to Hollywood to act in my own play," Hart said. "I'm neither—just inquisitive. I am very anxious to see the inside of a studio."

Formal Opening Held for Office Unit of Hospital

Trenery, superintendent, and Dr. W. Curtis Brigham, chief of the hospital staff. Other physicians who took part in the program were Drs. E. B. Jones and E. G. Bashor.

LINER SET FOR HOLIDAY AT SEA

Panama-Pacific's California Adorned for Yuletide

Christmas Dinner Will be Served in Caribbean

N.Y.K.'s Flagship Completes First Year's Service

BY WALDO DRAKE

California's Christmas spirit will be carried to the Spanish Main this year by the Panama-Pacific electric liner California, under plans for an elaborate Yuletide celebration completed yesterday by her chief steward, John T. Allen. The California sails from the local port this morning for New York, and her several hundred passengers will eat their Christmas dinner in mid-Caribbean, a day out of Havana.

Yesterday both dining salons of the 33,000-tonner were decked out in Christmas finery with a California motif on which Mr. Allen, his assistant Frank Ingham, A. B. Connors, dining-room steward, and the ship's entire commissary force have labored for the past week.

Twenty-foot evergreens from the slopes of Mt. Lyell occupies the central position in both the first-class and tourist salons, while on the main buffets are dazzling arrays of Christmas foods; veritable works of art, including gelatined hams, dozens of cakes, beef a la mode, shrimp bombs, California turkeys and bread-loaf hams.

On the center buffet in the main saloon of the California is a miniature Mojave Desert scene, so realistic that there seems to be missing only the coyote's howl or a buzzard circling overhead. The miniature is made up entirely of fruits, with pineapple tops for palms and plums arrayed to look like distant mountains.

Stevedores yesterday were busy loading viands aboard ship for the California's Christmas period at sea. These include 1500 pounds of turkeys and 1200 pounds of chickens. Samples from the twelve-course Christmas menu include Pate de Foie Gras canapes; fried whiting; California turkey; Virginia ham, Madere; venison steak, a la chasseur; yule log dessert, and a half-dozen types of cheese.

The California's sister-ship, the Pennsylvania, will spend Christmas Day in almost the same spot in the Caribbean, although bound from New York for Los Angeles Harbor. Her holiday repast will be typical of the State for which she is named. The third unit of the Panama-Pacific electric trio, the Virginia, will spend Christmas in port at San Francisco.

ASAMA MARU WILL ARRIVE TODAY

Nippon Yusen Kaisha's $6,000,000 flagship Asama Maru arrives from the Orient this morning to complete her first year's service in the Japan-California run, bringing 125 passengers and several thousand tons of oriental freight.

Since her commissioning twelve months ago the motor liner has run up many records, including a trans-Pacific speed mark of 292 hours and twelve minutes. She has delivered to Los Angeles Harbor more than one-third of her 6050 passengers, and on her from here have gone many special tour parties bound around the world. In the year she also has transported to California $50,000,000 of gold and silk.

The ship has covered more than 75,000 miles in the twelve months without mishap to passengers, crew or cargo.

Mrs. Willoughby Rodman of Los Angeles is returning on the ship, after a world tour. She was the American delegate to the International Women's Council at Vienna, was received by Pope Pius XI and by Mussolini.

Crews of foreign ships no longer may have beer with their meals while in American ports, it was learned yesterday. Local customs officers received word from Washington two days ago to discontinue releasing any malt liquors for any purpose, as they are not covered by medical permits. In the past on the Pacific Coast, particularly, small amounts of beer have been released by customs inspectors from the foreign ships' stores, as part of the crew's food ration. Now all beer will be sealed while the vessels are within American waters. Certain spirituous liquors are released in small amount on permit as medical stores, and wine will continue to be released to French and Italian ships as a food ration, under some arrangement between United States and those countries, but customs officials say malt liquors never have been recognized by this country as a food ration.

New York's latest Chinese smuggling racket is for bandits to board ships and, at the point of guns, to take orientals ashore with them, according to Capt. R. C. Butler, who brought his globe-girdling British Kerr motorship Silver Yew in from Gotham yesterday. Two bandits disarmed six ship guards on his vessel and marched off with two of the Chinese crew, just before he sailed from New York for here, he reported. On a sister-ship, the Silver Palm, ten gunmen descended on the ship and took off six Chinese recently, he said. The leader of the racket is a rich drug smuggler in Singapore who extracts $500 there from each victim, and $1000 more when he is landed in America.

Furness-Pacific motor liner Pacific Exporter in yesterday from United Kingdom with eleven passengers and cargo, also brought 19,251 stems of bananas from Panama and Guatemala, said to be within a few hundred stems of the record for any of the dozens of refrigerated ships bringing the elongated fruit to Los Angeles. They are consigned to the United Fruit Company.

Panama Mail liner Colombia is due from San Francisco this morning and will sail tonight with several score passengers for Central America and New York. Among them will be E. W. Eaton, American Vice-Consul at Mazatlan, returning after a vacation in Canada, and Dr. H. E. Bolton, professor of American history at the University of California and director of Bancroft Library, who is an authority on Mexican literature.

ATTACK EFFORT LAID TO BANDIT

Girl Tells of Attempt When Trio Hold Up Escorts

Many Other Robberies Over Week-End Reported

Two Suspects Said to Have Admitted Many "Jobs"

An attempted attack on a young woman as she sat in a parked car in the Palos Verdes Hills and several hold-ups by petting-party and other types of bandits were reported to the Sheriff's office yesterday. Numerous burglaries occurring in the city over the week-end brought the Los Angeles city totals for such crimes for December to more than 350, according to police reports.

Robberies for the same period mounted to 158, more than twice as many during a similar period last year.

GIRL TELLS STORY

The attempted-attack victim, Dorothy Cooper, 20 years of age, of 10308 Virginia street, told deputy sheriffs that while she was sitting with two men friends in a parked automobile three men in a blue sedan which carried a red spotlight drove up and robbed the two men of $4.50. While two of the trio covered her companions with revolvers the third attempted to drag her from the machine, the girl said. Becoming frightened when she screamed, her aggressor fled with the other two, she stated. The men who were robbed are Rex Little of 6032 Hood street, Huntington Park, and Floyd Rause of 6910 Wilson avenue. A machine answering the description of the one used by the three men was later reported by Edward Ammon of 450 Twelfth street, San Pedro, to have run his car off the Coast highway near Point Vicente, its occupants robbing him of $8. A woman riding with Ammon was not molested.

PETTING-PARTY BANDIT

Two petting-party bandits held up C. V. White of Bellflower, and Elizabeth Vail of 1625 Main street, Artesia, at First and Somerset streets, Bellflower, and robbed them of $60 in jewelry and cash, White reported to deputy sheriffs.

A hold-up man was captured Saturday night after he is asserted to have robbed Ruth Rivera, grocery-store clerk at 1215 Macy street, of $5. Three boys notified police after seeing the man get on a street car. The suspect, who gave his name as Fred Kloiblofuer, 25, a transient, was locked up on a robbery charge on the girl's identification.

Four taxi-cab drivers were victims of bandits late Saturday and early yesterday. Joseph F. Mone, 4071-4 Columbia Drive, lost $5 and his cab at Santa Barbara avenue and Budlong street when his fare held him up at the point of a gun. Lloyd White, Harry Gnatz and Louis Rairick reported losing small sums in addition to their vehicles in early morning robberies.

STORES HELD UP

Grocery stores, garages and filling stations, restaurants and drug stores paid toll to banditry over the week-end. Three men robbed the proprietor of a small store at 5503 South San Pedro street of $10 early Saturday night. Other stores reporting robberies are one at 1613 South Vermont avenue, which lost $30 to three men, one at 6154 West Pico Boulevard, where a clerk, Delbert Adair, was robbed of $33 by two armed bandits and another at 4751 York Boulevard, the proprietor of which, C. P. Headington, was forced to turn over $80 to two men.

Owners of two restaurants and one garage man reported robberies occurring late Saturday night. Bertha Kalich, employee in a restaurant at 1259 South Main street, was robbed of $14 by a man who ordered a meal before rifling the till. A coffee shop at 1109 North Western avenue was invaded by two armed men who locked Raymond Mullin, waiter, in a rear room and escaped with $15. P. W. Fisher, garage owner at 317 North Meyers street, reported that he was robbed of $19 by two Mexicans who held him up at his place of business.

K. Kodamm of 1575 West Thirty-fifth Place lost $125 to three men who held him up near his home early yesterday, he reported to police.

The proprietor of a gasoline filling station at Ocean avenue and Washington Boulevard reported to police that two motorists robbed him of $90 after first ordering their tank filled.

Drug-store proprietors reporting robberies yesterday are G. L. Dumpert, 2644 West Pico Boulevard, who lost $20 to two men, and R. S. Johns, 2432 South San Pedro street, who was held up by an armed man who took $50 and a quantity of narcotics.

Two purse-snatching victims who reported losses to police are Mrs. M. Pynoos of 2424 Longwood avenue, robbed near her home of her purse containing $350 in checks, and Mrs. A. Morris, robbed of $50 near Central avenue and Thirty-second street.

Elsie Oldfield, clerk in a Westwood Village laundry, reported a loss of $25 to an armed bandit who held her up in the laundry office Saturday night.

CONFESSION REPORTED

Two asserted bandits held in custody by police confessed yesterday, according to Detective Lieutenants Swindle, Burris and Beeson of the robbery detail, that they committed twenty-two robberies during the last two months.

John R. Williams, 28 years of age, of 158 North Douglas street, was arrested on information given police by a young woman living at the same address who said she was held up on the night of November 22, last, while sitting in a parked car with three friends near her home. She later thought she recognized Williams as the bandit, she said.

Following questioning of Williams, the arresting officers took into custody William La Rue, 24, a friend of the first prisoner, at Glendale Boulevard and Patton street.

A public showing of the pair together with others held on robbery charges will be held at Central Police Station tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. when hold-up victims may view the prisoners.

Timekeeper Vanishes and Arouses Fear

Fearing foul play, the manager of a contracting and building concern reported to police yesterday that Edwin M. Hart, 33-year-old timekeeper, has been missing since Saturday afternoon. Hart carried $675 in cash and $1075 in checks when he left the concern's offices at Sixth and Main streets Saturday, and police believe he may have been the victim of bandits.

According to Milton C. Shedd, manager for Robert McKee, employer of the missing man, Hart was last seen in a restaurant near Sixth and Main streets Saturday afternoon. Since that time he has not been heard from at his home, 3450 Fourth street, or at his office.

A scheme whereby F. T. Thomas, 43 years of age, telephone lineman, collected $33 "for expenses" from each applicant who answered an advertisement for men to go to South America, brought him a ninety-day jail sentence in Municipal Judge Curtis's court. Detective Lieutenant Mollinette, who arrested Thomas, reported that he had victimized several men, telling them that the $33 was needed for a passport fee and other expenses and that he would return it on the boat at San Pedro just before they sailed. Thomas pleaded guilty to a petty theft charge.

How He Made Fortune Out of First $2 Recounted

Family Decides Los Angeles Best Place to Live

Two dollars' worth of second-rate flowers, plus determination and a whole lot of hard work, almost made a millionaire of Frank Dostal, known in New York as "the Mayor of Avenue B."

Dostal himself told the story yesterday when he arrived in Los Angeles on the Golden State Limited. In his party were Mrs. Dostal and his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Dostal, and the "Mayor's" first act when he leaped off the train was to discard the heavy overcoat he wore.

"We're here to spend the rest of our days," Dostal exclaimed. "I've made all the money I'll ever need and sunny California looks mighty good to me. I'm going to buy a home and here the Dostals will remain."

The story of how he almost made a million with his original capital of $2 was not told in a boastful spirit.

Briefly narrated, his business career was launched at 10 years of age, when he took a job which paid him $1.50 per week. Out of this sum, in a few weeks, he managed to lay aside $2 and this he invested in a bouquet which a neighborhood florist was about to toss into the ash can.

Young Dostal bought the posies, freshened them up with water, and sold them at a profit. Then he bought another bouquet, likewise ready for the discard, and rang up sale No. 2. By the time he had closed his tenth transaction his capital had increased to a point where he could buy better flowers and make larger profits.

That was thirty-eight years ago. In the meantime he has built up what is said to be one of the largest retail florist concerns in the United States and recently he decided he had piled up enough profits. He talked it over with his wife and children and they decided California was the ideal spot.

The title of "Mayor of Avenue B" was conferred upon Dostal because of his generosity to the poor of his district.

HUNT BEGUN FOR MISSING STAGE MAN

Ralph Farnum Sought as Sequel to Finding One of Burros Loose in Desert

Police are endeavoring to ascertain the whereabouts of Ralph G. Farnum, 40 years of age, New York theatrical manager and agent, reputed to have business connections here and thought to have lived here recently.

According to a telegram received yesterday from Sheriff Goper of Death Valley Junction, Farnum left that place early in November with a pack train, saying that he was going into the desert for the benefit of his health. Authorities there became alarmed for Farnum's welfare Saturday when, according to the telegram, one of his pack-train burros was found wandering near Furnace Creek.

Since the supposedly missing man had not been seen at Death Valley Junction since his departure last month it is thought he may have returned to Los Angeles. Friends here are asked to communicate with police if they know where Farnum can be found.

Woman Flyer Will Attempt Climb Record

In an attempt to fly higher than any other woman ever flew an airplane—27,418 feet—Juanita Burns, local pilot, expects to pilot a Barling low-winged open monoplane from Lincoln Air Lines field, 3781 Crenshaw Boulevard, after a take-off at 10 a.m. on the 28th inst., it was announced yesterday.

Mrs. Burns said last night that she plans to start altitude tests on her ship today and that it will be powered for the record attempt flight with either a Kinner or Warner engine.

An electrically heated flying suit, oxygen tanks and a barograph will be some of the extra equipment on the climb.

The present record was established on March 25, last, by Miss Elinor Smith. The record for light planes, 20,000 feet, was set by the late Ruth Alexander on July 5, last.

Mrs. Burns has been flying here for nearly two years and came into public notice by locating from the air the wreck of a lost transport plane in the San Bernardino Mountains after nearly fifty men flyers had scoured the district for several days.
